Survey shows most GOP governors back Ford

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — An overwhelming majority of Republican governors surveyed say they support President Ford in his 1976 bid for the White House. But there appear to be enough doubts among the state executives to make the Republican Governors Association's winter conference a lively gathering.

At least 10 of the nation's 13 GOP governors along with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller are expected to attend the three-day conference when it opens Thursday with an agenda focusing on the energy crisis, federal revenue sharing and rising crime.

Eight of 10 Republican governors contacted by The Associated Press said they are supporting Ford for the nomination. One GOP governor was noncommital, although known to admire former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, and another supports Reagan's candidacy.

The vice president is scheduled to arrive late Thursday, address a business session Friday morning and depart about noon Friday.

President Ford was invited but informed host Gov. Robert F. Bennett of Kansas about two weeks ago he couldn't make it. Rockefeller already was scheduled long before that.

The governor who was noncommital on supporting Ford, Gov. James B. Edwards of South Carolina, said, "It is still far too early to make a formal commitment because all potential candidates have not made their intentions known."

Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, the only Republican governor in the Northeast, is on record opposing Ford's candidacy and staunchly supporting Reagan.

One other governor hedged slightly. "I am on record as saying I will support President Ford if his administration continues to perform in the positive way that it has in recent months," said Gov. Otis R. Bowen of Indiana.

Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond said he is endorsing Ford's candidacy and isn't likely to switch to Reagan, but confirmed Reagan likely would draw substantial voter support in his state.

Three of the Republican governors mentioned as potential Ford running mates all support him. They are Robert Ray of Iowa, Christopher Bond of Missouri and Dan Evans of Washington.

"I have no problem with supporting him," said Bond. "I won't make a formal pledge of support, however, until the appropriate time."

"I think he's our best chance for victory next November, and I'm not one to drop a potential victor," said Kansas' Bennett.

Two big-state GOP governors also expressed support for Ford, Ohio's James A. Rhodes and Michigan's William Milliken.

However, Milliken had reservations about Rockefeller's withdrawal.

"I believe it will be a loss to the President and the country for Nelson Rockefeller not to be on the ticket, but I also have believed that President Ford could get the nomination regardless of whether Nelson Rockefeller is his choice," Milliken said.

Rhodes said no one runs for the vice presidency. "The choice is up to the President, and it's too soon to speculate about it," he said.

Evans confirmed Rockefeller's withdrawal "has caused concern" among Washington Republicans, but Edwards' assessment in South Carolina was that it "can only help Ford."

Ford again rejects U.S. aid for NYC

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford refused again today to offer New York City any hope of federal bailout aid and instead urged the city and New York state to continue to work toward fiscal responsibility.

"I am convinced that if New York continues to move toward fiscal responsibility, all parties concerned can look forward to a satisfactory resolution despite the current obstacles," Ford said in a five-paragraph statement.

If the city and state continue to make progress, Ford said, "I will review the situation early next week to see if any legislation is appropriate at the federal level."

Nessen said the President did not have any specific legislation in mind, but the statement said the bailout bill now before the House of Representatives to provide a loan guarantee of about $3 billion dollars "is irrelevant" and "I would veto it."

Many New Yorkers have held out some hope that Ford would ease his stand on federal aid to their fiscally troubled city.

Ford's statement was promised Tuesday after the President met with his economic advisors and with Republican members of the New York congressional delegation.

There also were these developments:

—The House of Representatives today begins floor debate on a package that would grant federal loan guarantees of $7 billion over a 24-year period and would give a five-member federal board certain powers in running the city; and amendments in the bankruptcy law that would allow the city to petition a court for bankruptcy without the consent of 51 per cent of its creditors.

The aid proposal will face a floor amendment that would reduce the loan guarantees to $3 billion over seven years and limit the federal board's power over day-to-day operations.

—Philadelphia officials said they blame New York City's financial problems for Philadelphia's inability to sell a $25-million bond package Tuesday. The city had two banking syndicates bidding for the package that carried a 9.5 percent rate of interest but both withdrew their bids at the last minute.

Philadelphia Finance Director Lennox Moak said the New York crisis "continues to haunt us" but he said the city will try again to sell the bonds to avoid a cash shortage.

—Although there were statements from members of Congress and administration officials that Ford's views were conditioned on the assumption that the New York State legislature would take action to raise revenues and cut expenses, the state Assembly met for five minutes in Albany Tuesday without considering any of the legislation designed to deal with the fiscal crisis.

The brief meeting allowed the legislators to collect their $40-a-day expense allowance.

—Prices of bonds and notes issued by the city, state and Municipal Assistance Corp. climbed Tuesday for the fourth consecutive trading session in anticipation of federal aid.

—Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., split with Ford's earlier stand and said he would now support predefault aid for New York City if the city and state comply with the conditions outlined by state offcials to deal with the fiscal crisis.

After meeting with Ford, Congressman Peyser said the New York legislature, Ford and Congress are playing "chicken with each other to see who is going to move first ... playing with the lives of millions of people in New York."

2 runaways held in area holdups

Two runaway teenagers from Indiana who used a shotgun to rob a 7-Eleven Market in Pomona late Tuesday night were caught by La Verne police a few minutes later after they held up another 7-Eleven in San Dimas.

The pair, one 17 and one 16, were captured near San Dimas Road and Allen Avenue by officers John Ortega and James Royal after an automobile pursuit from the market at 660 E. Foothill Blvd.

Ortega caught one youth near their car and Royal chased the second on foot before catching him in a tract of new homes.

Inside the youths' car officers reported finding cash drawers taken from the two stores, ski masks worn during the holdups, and a 12-gauge, sawed-off shotgun. The teenagers were turned over to sheriff's deputies, who booked them on suspicion of robbery at the San Dimas Station.

The first holdup occurred just before midnight at the 7-Eleven Market in Pomona at 803 E. Mission Blvd. Two employes, Charles L. Anthony, 34, Pomona, and Michael L. Robinson, 17, Chino, told police that two armed youths wearing ski masks ran inside the store, threatened them and fled to a car with the drawer from the cash register. Anthony said one robber held the muzzle of the shotgun two feet from his head during the holdup.

Pomona police broadcast their description and that of the car and Ortega and Royal noticed the vehicle parked at the market just outside the western city limits of La Verne.

As Ortega and Royal attempted to alert sheriff's deputies, the pair entered, robbed the place, returned to the car and sped away southbound in San Dimas Canyon Road. The La Verne officers pursued them and made the arrests.

Officers said the pair are runaways from Indianapolis and declined to identify them because of their ages.

Riverside area has light jolt

RIVERSIDE (AP) — A light earthquake rippled across portions of Riverside and San Bernardino counties Tuesday but there were no reports of damage.

The 8:04 a.m. quake, centered 12 miles west of Riverside in the Mira Loma area, was listed at 3.0 on the Richter scale.

Police reported they received a few phone calls from alarmed citizens in the Riverside-Fontana area, but said none of the callers reported property damages.

Temperature drops to 36

The weather brought a prelude to the winter today, dropping morning temperatures to 36 degrees, the lowest of the season in the valley.

But the weatherman says the mercury should rise somewhat today, dipping to a low of 42 tonight. The high for both today and Thursday is forecast at near 70.

Mild Santa Ana wind conditions which will break up any possible smog formations are predicted for both days, with variable high clouds.

For the long term, the National Weather Service predicts increasing cloudiness for Friday and Saturday with possible showers.

Panel hears FBI plan to wreck King

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI conducted a six-year campaign to destroy Martin Luther King Jr. as a leader of the civil rights movement, according to evidence made public by the Senate intelligence committee.

Evidence released Tuesday showed FBI bugging of King's hotel room, a blackmail attempt which King interpreted as a suggestion that he kill himself shortly before he was to receive the Nobel Peace Prize, and an effort to find and promote a replacement for King as a "national Negro leader."

One document raised the possibility that the FBI was responsible for King's checking in to the Memphis hotel where he was killed in 1968.

High-ranking FBI officials are scheduled to appear before the committee today to be questioned about what Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., called an historic revelation of widespread, illegal conduct by the nation's chief law enforcement agency.

Chief counsels F. A. O. Schwarz III and Curtis R. Smothers told the committee the campaign began with a January 1962 memo in which Hoover concluded that King was "no good." The campaign escalated sharply after the August 1963 civil rights march on Washington despite a determination by agents just prior to the march that the Communist party had "failed dismally" in its efforts to infiltrate the movement lead by King, the lawyers said.

The finding that Communists had failed to infiltrate the civil rights movement was rejected by Hoover with the notation, "Time will only prove you're wrong," according to a series of memos read by the staff.

Several days after the march, William C. Sullivan, chief of the FBI domestic intelligence division, responded with a note that read "the director is correct . . . We regret greatly the memo did not measure up to the standards that the director had every right to expect."

Another memo followed, recommending increased coverage of Communist influence in the civil rights movement, to which Hoover responded, "I can't understand how you can so quickly switch your thinking."

Ten days after than an unofficial memo written by Sullivan stated "it is obvious to us now we did not put the proper interpretation on the facts .... We regard Martin Luther King to be the most dangerous and effective Negro leader in the country."

That memo was followed by a December 1963 meeting at which bureau officials discussed a total of 21 different tactics for dealing with King, including "the possibility of placing a good looking female plant in King's office," staff lawyers said.

One month later the first of 16 electronic bugs and eight wiretaps on King was installed, according to the lawyers.

Another London terror blast; 2 die, 20 hurt

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard launched a dragnet today for three men and a "pretty girl with long blonde hair" suspected of bombing a London restaurant with an "anarchist type" device that spewed ball bearings, nuts and bolts, killing two persons and injuring 20.

The bomb exploded Tuesday night among 70 persons in Walton's in Chelsea, one of the most expensive restaurants in the capital, killing a jeweler and the wife of a real estate developer. An American woman, Barbara Matthews, 39, of New York City, was among the injured.

Scotland Yard said it had statements from more than one witness describing the four terrorists running away and driving off, seconds after the bomb crashed through a window, landed on a table and blew up. The car they drove was a blue, British-made Singer, which went out of production about five years ago.

One witness said he had to jump aside to avoid being run down by the car. He said "the front passenger was a pretty girl with long, blonde hair. They all looked fairly grim."

Bomb squad officers described the bomb as "an anarchist type, with a spluttering fuse of the kind used to light fireworks." One witness said the bomb lay for a moment on a table "fizzing and sparkling, then there was an almighty boom and everything went black."

It was the 14th terrorist bombing in the London area in three months and raised the toll to eight dead and nearly 200 injured. The bombings are blamed on the Irish Republican Army, which has been fighting a guerrilla war to oust Britain from Northern Ireland.

Gov. Brown says he will offer balanced budget, no new taxes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says he will present a balanced state budget to the legislature in January, and that it can be enacted without new taxes.

But, Brown added during an impromptu news conference Tuesday, "this year may be tougher than last year."

That means even more belt-tightening in some areas than the Democratic governor demanded in his first penny-pinching budget this year.

Brown added that he is working hard to equally distribute among state agencies the burden of cutting costs and attempting to accomplish more with fewer resources.

"It's just a fact of life that people are going to have to get used to living within the resources that the people make available (to state government)," Brown said.

"I have not yet detected the kind of groundswell for additional taxation that I think is a precondition for going back to the people to shell out more dollars for the relentless growth of state services," he continued.

Brown began a week-long series of intensive briefings on his 1976-77 budget Monday. But he would not reveal details.

He also did not define exactly what he meant by the comment that things will be tougher in 1976, except that there are still demands for more state services than the state can possibly provide.

"It will be tougher in that the economy has come back a little bit, but the demands have not abated in many sectors," Brown said.

"You'll find that this budget will not require new taxes, that we will ask all to sacrifice equally, and we'll take a little from each so we can all get through next year," he added.

Asked whether he would veto a proposed increase in the seven-cent-a-gallon state gasoline tax to finance more highway construction, Brown replied:

Asked about reports that the legislature may override his veto on that issue, Brown said he wasn't worried.

"If the legislature believes so strongly in taxing the people that they're ready to override my veto, then so be it. That's a co-equal branch, and I respect their authority. But if anyone wants my opinion, the tax will not in any way affect the level of abuse of alcohol in this state," Brown said.

Youngsters lose 'grandparents' to Cupid

COSTA MESA (AP) — Two children at Fairview State Hospital will be getting new "grandparents" soon, because grandma and grandpa have decided to get married and move away.

That's the way it was explained to Tammy and Jean Marie, both 12, when their "foster grandmother," Esther Gershen, 64, of Anaheim, decided to marry a "foster grandfather," Walter Fry, 72, of Huntington Beach.

The couple met while participating in the hospital's federally funded foster grandparents program. They fell in love. The four children are happy for them, but sad to see them go.

"I've been sitting on a bench with Tammy for the last two days," said Mrs. Gershen. "When she understood, she walked away as if to say, 'If you're going to go, go now.' That's her way of telling me she can't handle something. She walks away.

"It'll be a little more difficult for Jean Marie. She's not as outgoing as Tammy. That's one of the things I was trying to work with her on."

Fry, who left last July on a job-hunting trip to Spokane, said his two boys "had seemed to sense something was wrong. They'd come up in the morning and say, grandpa, me, me, me!"

Mrs. Gershen, a widow, and Fry, a retired volunteer fire chief from Mead, Wash., will be married Friday in the hospital chapel with all the grandchildren in attendance. The chaplain will perform the ceremony.

"We wanted to marry sooner, but I was told that if you get married they take off $50 a month in your Social Security (benefits)," said Mrs. Gershen.

They considered ignoring their conventional upbringing — she's Jewish and he's Methodist — and just moving in together "like some other couples do," she said, but they couldn't get over feeling it was somehow wrong.

In Spokane, Fry became a security guard and found a hospital for the mentally retarded where Esther can work.

"He finally wrote to me and said, 'Esther, I think we can make it now,'" she said.

The $171,303-a-year Fairview program gives 65 low-income pensioners two "grandchildren," institutionalized because of mental retardation or emotional problems.

There are about 800 eligible children, but the program has been limited by budget to just 130, Eileen Cunningham, program director, said Tuesday, adding that more positions may soon become available.

Each grandparent receives $1.60 an hour for 20 hours' work a week. "But it really helps the children, too, especially the ones who are withdrawn. The one-to-one relationship really brings them out of their shell," Mrs. Cunningham said.

In some cases, she said, the children have improved sufficiently so they can go back to their parents or into foster homes.

The two foster grandparents will be replaced quickly. There is a waiting list, said Mrs. Cunningham.

"The program offers a stepping stone for senior citizens who want better jobs. It's pure fulfillment for others," she said.

Supervisors challenging oil leases

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county board of supervisors has voted to join in a lawsuit to challenge federal government plans to sell oil leases on 1.25 million acres of California offshore area.

The supervisors voted 4-1 Tuesday to join a coalition of 40 Southern California cities and counties, which has announced plans to file suit aimed at stopping the scheduled Dec. 11 start of lease sales.

And if no action is actually taken by the coalition, the board action Tuesday directed the county counsel file suit on behalf of the county alone.

The area to be sold for drilling includes much of the Southern California coast although the the Santa Monica Bay area and a wildlife area on the south shore of San Miguel Island have been exempted.

U.S. District Court Judge David W. Williams ruled Monday on a state suit that the sale may begin because U.S. Interior Department impact studies were adequate and filed in time. He said oil industry technology had made great strides in platform drilling to guard against the threat of spills.

Supervisor Pete Schabarum opposed the motion saying the issue of environmental impact was resolved in the federal ruling and that there is a pressing need for added petroleum resources.

But James Hayes, the supervisors chairman who made the motion, declared, "This is not the 19th century where the robber barons can drill a hole anywhere they please, pollute the environment and get away with it."

Hayes said the federal department did not consider either environmental problems or the onshore impact of the proposed drilling.

He called federal action "high handed."

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn called proposals for oil companies to pay a one-sixth royalty "ridiculously low." The board voted 4-1 on a motion by Hahn to urge increasing the royalties to 50 per cent to be split up evenly among federal, county and state governments.

Judge refuses delay in Sara Moore trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge, insisting "there is no reason people can't do things faster," has refused to delay the Dec. 15 trial of Sara Jane Moore, charged with trying to kill President Ford.

"There's no reason this case can't go to trial Dec. 15," said U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti. "Everyone knows that attorneys don't work from 9 to 5. They work 24 hours a day."

The judge was unmoved by arguments Tuesday from public defender James Hewitt, who said he would not have enough time to prepare Mrs. Moore's defense.

The 45-year-old Mrs. Moore, a one-time bookkeeper and FBI informer, submitted to psychiatric tests for several weeks after her arrest Sept. 22 for allegedly firing a shot at President Ford outside the St. Francis Hotel here. Hewitt sought to have this time exempt from the 90-day limit in which she must be brought to trial after arraignment under the federal Speedy Trial Act.

Hewitt won a somewhat favorable decision on this point last week from the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals which held that a trial judge may, at his discretion, exempt time for psychiatric testing from the federal act.

Ironically, that decision won a delay for another celebrated defendant, Patricia Hearst. Guided by the appellate court ruling, Chief U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter postponed her bank robbery trial from Dec. 15 to Jan. 26.

In his motion for continuance, Hewitt said that medical records of Mrs. Moore's prior history of mental illness — which will influence her defense strategy — have not been located.

He also contended it would be difficult to find a fair and impartial jury willing to serve in the week just before Christmas.

The judge was unmoved, saying Congress had provided no exemption for holidays in the Speedy Trial Act.

Mrs. Moore sat quietly at the counsel table, smiling occasionally during the hearing.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Steele Langford conceded there would be problems for both sides in meeting the deadline, particularly if Mrs. Moore presents a psychiatric defense. In that case, both sides would want psychiatrists to examine her before trial.

But Langford added, "The government can be ready to go to trial on schedule."

Younger wants new system for sentencing criminals

SAN DIEGO (AP)—California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger says he will seek an end to the system of indeterminate prison sentences, pioneered in the state.

Younger told a news conference Tuesday too many violent criminals are being released from prison in the belief that they are rehabilitated. Instead, they commit more violent crimes, he added.

"Our records indicate we're releasing dangerous, violent people," he said. "We've reached the point where the law-abiding citizen must be considered. We have to change our whole approach so far as the handling of dangerous criminals is concerned."

Younger, a former judge, said he will ask the state legislature to abolish the Adult Authority, which determines when to set free a prisoner serving an indeterminate sentence.

He also wants state lawmakers to set exact penalties for each type of crime, as, for example, a flat, 10-year sentence, instead of six months to life.

"It should not be an unreasonable penalty, but it should be a certain penalty," said Younger.

The attorney general said some latitude in sentencing should be available for first-time offenders,but not for those with a record of violent crimes.

Younger asserted prisoners themselves would prefer fixed sentences because they would then be more certain about their future.

Reagan campaign forces gearing up for test of voter strength

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — In scattered states that soon will be political battlegrounds, Ronald Reagan's campaign forces are at work, making telephone calls, searching Republican rosters for volunteers, preparing for a test of strength with President Ford.

The Ford political apparatus is gearing up, too, after a start viewed as too slow by some of the President's allies.

So as Reagan declares his GOP presidential candidacy, both sides are hard at the political spadework that will be crucial this coming winter when the primary elections begin.

In New Hampshire, more than 7,000 telephone calls are being made each week, seeking Republican voters and volunteers for Reagan in the first of the primaries, little more than three months away.

Reagan's Florida campaign chairman forecasts a landslide victory over Ford in the March 9 primary there. A Reagan campaign lieutenant in Illinois predicts primary showings that will force Ford to quit the campaign.

All of this has happened while the former California governor was insisting he had not made up his mind whether or not to run for the Republican nomination. He stuck to that for nearly five months after giving his blessing to a Washington-based campaign committee.

Now that phase of the Reagan campaign is over, and he is announcing Thursday that he is, indeed, going to contest Ford for the GOP nomination.

Reagan's rites of candidacy begin in Washington Thursday morning, and take him to Miami, Manchester, N.H., Charlotte, N.C., Chicaogo and Los Angeles, on an inaugural campaign tour that ends Friday night.

The Miami to Manchester route, with selected stops in between, will be familiar to Reagan by mid-winter. Those states, plus North Carolina and Illinois, are crucial to him.

He has to win, or come very close to it, along that early primary election route if he is to build the momentum it will take to convince establishment - minded Republicans they should drop an appointed, incumbent President in favor of a conservative challenger.

Unless Reagan can pick up one or more outright victories in the first five primaries, he probably will be unable to maintain a meaningful campaign through the long season to the late-August Republican convention in Kansas City.

Ford campaign managers contend they can afford to lose in early primaries and still beat Reagan. One of them, Stuart Spencer, said defeats in the New Hampshire and Florida contests would not undo the Ford campaign.

As for Reagan, the Ford people argue that he has to win at the outset or forget it. "If he can't win in New Hampshire and Florida, he's got no chance," a top Ford campaign official said.

Chavez claims 1,100 firings for union work

KEENE (AP) — United Farm Workers President Cesar Chavez charges that California growers fired more than 1,100 workers for pro-union activity during the height of this fall's farm labor representation elections.

Chavez contended Tuesday that a survey by the UFW's 11 field offices shows 1,165 workers "were fired in September and October for exercising their rights" under the new secret ballot law.

The UFW has filed numerous unfair labor practice complaints involving firings it claims stemmed from workers supporting the union.

Meanwhile, the latest Associated Press tally of election results shows the UFW has victories at 162 farms involving 16,400 workers while the rival Teamsters Union has won 98 elections covering 10,500 workers. A majority of workers at 18 ranches voted for "no union representation," and 45 elections remain undecided due to uncounted challenged ballots.

Suspects in 1971 hijacking arrested Tuesday in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A man and woman charged with the Jan. 3, 1971 hijacking to Cuba of a National Airlines plane were arrested Tuesday night, the FBI announced.

Arthur James Wilson, 29, and Lolita Kay Graves, 28, both of San Diego, Calif., were arrested at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport as they left an Air Jamaica flight that landed here.

Wilson and Miss Graves were indicted in 1971 by a federal grand jury in San Diego on charges of air piracy and conspiracy in connection with the Jan. 3, 1971 hijacking of National Airlines Flight 36 from Los Angeles to Tampa, Fla.

They also were indicted on a federal charge of bond default.

Richard G. Held, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Chicago, said they had been living in Cuba for several years and attempted to relocate in another Caribbean country. The two were refused admission, though, and the airplane continued as scheduled to Chicago.

Neither person offered resistance, an FBI spokesman said.

Walk for hungry campaign raises $40,000 in pledges

Nearly $40,000 was raised by 2,000 volunteers in Sunday's 10-mile Walk for the Hungry sponsored by the Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

According to Mrs. Audrey Lightbody, the council's executive director, the sum may go even higher when all pledges are collected by the volunteer marchers. Each walker signed up backers to contribute varying sums for each mile walked.

Among those joining the march to raise funds for the hungry around the world were Rep. James Lloyd, D-35th Dist., who flew in from Washington, D.C., to participate, Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith, Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire and Upland Mayor Abner Haldeman. Councilmen from valley cities also participated.

The march started at 1 p.m. in Upland's Memorial Park on Foothill Boulevard, wound south into Ontario and then returned to the park. Refreshment stations and sign-in posts marked the route of the walkers.

Joe Van Sickle, 90, of Ontario was the oldest walker. He walked the full 10 miles, as he did last year. Two 4-year-olds, Erik Gueden and Antrese Wood, were named as the youngest participants.

The most money raised by an individual was $870 paid to the Very Rev. Msgr. William Barry of Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church.

Unless designated for a special relief group by the donor, money collected will go to the Church World Service for distribution.

Chino police chief stresses openess, honesty from dept.

Chino Police Chief Jerry Doyle, promises an open and honest Police Department because "we cannot operate in isolation."

Doyle, a guest speaker at the Monday Community Action Committee meeting, said in response to a question from a citizen, "We are not going to conduct our business behind closed doors . . . We are not going to have a whole bunch of secrecy. I'm not going to be bugging the telephones. I'm not going to be doing a whole lot of underhanded things . . . We are going to be very direct."

Doyle, who became the city's new chief of police on Nov. 3, told the residents that part of his commitment to communications between the police and its residents will involve him listing his telephone number, so residents could call him direct when needed.

Doyle said that his department would also be committed to new technology, noting that a police department must grow with the community. He pointed out that in the committment to new technology he and his officers would not forget the human element because "humans make it work."

He said as a person and as a police chief he believes in "honesty between you and me, honesty between the city employes of the Police Department and myself, honesty as far as the press is concerned. I believe in honesty."

Doyle said he had no objection to hiring women police officers if they were qualified. "I would hire the best qualified people," he said.

Doyle also expressed interest in seeking out bilingual officers and dispatchers, but noted that the city at this time is not hiring. He said he planned to take additional Spanish language classes as soon as he became established in the community, and would encourage his officers to learn Spanish to further communications with the people.

To a question raised by several residents about the police officers' right to seek out illegal immigrants like border patrolmen, Doyle responded, "The Police Department is not the immigration service. We do not go out and look for people who are illegal aliens."

He said that the Chino Police Department's policy towards illegal aliens is currently under review and invited any of the citizens with information about officers' activities with illegal aliens to meet with him personally to discuss the matter.

Doyle told members of the CAC and residents that he hoped to be attending the organization's meetings as often as possible as well as a number of other community organizations. He agreed to attend a CAC potluck dinner on Saturday.

In other business the CAC announced that 5,000 persons have visited since the new community center opened a month ago. One of the most successful events at the center thus far, according to CAC officers, was a Halloween party that brought nearly 800 children and adults to the center. The CAC noted that there were no incidents with the many youths attending.

Currently the CAC is studying its new bylaws introduced by the bylaws committee chaired by Richard Barboza. The acceptance of the bylaws will precede incorporation of the committee in the City of Chino as sought by the residents.

Construction unions could halt all site work

Solons backed by labor hold key to strike bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unofficial tally shows organized labor gave $1.4 million in 1974 political donations to many Senators whose votes have now helped virtually assure passage of a bill sought by construction unions.

The bill is up for amendments and a possible final vote today after backers marshalled two more than the 60 votes needed Tuesday to cut off a week-long filibuster against the controversial measure.

The bill would allow a striking construction union to picket an entire building site, even though the union is striking only one subcontractor. If trades unions working for other subcontractors honored such picket lines, a lone striking union could close down an entire building site. Such "common sites" picketing has been outlawed for 25 years as an illegal secondary boycott.

The controversial measure attracted lobbying from opponents who also contributed money to congressmen and senators who opposed the bill.

The measure passed the House in July. President Ford has indicated he will sign it under certain conditions.

Computer printouts from the citizen lobby Common Cause gave this picture:

—Of the 62 senators who voted to end the filibuster against the bill, 26 got union money totaling $1,403,504 during the 1974 election season.

—Of the 37 who voted against ending the filibuster, five got labor donations totalling $44,350, about 3 per cent of the donations given to those who voted in opposition to the measure.

Almost without exception, the 31 senators who received labor money last year were among the one-third of the Senate that was up for election in 1974. The other two-thirds normally would not receive political contributions until they faced an election.

Common Cause says its computerized list is being checked for accuracy and may contain some errors, but is believed by lobby officials to be substantially accurate. It covers all donations listed by nationally registered political committees for the period Sept. 1, 1973, to Dec. 31, 1974.

An AP sampling of union donations during 1975, based on original reports by 18 AFL-CIO political committees, shows the lopsided pattern of giving is continuing into the 1976 election race.

The tally for 1975 shows $118,623 to 20 senators who voted for ending the filibuster while about one-tenth of that total, or $11,950, went to five senators who voted against ending the filibuster.

Tuesday's vote to end the filibuster was the second try. Last week a cloture effort failed by two votes. The four senators whose votes made the difference on the second try included Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., who was absent last week but who helped cut off the filibuster Tuesday.

Montoya faces re-election next year and has gathered $7,100 in early-bird donations from a half dozen labor groups in the AP's sample.

Another key vote was that of Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who first voted in favor of continuing the filibuster but who switched on Tuesday and voted on labor's side. Long got $28,300 in labor gifts for his 1974 re-election and roughly the same amount from business-related groups, the Common Cause printout said.

Backers of the bill say it was unfair of the National Labor Relations Board and the Supreme Court to outlaw common sites picketing in construction in the first place.

They say that even when several independent subcontractors are working on the same job, they are effectively in a joint venture and make up a single employer.

Opponents say the bill will only increase the bargaining power of construction unions whose wage gains, even without common sites picketing, have historically outpaced those of other unions.

The opponents denounce the bill as a power grab by organized labor, and predict increased unemployment and inflation.

Passage of the bill is a top priority of the AFL-CIO, whose president, George Meany, wrote a personal letter to senators supporting it. It is opposed by such business groups as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers and contractor groups.

WON'T LET HIM GO

Harvey Kelber Jr., 10, stands between his grandparents, Nelson and Elizabeth Kelber. His parents want him back but his grandparents fear the youth will be beaten again. The boy was put in their custody nine years ago after two beating episodes.

Grandparents face kidnaping count over boy beaten by dad

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — An Ohio couple, granted custody of their grandson after he was severely beaten by his father, faces abduction charges for fleeing to Florida after officials ordered the boy returned to his parents.

Nelson Kelber, 57, and his wife, Elizabeth, 55, are awaiting Gov. Reubin Askew's decision on whether to extradite them to Ohio where they face a possible 15-year jail sentence if convicted on the abduction charges.

The elder Kelbers fled Ohio after a municipal court ordered in August 1974 that their grandson, Harvey Jr., then 9, be returned to Harvey and Andrea Kelber of Painesville, Ohio, for at least 30 days. The court said that would give the boy a chance to know his real parents.

"We're mother and dad to him," said Elizabeth Kelber, who expressed fear the boy would be beaten if returned to the parents.

The youth was turned over to the grandparents nine years ago after suffering two broken legs, rib and skull fractures and a torn windpipe in two beatings. The father was convicted of child abuse.

Lake County, Ohio, prosecutor Paul H. Mitrovich said the court can't deal in the possibility of a repetition of child abuse.

"A psychiatrist can say this may happen in 95 or 50 per cent of the cases, but that can't be admitted as evidence," Mitrovich said. "It simply depends on who you want to believe. The grandparents are operating emotionally and outside the law.

"I've had cases where a child has been given back to his parents after eight years and the child has flourished," Mitrovich said.

He said the child was technically in the care of the welfare department when Nelson Kelber and his wife took him out of Ohio.

"The courts and everybody in this county all seem to be in our favor," said Andrea Kelber, 32. "We just want a chance for him to be here so we can be friends. I don't think it would be so hard."

She said her husband, now 33, has worked out his problems and won't abuse the boy. The couple has another child who has been unharmed.

Nelson said there is expert testimony showing a drastic reduction in repeats of child abuse after a child reaches an age at which he can communicate.

The elder Kelbers, rejected twice in attempts to adopt the boy, said doctors warned them undue trauma could adversely affect the youth.

"The child would crawl under the davenport when someone came to the door, thinking they were there to take him away," recalled Mrs. Kelber.

Attorney John Nelson of Painesville has charged the grandparents with attempting to alienate the child from his parents, who have battled to regain custody for five years.

He said the grandparents refused repeated attempts to have themselves and the boy examined by an independent psychiatrist and were held in contempt of court on several occasions while they were still living in Ohio for obstructing parental visits.

Cleaver due in state to face charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Resigned to the possible imprisonment that he eluded for seven years as a fugitive abroad, Eldridge Cleaver, the once strident Black Panther information director, was to be taken to California today to faces charges of parole violation and assault.

Cleaver was immediately arrested by FBI agents during a prearranged surrender Tuesday evening when he arrived from Paris aboard a Trans World Airlines jet. He said he had made no deal with the authorities.

On his transatlantic flight, Cleaver was "unofficially" accompanied by three FBI agents, and at Kennedy Airport he was met by three more. As the one-time revolutionary sped through customs, agents formed a human barrier against some 75 shoving and shouting reporters who mobbed the area, trying to interview him.

Cleaver, 39, was handcuffed and arraigned at U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, despite his attorney's objections that the handcuffs were unnecessary since Cleaver had returned voluntarily to this country to face the charges against him.

"I think a situation exists in the country now where I can have my day in court," Cleaver told newsmen in explanation for his return.

In 1968, Cleaver was paroled from prison after serving nine years of a 14-year term for assault with intent to kill in California. He was rearrested a short time later following a shootout between Oakland police and the Black Panthers.

Scheduled to surrender Nov. 27 of that year for re-imprisonment on parole violation charges, Cleaver says he was already in Montreal by then, the first stop in a fugitive odyssey that took him to Cuba, Russia, North Korea, Algeria and France, among others.

In a letter published Tuesday in the New York Times, Cleaver declared:

"With all its faults, the American political system is the freest and most democratic in the world. The system needs to be improved, with democracy spread to all areas of life, particularly the economic.

"All these changes must be conducted through our established institutions and people with grievances must find political methods for obtaining redress."

Senate slashes defense funding by $8.3 billion

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate agree on closing the nation's only antiballistic missile base but congressional conferees still face 215 points of disagreement on defense spending and one big dispute with President Ford over total arms costs.

The $112.6-billion Senate defense bill, passed 87 to 7 Tuesday, is $8.3 billion less than Ford asked. The figure covers appropriations for the 15 months ending Sept. 30, 1976.

The House earlier voted $111.8 billion for the same period.

Ford has insisted repeatedly that his defense budget had little fat to trim. However, the bill's supporters made no mention of any threatened veto.

The Senate rejected, 55 to 38, a last-minute effort by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., to slash another $568 million from the bill.

Eagleton said the military has become such a spendthrift that the effectiveness of U.S. forces has been reduced. Sophisticated weapons "have given rise to the mistaken notion that automated, push-button wars are feasible ... and they have spawned the erroneous idea that machines, not people, win wars," he said.

Eagleton said the Pentagon is "infatuated with gadgetry" and is depleting scarce resources.

But Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, argued the budget has been cut to the bone and said only the defense posture of the United States protects the world against "the unholy ambitions of some other country."

The Senate bill remained virtually in the same form as approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee. But that panel made more than 200 changes in the House bill.

Officers wait, seize fugitive in the shower

A man wanted on a federal warrant for murder, assault and robbery from Ohio was interrupted while taking a shower and arrested by West End sheriff's deputies and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in an Upland home Tuesday evening.

FBI agents, and sheriff's deputies armed with shotguns and rifles rushed a home at Mountain Lane and 25th Street in Upland and took custody of Ralph Francis Garduno, 38.

Garduno has been sought by federal authorities since Oct. 13, 1967 when he allegedly shot it out with two Canton, Ohio police officers during a supermarket robbery. Both Canton police officers were wounded in the shootout and Garduno, also known as Raymond Dowd, escaped.

In February 1975 the U.S. Board of Parole from Kansas City, Mo., issued another warrant for Garduno for the alleged execution style murder of a Carl Neolecky and the wounding of James Krug in Portage and Stark Counties, Ohio.

West End sheriff's deputies developed information that a man matching Garduno's description was living in the Upland home. Deputies and FBI agents with the cooperation of local residents Tuesday began a surveillence of the home. Using an old photograph of Garduno and sophisticated spotting scopes, they identified the man as the federal fugitive.

Agents and deputies were advised that the fugitive on two occasions had taken hostages and shot it out with police attempting to take him into custody.

The officers, fearing that Garduno might take a hostage if he were called out, decided to bide their time until the right moment. About 5:30 p.m., as Garduno stepped into a shower inside the home, the officers made their move. Within minutes agents, backed by sheriff's deputies rushed the home and once inside, ordered Garduno out of the shower. Garduno, clad only in a bath towel, surrendered without resistance.

Deputies and agents rushed Garduno to the West End sheriff's substation where he was officially turned over to federal authorities.

Donald Hugh Hardesty, 20, arrested last week after allegedly attempting to extort $20,000 from a Montclair businessman, will stand preliminary hearing Thursday in West Valley Municipal Court.

Samuel Franklin Hardesty, 30, of Pomona, arrested along with his brother in the alleged plot, has since been released.

On campus

THE CHICANO Studies Center of the Claremont Colleges will sponsor a film about the United Farm Workers Association with Cesar Chavez on Thursday at 7 p.m. in Garrison Theater, Claremont.

The film is free and open to the public but a donation will be asked.

LOMA LINDA University will sponsor a series of lectures by Wolfhart Pannenberg, professor of systematic theology at the University of Munich, Germany.

Pannenberg will speak on the La Sierra campus of the university on Thursday at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. On Friday at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., he will appear on the Loma Linda campus.

His last talk, "Questions about the Resurrection," will be Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Loma Linda University chapel.

Ski fashions

Pomona Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor its annual ski equipment and fashion show Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Palomartees Community Center.

Azusa man, 44, kills himself

An Azusa area man, despondent over marital problems, killed himself with a large-caliber rifle late Tuesday night, sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, James Mathews, 44, was found dead by deputies inside his home at 18639 E. Laxford St. after his estranged wife called them. She said Mathews had called her, telling her he planned to kill himself.

Deputies found the victim lying in bed with the rifle beside him. He had been shot once in the chest.

Hospital deaths: 2 more cases of pulled plugs

'I was not killing the patient. I was simply turning off the machine'

LONDON (AP) — Playwright Tom Stoppard's doctor wife told on a television program Tuesday night of unplugging life-saving equipment so that a patient with severe brain damage could die.

Miriam Stoppard, 37, said the patient was a 27-year-old seaman who suffered cardiac arrest while having a tooth extracted under general anesthetic. He was a patient in her ward at the Royal Victoria Infirmary in Newcastle with machinery supporting his heart and other vital organs.

"The consensus of the many experts was that he was clinically dead, but nobody was prepared to turn the machinery off," said Dr. Stoppard.

"One morning after giving it a lot of thought, I got up and turned the machines off. I was not killing the patient, I was simply turning off the mechanism that was keeping him alive. I decided it was unnecessary and undignified."

"I shook for a long time afterwards," said the doctor, who is now medical director of a drug firm. But she said doctors do the same thing "every day of the week."

Dr. Stoppard, whose husband's play "Travesties" is the new hit of the current Broadway season, appeared on the program "The Right to Live, the Right to Die." It was put on by the Independent Television network and was inspired by the case of Karen Quinlan.

The program also told about a former army sergeant who recovered from a coma after being shot in the head in Northern Ireland and of a Scottish boy who is now back at school after days in a coma.

. . . a mother, aunt face grand jury probe of girl's death in hospital

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The mother and aunt of Maryjane Dahl are ready to testify before any grand jury investigation of the apparent mercy killing of the terminally-ill teen-ager, according to their lawyer.

"My clients will appear before any grand jury and panel, will waive immunity and will tell their story the same as they told it to the district attorney following the death of Maryjane," attorney Sidney Siben said Tuesday.

Miss Dahl, 16, suffering from meningitis, Hodgkin's disease and kidney failure, died Nov. 2 when her life-sustaining respirator was disconnected as she lay comatose in her Nassau Hospital room.

Although Siben maintains Miss Dahl's death could have been the result of an accident on the part of a hospital employe, Nassau County Medical Examiner Leslie Lukash has ruled the death homicide.

The victim's mother, Mrs. Kenneth Dahl Sarvent of Upper Nyack, N.Y., and Jane Sheehan, the aunt with whom Miss Dahl lived in Selden, N.Y, were the last visitors to her room before she died.

Both have denied any complicity in Miss Dahl's death, insisting that they left the room before nurses were summoned by an alarm that indicated the machine had stopped functioning.

Siben said they have refused to submit to lie detector tests because such tests have no validity in court.

Later this week, Nassau Dist. Atty. Denis Dillon is expected to announce whether he will take the case to the grand jury. He reportedly is studying the autopsy report and finding of homicide.

Says it may reduce some types

Cancer unit denies fluoridation link

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no evidence that fluoridated water causes cancer but there is some suggestion that high levels of natural fluoride may reduce cancers of the brain and nervous system, the National Cancer Institute says.

The institute said Tuesday that a new study "provides no support for recent claims that fluoridation of water supplies in the United States has increased the risk of cancer."

"No significant excess mortality from cancer could be detected up to 15 years after the fluoridation in areas where 95 per cent of the population had been abruptly and continuously exposed," the 17-page report said.

The National Health Federation in California earlier contended that a study of the 10 largest fluoridated and 10 largest non-fluoridated counties showed the element contributed to higher cancer rates in Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, New York and Philadelphia.

The cancer institute last May criticized the federation's statements as containing "factual errors and oversimplified data" that ignored other factors associated with cancer, including population density and ethnicity, industrial concentration, and educational achievement.

In response, government researchers last August began studying areas with both naturally and artificially fluoridated water and compared statistics there with cancer death rates over a 20-year period.

"We found no trends attributable to the consumption of water that is artificially or naturally fluoridated," the cancer institute reported.

The report said that after demographic variables were accounted for "the presence or absence of fluoride made no statistically significant contribution for any site, other than stomach cancer. Stomach cancer is known to have a relationship with specific ethnic groups.

"A finding of possible importance," the report added, "was the reduced mortality from cancers of the brain and nervous system in communities with high levels of natural fluoride."

"This finding may be due to chance, because of the multiple comparisons made in this analysis, but additional observations in other areas seem indicated," the study said.

Thousands of communities across the country have fluoridated their water supplies at the urging of medical and dental groups who say the element can cut dental cavities by two-thirds.

By the end of 1972, according to the Public Health Service, virtually every state had natural or added fluoride in its water.

Storm spreads snow, rain from Rockies to Plains

By The Associated Press

A developing winter storm brought snow and rain to much of the nation's heartland today while rather pleasant November weather continued elsewhere.

The storm developing in the Rockies and Plains brought snow from southern Montana to northern New Mexico. The snow spread eastward into the west central and northern Plains.

Lander, Wyo., had accumulated three inches of fresh snow this morning. Advisories for additional snow were in effect for portions of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska. A winter storm watch has been posted for Iowa.

In the warmer air ahead of the storm system, showers and a few thundershowers were occurring from the upper Mississippi Valley into the southwestern Plains.

The intensifying low pressure center over the southwestern Plains caused gusty winds over much of the Plains and Rockies. Speeds have reached 40 miles per hour in the western portion of Texas.

A sharp temperature contrast was marked by a cold front cutting across the Plains with readings in the 50s and 60s ahead of it and in the 20s and 30s just behind it.

Skies were cleared over the western quarter of the nation and caused temperatures to drop into the teens from northwest Montana into the northern and central plateau.

Elsewhere, mild temperatures and mostly clear skies prevailed today from the Atlantic Coast into the lower Mississippi Valley. Only a few spotty showers dotted the Texas coast and extreme southern Florida.

It was cool over upper New York and New England and cold from the western Plains to the Pacific Coast.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 74 at Vero Beach, Fla., and Corpus Christi, Tex., to 10 at Cut Bank, Mont., and Redmond, Ore.

Spain agrees to end its claim on Sahara

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Morocco's 350,000 invaders of the Spanish Sahara were ordered to break camp today and prepare to return home following the Spanish parliament's approval of legislation paving the way for transfer of the territory to Morocco and Mauritania.

Military sources said the first convoys of the civilian volunteers who began arriving in the southern desert four weeks ago would leave Tarfaya, their base north of the border, today or Thursday.

King Hassan in a broadcast Monday said the march had ended in triumph.

The Cortes, Spain's parliament, voted 345-4 Tuesday to approve a decolonization law ending Spanish rule in the Sahara on Feb. 28, 1976. Spain's ambassador to the United Nations, Jaime de Pinies said in New York that his government agreed to set up an interim administration in the colony with auxiliary governors from Morocco and Mauritania.

De Pinies indicated that Spain had agreed to cede the territory to Morocco and Mauritania after the U.N. Security Council failed to stop Hassan's massive march. He said the wishes of the 80,000 people of the territory concerning their political future would be determined through the Jemaa, the territorial assembly of tribal leaders.

Morocco will get the northern part of the Colorado-size territory, which includes vast phosphate deposits, and Mauritania will get the southern part adjoining its borders. The agreement worked out in Madrid also guarantees Spain's $625 million investment in the phosphate mines and provides for joint Spanish-Moroccan operation of the industry.

The agreement left Algeria and the Saharan independence movement it backed, the Polisario Front, out in the cold. The U.N. representative of the Front, Amin Bashir, predicted "a bloody war which would have disastrous consequences on our region."

Spain originally proposed a self-determination referendum for the territory, a proposal Algeria supported because it believed the people would vote for independence and Algeria could dominate the new nation through the Polisario Front. But after the International Court of Justice rejected the claims of Morocco and Mauritania to sovereignty over the area.

PUC hikes gas bill by 14 cents

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It hurts us more than it hurts you. That's what the state Public Utilities Commission seemed to be saying as it "reluctantly" raised the typical residential customer's gas bill by 14 cents a month.

The rate hike, approved Tuesday, goes into effect Dec. 1 and will affect customers of Southern California Gas Co.

The utility had asked for the rate increase to enable it to secure rights to Alaskan natural gas.

The commission said in a statement, "We see no alternative means for assuring an adequate supply of natural gas for California."

But it still won't pull out

U.S. loses on Korea troop withdrawal vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly adopted an American resolution on Korea Tuesday and then approved a Communist resolution calling for withdrawal of all American troops from the divided peninsula.

The vote on the American resolution was 59-51 with 29 abstentions, while the Communist resolution passed 54-43 with 50 abstentions.

It was the Communists' first General Assembly victory on a Korean vote since the 1950-53 Korean War. Western diplomats predicted that the North Korean regime would stiffen its refusal to negotiate with the South Korean government.

The U.S. resolution called for negotiations by the "parties directly concerned" — North and South Korea, the United States and China — to set up new machinery to preserve the 1953 armistice so that the United Nations Command in South Korea could be dissolved by Jan. 1. It also affirmed a continuing U.N. "responsibility" for peace and security in Korea.

The Communist resolution, which China and the Soviet Union joined in sponsoring, called for immediate dissolution of the U.N. Command and withdrawal of all foreign forces from South Korea.

The United States told the assembly's special political committee during debate on the resolutions that its troops were in Korea in accordance with an agreement between the South Korean and U.S. governments and would remain there after dissolution of the U.N. Command no matter what the assembly did.

Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua claimed that adoption of the Communist resolution rendered the American resolution "null and void." A North Korean spokesman said the assembly had dealt a "telling blow to the United States and its stooges who are trying to perpetuate the occupation of South Korea by U.S. troops and freeze the division by fabricating two Koreas."

Report says radio, TV discriminatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federally funded agency for public broadcasting should use its influence to get stations to improve the status of women employes and portray women more equitably on the screen, a task force report recommends.

The Task Force on Women in Public Broadcasting concluded in its report Tuesday that there is an industry-wide pattern of sex discrimination at all levels of employment in public radio and television.

It stopped short of saying that the Corporation for Public Broadcasting should require stations receiving federal funds to change employment practices or should not renew contracts to stations which perpetuate a narrow, unrepresentative view of women.

But it recommended a variety of steps to help turn around what it saw as employment bias and the sex-stereotyping in programs.

The task force said the corporation should take the lead in improving the status of women and should encourage National Public Radio, the Public Broadcasting Service and other public radio-television entities to do the same.

The report noted that neither the corporation nor National Public Radio and the Public Broadcasting Service have any women officers and few women in any executive jobs. This is a record which falls behind that of the commercial broadcasting networks, the task force said.

The corporation is a federally funded agency which allocates money through National Public Radio and Public Broadcasting Service to 245 public television stations and 159 radio stations. Public television is seen in about 20 million homes each week.

The task force, which was created by the corporation to probe complaints of distorted program images of women, produced the first comprehensive survey of the status of women in either commercial or public broadcasting.

It found that men outranked women 10 to 1 in top jobs and said an apparent double standard existed in employment, where most women were funneled into low-level, support jobs while similarly qualified men were hired for mid-professional jobs.

"A clear pattern emerges: there is an industry-wide under-representation of women in public broadcasting at the higher levels," the report said.

A corporation spokesman said the board had passed a resolution concurring with the task force's finding "that public broadcasting programming does not present a diverse, representative or balanced image of women." In addition, the resolution said, the board agreed that "there is serious under-utilization of women in upper level decision-making positions in public broadcasting and an over-representation of women at lower levels of employment."

The board directed its staff to report back with suggested remedies within three months.

CONTROVERSIAL — This unusual billboard dominates a building at 54th Street and Third Avenue in New York's borough of Manhattan. This ad campaign has drawn denunciations from the Vatican, prompted debate in the British Parliament and attracted protest letters and calls.

Unusual apparel billboards attract plenty of criticism

NEW YORK (AP) — Two billboards, displaying a woman's posterior clad in tight-fitting shorts and branded with the Biblical inscription, "He who loves me, follows me," are part of an ad campaign that has drawn denunciations from the Vatican, prompted debate in the British Parliament and attracted hundreds of protest letters and calls.

The advertising on Manhattan's East Side is for Italian slacks called "Jesus Jeans."

"The concept is wholly offensive," said the Rev. Kenneth Jadoff of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York. "They are making money off someone Christians all over the world hold sacred" with a merchandising campaign that is "less than tasteful."

Hundreds of protest letters and calls have resulted in promises to dismantle one billboard today. Bloomingdale's department store says it has canceled its spring order of the jeans, and other retailers are being requested to do the same.

"We don't want any publicity," said George W. Newman, the chairman of Allied Outdoor Advertising Inc., who put up the billboard at 54th Street and Third Avenue. "We're going to take the sign down. It was one of those things that slipped by us."

The other sign at 60th Street and First Avenue was placed by another outdoor advertising firm and Father Jadoff said he would try to get that one removed too.

Barry Carson, national sales manager for Compact Apparel Inc., which sells the jeans for the manufacturer, Maglificio and Calzificio Torinese of Turin said the ad campaign was the brainchild of the Italian manufacturer.

According to the apparel company, Vatican denunciations of the campaign in Italy and a question raised about it in the British Parliament had brought no change in the company policy.

Carson said there is "no reason" for the archdiocese to object to Jesus jeans, which carries only a small back-pocket tag with Jesus on it, except for a "lack of better things to do."

The jeans sell for $30 to $40 in sizes to fit men and women, in denim, cotton and wool. Carson estimated that 15,000 pairs had been sold in the United States since distribution started in March. In Europe, the manufacturer has sold $35 million worth, he said.

Carson said his office had received 150 to 200 protest letters and petitions objecting to the billboards. Asked whether he saw them as offensive to Christians, he replied, "That's how it appears to them."

Prisoners insist on drug testing

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Many prisoners involved in premarket drug testing at Southern Michigan Prison say they feel they have a right to participate in such experiments.

More than 50 prisoners interviewed last week by a federal commission investigating the practice insisted on their right to volunteer for such tests.

All but six of more than 60 prisoners questioned said they opposed efforts by the American Civil Liberties Union and others to stop medical experiments on prisoners.

The investigation of the Michigan prison's drug-testing projects was conducted by the National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects of Biochemical and Behavioral Research, which will recommend to Congress whether a ban on such testing should be instituted.

The ACLU has called the practice unethical and illegal, arguing that no one living under prison conditions can give "free consent" for the research.

Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., has introduced a bill to bar medical research in prisons receiving federal funds.

Perot denies involvement in refund

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. Ross Perot denies he had anything to do with an amendment approved by the House Ways and Means Committee that reportedly would give the Texas businessman a $15-million tax refund. The amendment was passed after he contributed more than $27,000 to some members of the panel.

Perot also has offered to be excluded from any benefits conferred by the amendment, which he termed "sound legislation."

In a letter released this week, Perot decried "that I, and not the merits of the amendment, have become the central issue" in a controversy following a Wall Street Journal article on Nov. 7 that described how Perot would benefit if the amendment became law.

That article reported that former Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen "confirmed that he drafted such an amendment on Mr. Perot's behalf and said it 'apparently was used' as the basis" for the committee amendment.

The amendment, adopted Nov. 4, was introduced by Rep. Phil Landrum, D-Ga. It would allow persons with at least $30,000 of capital losses in a year to take a three-year carryback of losses, lowering taxes owed for those years. It would be retroactive, starting with 1974.

The Wall Street Journal said Perot would gain $15 million in "what may be the most gigantic tax break in history for one person."

The panel adopted the Landrum amendment 20 to 14 as part of a tax-cut bill not expected to reach the floor until next month.

The Journal said Perot gave $1,000 to Landrum's election campaign in October 1974, and $27,400 to 12 others on the 37-person committee.

Perot's statements were contained in a letter dated Nov. 14 to Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of Ways and Means.

"Recent press reports have incorrectly labeled this legislation the 'Perot amendment,' stating that the proposal was created for my benefit," Perot wrote Ullman.

"No one representing my interests created this amendment on my behalf. I understand that this amendment was drafted and introduced as part of a proposed tax reform bill several years ago. I knew neither the author nor anything about the origin of this amendment."

He continued: "Mr. Cohen, a tax attorney retained by me, has been following this legislation because of its potential interest to several clients, including me. The news stories have inferred a relationship between past political contributions and recent action on the tax loss carryback amendment.

Atlantic Ocean to be drilled

LA JOLLA (AP) — Soon a hole two kilometers deep will be drilled in the rocky floor of the Atlantic Ocean—600 meters deeper than ever before.

The previous record was 1,400 meters, most of that through sedimentary rocks. But the deep sea drilling project will bore through the earth's hard basalt crust for the first time.

Plans were announced in La Jolla, headquarters of the drilling project, for the derrick-topped ship Glomar Challenger to leave Nov. 29 from Norfolk, Va.

Dr. Melvin N. A. Peterson, project manager at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, said the deep hole will be bored into the mid-Atlantic ridge, where tough, black rocks extrude up from the hot plastic mantle in the lithosphere.

The lithosphere, or outer shell, of the earth is made up of approximately 12 plates averaging 80 miles thick that move about with respect to each other.

The mid-Atlantic ridge is one of five major rifts now recognized in the ocean floors. At each, magma from the mantle wells up and cools to form new lithosphere that moves outward in opposite directions from the ridges at a rate ranging from one to 10 centimeters annually, Peterson said in an interview this week.

It is expected to take two months to drill the first kilometer and require a dozen changes in drill bits and hole re-entries.

The site is 1,250 nautical miles northeast of Puerto Rico.

In seven years of ocean drilling, scientists have confirmed theories of sea floor spreading and determined ages of ancient continents.

The Glomar Challenger has been used to drill 570 holes into the ocean floor at 392 locations recovering more than 36 miles of sediment cores. But basement rocks have been only shallowly probed.

Although the project is sponsored mainly by the National Science Foundation, with Scripps as manager. The new venture will be supported financially in part by scientific agencies in Japan, Soviet Russia, West Germany, England and possibly France.

PUC rules van not a bus service

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Fountain Valley woman's 12-passenger van is back at work ferrying people to their jobs after a Public Utilities Commission ruling that the van is indeed a car pool and not a bus service.

The PUC decision effective Monday clears the way for Garlene Zappitelli to charge $8 to take her coworkers from Orange County to the TRW Systems Group, Inc., in Redondo Beach.

Last December the PUC ordered Mrs. Zappitelli to halt the service after a commuter bus service complained that the Zappitelli operation was in fact an unlicensed bus service.

But the legislature has passed a bill that excludes from PUC jurisdiction any person whose vehicle seats 15 or fewer passengers and is used to take them from their home to their job.

That bill takes effect in January but the PUC decided to let Mrs. Zappitelli resume her service in the meantime.

NWLF claims parking meter sabotage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New World Liberation Front, which has taken responsibility for numerous terrorist bombings in recent months, claims a new target — the city's parking meters.

Police said Tuesday they were investigating the group's claim that it poured liquid steel into the locks of several hundred parking meters in retaliation for a recent ticket-writing spree by officers.

The ticket blitz was prompted by police anger at voters for passing several antipolice propositions in the Nov. 4 election.

"They got 400 to 500 meters, including a bunch in front of police headquarters," said officer Bob Lenzis. "You can't prove who did it, but it does appear to be retaliation for all the tickets.

"Luckily the substance used wasn't too good, and we hope to have the meters back in operation in a few days," Lenzis said.

The liberation front, which is under investigation by the FBI for more than 20 bombings in the San Francisco Bay area in recent months, made their claim in a communique delivered to news media Monday. The communique was signed by the "Training Unit, Peoples Forces, New World Liberation Front." It read in part:

"If the San Francisco police who are acting like pigs and harassing the people for voting 'no confidence' do not cease their activities immediately, we will attempt to sabotage every parking meter in San Francisco, with the assistance of the hundreds or thousands of sisters and brothers who are tired enough with being pushed around by the pigs to start fighting back."

Police started writing double and triple the average daily number of traffic tickets immediately after returns showed voters had approved propositions placed on the ballot in the aftermath of last August's bitter police-fire strike. One ballot issue made firing mandatory for any striking policeman or fireman. Another lowered the standard on which their pay is based.

During one day of the blitz, police wrote 1,434 parking tickets, more than triple their daily average.

Tin mill products prices up

PITTSBURGH (AP) — National Steel Corp. announced on Tuesday it was raising prices on its tin mill products, used primarily in beverage containers, effective next Jan. 15.

It was not immediately known what impact the increase might have on consumers.

The company declined to be specific about the price changes, saying only that the net effect would be to increase revenues from steel mill products by 2 per cent.

However, sources said the increases amount to 7 per cent.

A spokesman for the U.S. Council on Wage and Price Stability said in Washington that National Steel had provided the council with some justification for the increase in advance of the company's announcement. He said the council was seeking further information.

The spokesman said the council would have no further comment pending study of the raise.

National, the nation's third largest steelmaker, at first announced the prices would go up next Jan. 5, but later said that date had been announced in error.

Steel mill products last year accounted for 95 per cent of National's sales, while container products accounted for 22 per cent of the firm's revenues.

Like other steelmakers, National has had an off-year.

In the third quarter, National reported an 89 per cent drop in earnings — 40 cents a share compared with $3.70 a share a year ago — and for the first nine months of the year, earnings fell 68 per cent.

However, National showed a profit for the third quarter of $7.6 million. For the first nine months, it had net income of $43.6 million.

National said the increases will be made because of higher costs.

Bigamist to start new city?

GLEN CANYON CITY, Utah (AP) — Alex Joseph said recently that he and the 12 women he claims as wives are moving from their homes on disputed federal land to establish their own city.

"We're not abandoning our homesteads. We're just not occupying them," Joseph, 39, said in a telephone interview.

Joseph and others living on Bureau of Land Management (BLM) property near this southern Utah town have fought the federal government for six months in the courts for the right to homestead the land. The government says they're trespassing and have no legal basis for their claims. A federal court judge has upheld the federal agency.

Joseph has said he will fight if an "illegal" attempt is made to evict him and his family.

He said the move is being made by about half the people living around him. The others will remain on the contested land, he said.

"You see my point?" Joseph asked. "This will show you that when we leave the government will not pursue those that will remain. It will show you that the government is conducting personal prejudice against me ...

Joseph, an excommunicated Mormon and a former Modesto, Calif., policeman, said he will name his new city "Backbone, Utah." He said up to 300 persons will help him establish the community which he hopes to incorporate "as soon as possible."

That land, 11 miles west of Glen Canyon City and 16 miles southeast of the land he claimed as a homestead, also is federal land, he said. "But when we file the necessary documents with the county we have 30 days to submit them to the BLM and then it becomes city land and won't belong to the government."

RIPOFF OR HISTORY? — Visitors to the American Freedom Train when it was in Seattle earlier this month bought pennants and other souvenirs. The train and its bicentennial exhibits have been labeled by some as "the American ripoff," but praised by others.

Freedom Train a 'ripoff'?

SEATTLE (AP) — The American Freedom Train and its 10 cars of bicentennial exhibits were called "the all American ripoff" by angry parents here.

In Tacoma some saw it as a "sleazy carnival."

In Portland visitors complained that hawker's cries for Freedom Train hats, pennants, ballons, beer mugs and popcorn in red, white and blue boxes seemed incongruous with displays celebrating the nation's 200th birthday.

But no one stopped coming, and by the end of this week an estimated 400,000 persons in Washington and Oregon will have paused before the train's images of Lincoln and Kennedy, Washington's copy of the Constitution and basketball star Bob Lainier's size 22 sneakers.

"I'd like to go through this thing again 10 hundred times," said seventh-grader Doug Coughlin in Portland. "It was the neatest thing I've ever seen."

Complaints about overpriced souvenirs, long lines and being "rushed through" the train, along with praise for its exhibits, have accompanied the Freedom Train since it began its nationwide tour last summer.

The train is filled with thousands of Americana artifacts, inventions, mementoes, manuscripts and other items. There is a massive Liberty Bell, twice life size, and a wax Gerald R. Ford swearing to "preserve, protect and defend ..."

The brainstorm of Ross E. Rowland Jr., a New York commodities broker and train buff, the train is a nonprofit, tax-exempt Massachusetts foundation. It started a Northwest tour in late October.

After Salem and Eugene, Ore., this week, it heads for Reno, Nev.

The Freedom Train is scheduled to pull into Pomona on Dec. 20, and a one-week stay is planned.

Visitors roll through the train in 22 minutes aboard a rubber conveyer belt. There is little time for rubbernecking.

"I waited four hours, and what do I get, a 20-minute ride on a treadmill," said a disgruntled Seattle resident. "I didn't get to see very much."

Michelle Watson, train spokeswoman, said: "It's too fast, that's what everyone says. But there are a lot of things to see, and if we didn't have it, we never would get them all through."

Parents waved signs calling it "the all American ripoff" after thousands of schoolchildren gave up trying to board the train because the line was four hours long. Some children had come 50 miles to see the exhibits.

Price is $2 for adults, $1 for kids and senior citizens. The entry fee covers the costs of the project which are expected to be more than $17 million, says Miss Watson.

Vitamin C tablets safe

NEW YORK (AP) — A major Vitamin C manufacturer said Tuesday it has "conclusive scientific evidence that Vitamin C tablets are both stable and safe even after prolonged storage."

A study of the stability of commercial Vitamin C tablets stored under normal household conditions was conducted by the manufacturer, Hoffman-La Roche, Inc., of Nutley, N.J.

The study was in response to a charge last April of poor stability, of the formation of potentially harmful breakdwon products and a lack of suitable analytical methods for study.

Using a wide range of laboratory approaches, Hoffman-La Roche researchers concluded that under normal storage conditions, commercial Vitamin C tablets are stable for more than five years.

The researchers also said they found that breakdown products represent so small a percentage of total content that they do not pose a dietary or metabolic hazard. They also said testing methods have been available for years.

The study was presented at a meeting of the Academy of Pharmaceutical Sciences in Atlanta by Dr. S. H. Rubin, head of applied research at Hoffman-La Roche and a lecturer in nutrition at New York Medical College.

The study countered allegations made by Dr. I. J. Wilk, then of the University of the Pacific, California, at a national meeting of the American Chemical Society in Philadelphia last April.

The University of the Pacific, at Stockton, said Wilk, a biochemist, held an adjunct appointment at the university's School of Dentistry in San Francisco at the time, but that the appointment was no longer in effect.

Wilk, reached at his home by telephone, said he could not comment in detail without seeing the study but said that his paper "still stands." He said he did not have any current affiliation.

One of the charges concerned a breakdown product called oxalic acid, which Wilk said was thought to accelerate the formation of kidney stones.

The researchers at Hoffman-La Roche said Wilk had not actually measured the oxalic acid content.

Valley sales show slight gain

The national economic recession continued to be reflected locally in the second quarter 1975 retail sales figures released this week by the state Board of Equalization.

While total sales in the nine valley cities increased 2.5 per cent from $199.4 million to $204.5 million, allowance for the state averaged 10.3 per cent inflation factor from the previous year indicates an actual drop of about eight per cent in the volume of goods and services sold.

Valley cities generally fared poorer than the state average of 7.4 per cent growth.

The bright spot locally was La Verne, which enjoyed 30 per cent growth over the second quarter 1974, up $1,217,000 from $4,045,000 to $5,262,000, with most of the growth attributable to the development of shopping facilities along Foothill Boulevard.

In contrast was Ontario, which suffered a 1.1 per cent decline in sales, not counting inflation, from $38,951,000 to $38,500,000.

Pomona continues to lead all valley cities in retail sales, accounting for just over 38 per cent of all sales in the nine cities. Pomona's growth in the second quarter was up only 1.8 per cent from $77,161,000 to $78,597,000.

Other individual city totals were:

— Chino: up 5.5 per cent from $12,027,000 to $12,698,000.

— Montclair: up 1.9 per cent from $35,310,000 to $36,000,000.

—Upland: up 4.7 per cent from $18,722,000 to $19,605,000.

— Claremont: up 4.4 per cent from $7,644,000 to $7,986,000.

— San Dimas: up 5.3 per cent from $4,870,000 to $5,131,000.

— Walnut: up 13.2 per cent from $673,000 to $762,000.

One of the more interesting facts reported by the state was an increase of 10.6 per cent in the personal savings of Californians. The growth in savings was attributed to last spring's federal income tax rebates which many received too late to spend during the quarter.

Open house at new CHP office

Residents are invited to tour the new California Highway Patrol office in Ontario during its open house Nov. 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The structure is located on a two acre site at 1801 E. D St., south of the San Bernardino Freeway. It was constructed at a cost of $280,000. Officers have occupied the building since Sept. 29.

Six officers will guide visitors through the facility. The tour will include inspection of several patrol cars and the patrol's helicopter. Refreshments will be served.

The Ontario office serves a 250-square-mile area which extends from Kellogg Hill near Covina to the Ontario Motor Speedway and from Mt. Baldy to the Riverside and Orange county lines.

Officials had proposed to extend the eastern boundaries to Cherry Avenue in Fontana on Jan. 1. This has been delayed for at least one year due to a shortage of both manpower and funding.

The Ontario office marks the fourth location for the area since it was established July 1, 1938. Other offices were located on W. Mission Boulevard, Pomona, McKinley Avenue near Garey Avenue, Pomona, and Indian Hill Boulevard in Claremont.

Claremont firm's parent wins award

Rich Products Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y. which has a plant at Claremont, has won the first Grand Award presented for "outstanding contributions" to the frozen food industry at the National Frozen Food Association's annual convention at San Francisco.

The selection of Rich Products, the nation's foremost producer of frozen non-dairy coffee creamers and dessert toppings plus frozen baked goods and doughs, resulted from the balloting of more than 5,000 members consisting of food packers, food brokers and distributors.

The other finalist nominees for the Grand Award were The Kitchens of Sara Lee, Deerfield, Ill., and Stouffer Foods Inc., Solon, Ohio.

The firm has a plant at 435 W. First St., Claremont, managed by Jerrold W. Hannon, president of Rich Products of Claremont.

Parents and Teachers

The educational programs of the Upland School District and Sycamore School will be discussed by Supt. Bill Plaster and Principal Roger Skinner at the Thursday meeting of the SYCAMORE School PTA.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Upland school. Team leaders Patti Lloyd, Bobbie Simpson, Cindy Hall and Randy Smith will explain successful team teaching methods.

Refreshments will be served by the first and second grade mothers.

ROYNON School PTA of La Verne will hold its Bicentennial carnival Saturday on the school grounds.

The "Roynon '76 Review" will open with a parade at 10:30 a.m. Booths will open at 11 a.m. and continue activities until 4:30 p.m.

Game booths will include Match the Minutemen, Boston Tea Party, Stockade, Fun Flags, George Washington Wishing Booth, Ring the Liberty Bell; Down the Redcoats, Load the Cannon, Whale in a Pail and Fly the '76. Barbeque beef, cole slaw, chili, cornbread, hot dogs, tacos and desserts will be sold at the food booths.

Other miscellaneous booths will feature pottery, puppets, plants and handmade articles. There will be prizes and entertainment.

Mejicana Lodge to celebrate 46th year

La Progresista Mejicana Lodge 6 of Pomona will celebrate its 46th anniversary and install officers with a dinner and dance Sunday at the Sacred Heart Parish Hall.

Dinner will be served beginning at 1:30 p.m. Dancing to the music of Los Tiburones will follow. Entertainment will be provided by a Rosemead dance group.

City officials, including Police Chief Forest Wallick, and member of the City Council and Planning Commission, will attend.

Officers to be installed include Ignacio Vasquez, re-elected president; Cenovio Baltierra, vice president; Jennie Lopez, second vice president; Lupe Vasquez, secretary; and Raymond Gonzalez, treasurer.

Vasquez is a member of the Supreme Council of La Progresista Mejicana. The organization is made up of lodges located from San Jose to San Ysidro.

Among its objectives are help to members in times of sickness and trouble, yearly contributions to assist the poor in Mexico and scholarships awarded to sons and daughters of members.

The charge for the event will be $5 for each person. Proceeds will be used to help the sick.

Tom Lopez, lodge member and city community life commissioner, urges public participation.

Walnut High staff show

Faculty members at Walnut High School will present "The Odd Couple" Dec. 4-5, under the direction of Jack Betts, director of the school's Theater Arts Department.

Bruce Dunbridge is cast as Felix Ungar and Donn Morris as Oscar Madison.

Other faculty members in the cast are Hank Johnson, Paul Olivier, John Orr, Judy Wood, Charles Sismondo and Phyllis Gardner.

Last year this faculty group presented "Mister Roberts."

Louisville likes nickels

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Chances are 10 to one that somebody who makes a 10-cent phone call here will use two nickels.

Louisvillians and their respect for the 5-cent piece are posing peculiar problems for the Federal Reserve Bank. Dimes go begging in Louisville, while banks want to stock up on nickels.

Army jobs now:

If you are between 17 and 34 and looking for a good job, now's a good time to look into the Army. From electronics to carpentry, from cooks to combat arms, the Army today has more good jobs to fill than anyone.

$361.20 a month to start

Army pay is better than ever. And with free meals, free lodging, and free medical and dental care, you'll be surprised how far that pay will go.

Job-training courses

Ever wonder where to get that "experience necessary" the classified ads always ask for? A good place is the Army. With over 200 job-training courses, the Army can teach you skills you'll be glad to have later on.

Educational opportunities

Whether it's finishing high school or earning college credits, being in the Army can help you. And if you sign up for the Army's newest educational program, Project Ahead, you'll be able to start college at the same time you enlist — with the Army paying up to 75% of your tuition.

Travel opportunities

Joining the Army can mean a chance to work and live in Europe, Alaska, Hawaii, Korea, Panama or almost anywhere in the continental U.S.

Join now, go later

You can do just that — join now and report up to nine months later — with the Army's special Delayed Entry Program. A terrific option for high school seniors and others with unfinished business ahead of them.

First come, first serve.

To find out which jobs are open, and to have the best chance of getting the one you want, see your Army Representative now.

WINNING DOLLS — Raymond Acevado, Debbie Sheets, seated, and Marlene Julian, all employes at Pomona Buffums, display dolls which they dressed for a contest at the 12 Buffums' stores to Salvation Army Capt. Dan Birks. Dolls are sold as a benefit project.

Store employes doll up

Employes of the 12 Buffums department stores in the Southland have dressed dolls as a benefit for the Salvation Army.

Each year prior to the holidays, Buffums employes may take dolls provided by the company and dress them in any style which they choose.

The dolls are judged in categories in each of the stores, and the winning dolls from each store are then sent to the Buffums Palos Verdes store for final judging.

Winners in the Pomona store this season are Ray Acevado, display department, most beautiful doll; Deborah Sheets, beauty salon, most original doll; and Marlene Julian, yardage department, most authentic doll.

Trial of kidnap suspect delayed

The kidnaping trial of Ross Ruiz Valencia, 46, has been continued to Jan. 26 in Pomona Superior Court because his attorney is engaged in a trial in Los Angeles.

Valencia, of North Hollywood, is accused of kidnaping a Valinda housewife and her 4-year-old daughter last March and taking them on a 40-day, 3,000-mile trip across the country and into Canada where he was arrested.

The woman, Mrs. Maria Teresa Rivera, 23, testified during Valencia's preliminary hearing in August that she had several opportunities to escape from Valencia but was afraid to try.

Authorities charged that Valencia kidnaped the woman and child in an effort to force a reconciliation with his girlfriend who is Mrs. Rivera's sister.

L.V. Rotary will meet

The Rev. Jack Warford will present a program on "Thanksgiving with the Pilgrims" before the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at Castaway Restaurant, Pomona.

He will show a film of the annual festival which is presented at Pilgrim Place in Claremont and give a brief talk to augment the theme. Mr. Warford is a retired minister now living at Pilgrim Place.

Slide program on Israel

Evelyn Huskey, evening business officer supervisor at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, will present a program on Israel Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Pitzer Auditorium at the hospital.

"Israel: A New and Growing Nation" will be Mrs. Huskey's topic as she presents colored slides showing the contrast of the old and the new in transportation, construction and dress.

The program is open to all members of the medical staff, their families and friends of the hospital.

Because of seating limitations, those attending are asked to call 623-8715, ext. 2168, for reservations.

Strike over at Standard Brands

John DeGregory, president of Standard Brands Paint Co., announced that the retail clerks unions have ratified a new three-year collective bargaining contract with the company.

The ratification ended a nine-day general strike of California based factory, warehouse, and retail store employes.

In addition to maintaining the present health and welfare programs and increasing the pension contribution, the new contract called for an average increase of $1 per hour in wages over the next three years with a possibility of a cost of living adjustment not to exceed 10 cents per hour on the average wage in each of the last two years.

All facilities remained open during the strike and retail outlets maintained a high level of sales.

Experts to ponder female hormones as cause of cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will convene a committee of outside experts next month to discuss four new studies that suggest heavy use of female sex hormones may contribute to a higher uterine cancer rate in older women.

An estimated 25 million prescriptions for the hormone estrogen were filled last year, primarily to ease women through the discomfort of menopause.

Dr. Donald Austin, who heads the California Tumor Registry, reported last month that the uterine cancer rate in his state has increased by about 35 per cent over the last seven years.

Noting the rise in female hormone use, Austin said his data "supports the hypothesis that estrogen given to post-menopausal women might be the cause."

Two other studies to be published Dec. 2 in the New England Journal of Medicine will suggest a statistical link between estrogens and uterine cancer, according to drug experts

The authors are Drs. Harry K. Kiel and William D. Finkle of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan Inc. in Los Angeles, and Dr. Donald C. Smith of the Mason Clinic in Seattle.

The FDA also has requested unpublished data from another tumor registry study by Dr. Edgar L. Makowski of the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver.

The agency said in an internal document called a "talk paper," distributed to its regional and district offices, that the FDA "is now aware of several studies in this country which are reporting a relationship between estrogen therapy in post-menopausal women and endrometrial cancer (cancer of the lining of the uterus)."

The authors of the four studies have been invited to present their findings at a meeting Dec. 15 and 16 of the FDA's Advisory Committee on Obstetics and Gynecology, composed of outside experts in the field.

The advisers are expected to make recommendations

Economic parley produced no clear way out of slump

RAMBOUILLET, France (AP) — The 1,200-word Declaration of Rambouillet that the six-nation economic summit produced charts no clear route out of the world as worst slump since the 1930s.

President Ford and the leaders of France, West Germany, Japan, Britain and Italy offered only a familiar catalog of shared hopes, ideas and assertions.

"We did not meet to take decisions," Prime Minister Harold Wilson said at the windup. "Nor did we think that so short a meeting would constitute a truning-point in the world economy."

But Ford, flying home to the challenges of the 1976 presidential election, declared: "We can master our future."

His purpose — shared by the other leaders at their three-day seminar at the Chateau de Rambouillet — was to give the people of the industrial democracies the feeling that their rulers have charted a way out of the economic perils threatening their standards, values and political systems.

It was to persuade them that their leaders and lawmakers are not subject to "blind forces beyond their control," as U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger put it recently.

Issues omitted from the declaration seemed to be quite as significant as its contents.

Some examples:

—There was no word on the future of gold in the world's changing money system. There have been deep differences between the Americans and French on this.

—No concerted program was offered to beat unemployment beyond predictable pledges by each of the six leaders to move toward policies of expansion as swiftly as is sensible. A total of 12.5 million persons are jobless in the six countries.

Ford sought to hearten his colleagues by insisting that American recovery is in full flight and will continue. But the Europeans did not seem to share his optimism. Wilson, especially, voiced concern about the sluggishness of Europe's recovery and the perils for European morale if American recovery peters out.

In contrast to these negative-seeming factors, the leaders listed a lot of shared aims which, if fulfilled, certainly will give the industrialized democracies a shot in the arm. These ranged from cooperation in energy policy to freer trading.

However, the crowning achievement of the three-day summit was a still-secret agreement aimed at promoting more stable currency exchange rates. The pact was signed Monday by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and French Finance Minister Jean-Pierre Fourcade.

The exchange rates affect world trade and the prices individual citizens in each country pay for imported goods and what they get in return for their exports.

NAP TIME — A female African lion lets go with a big yawn as she takes a nap in the warm weather at Dallas Zoo.

No work, so judge will quit

BENTON, Ill. (AP) — A 71-year-old Southern Illinois judge says he can't honestly say he's putting in a full day's work for a full day's pay and he says he just doesn't feel right accepting his $42,500-a-year salary.

So he's quitting.

"That's exactly right," Circuit Court Judge William Eovaldi said Monday in an interview. "There just wasn't enough work to keep me working full time. And anybody who knows me knows I'm not happy unless I'm working full time. There is nothing else to do."

Eovaldi said he began deliberating his resignation in August when his 14 fellow judges in the 12-county 2nd Judicial Circuit decided to appoint three associate judges to handle minor cases.

"We don't need this many judges," he said. "I tried to tell them that. I'd say 15 would be enough. We don't need any more than 15 if the schedules are properly handled.

"I got to the place after the appointment of the other judges where I wasn't running a full business. I got enough of that.

"I was just raised to work for a living ever since I was 12-years-old," he said. "I just think if a fellow is working for the public he ought to render full-time service for his pay.

"I'd be in court almost every day. But that doesn't mean I'd be busy every day. I'd handle two or three little matters and then I'd just wait around for something to do.

"I usually put in my six hours a day and I'd be available if they needed me," he said.

Eovaldi was seated on the bench in 1954 as a city judge. Fourteen years later he won election to the Circuit Court and passed a retention ballot test in 1970. Until this year he said he found enough to do.

Though his term doesn't expire until December 1976, he's stepping down as of Dec. 31 to facilitate selection of a candidate by the time the ballot is drawn in May.

He said he plans to become a lawyer again. Which means he'll be practicing before his former colleagues.

"I'm going to practice law," he said. "They'll probably cut my head off."

Educator advises schools to shun U.S. aid

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Better and cheaper education can be obtained if school districts shun federal aid and its incumbent bureaucratic regulations, a Pasadena educator charged before an Alta Loma group advocating fundamental education.

Willard Craft, Pasadena district administrator, who designed the four fundamental schools now in operation among Pasadena's 40 schools, told members of Basic Academic Schools by Interested Citizens (BASIC) Tuesday night in Cucamonga Library that Pasadena probably will end federal Emergency School Act funds by the end of this year and all other federal funds within two years.

He said Health, Education and Welfare Department officials deplore fundamental (basic reading, writing and arithmetic) schools and attach regulations which effectively bar such schools from obtaining U.S. funding through various HEW programs.

Among other charges Craft, who is leaving the Pasadena system in February to become superintendent of Kansas City, Mo., schools, made were:

— Judge Manuel Real is the "worst federal judge in the United States" and the one Pasadena schools are saddled with on the controversial busing-racial balance case.

— National Education Association (NEA) and its affiliate, California Education Association (CEA) are attempting to sabotage any efforts to convert schools to fundamental curricula.

— The League of Women Voters is attempting to quash efforts to establish basic schools.

— Figures cited by California Department of Public Education chief Wilson Riles are erroneous based on socio-economic standards and have been proven false in Pasadena fundamental schools where, Craft said, black students in fundamental schools and from a lower economic level, far surpass white pupils from better economic backgrounds who attend more conventional schools.

Craft urged parents who desire a fundamental school in Alta Loma to petition the school board.

(BASIC) members already have said they will ask the school board in January to convert at least one school to fundamental principles within the near future.)

(Although the school board has made no official motion on the matter yet, informally, they have indicated a willingness to experiment during summer school next year with the program.)

Craft said that since 1973 when a more conservative board took over in Pasadena and fundamental schools were opened in four locations, reading and basic skills at those schools rocketed upward after five years of plunging scores.

But such dramatic results, Craft charged, are overlooked by liberal professional educators who believe in no classroom discipline and who allow students to set their own pace.

The outspoken educator said a majorty of high schools today are awarding diplomas to functionally illiterate students.

In referring to U.S. District Judge Real, Craft said Real "doesn't want Pasadena to have good education."

Judge Real last month ordered the fundamental Audubon School closed in Pasadena as in violation of his earlier stringent racial balance edict. But the district appealed his decision and has been allowed to maintain Audubon as a basic school until the appeal is heard.

One of Real's racial balance decisions now is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court and several other such rulings against the district are in various stages of appeal.

"Our opponents are charging that fundamental school children are oppressed," Craft said. "We have dared them to find an unhappy child in any of our fundamental schools," he said. "No one has taken us up on that offer."

GENEROUS DONORS

Jesse F. Perrin, left, United Crusade chairman for Pilgrim Place, Claremont, helps Mrs. Charles Helsley fill in a pledge card as Nick Sandoe, retirement homes chairman for East Zone, Region II, United Crusade of Los Angeles County, reads list of agencies which provide assistance and services for elderly citizens in the community.

Charity drive hits 52% mark; Pilgrim Place strong in gifts

The Pomona area United Crusade now stands at 52 per cent of its 1976 campaign goal of $266,781, according to Charles McDaniel, chairman for the East Zone, Region II, United Crusade of Los Angeles County.

In reporting donations, McDaniel praised Pilgrim Place, retirement community in Claremont, where there has been nearly 100 per cent participation by the residents and the employes.

"What makes their participation even more noteworthy," said McDaniel, "is that residents at Pilgrim Place are retired missionaries or religious workers who have never made large wages."

While the almost 300 residents at Pilgrim Place are on retirement incomes, the average pledge was in excess of $25 each, according to Nick Sandoe, retirement homes chairman for the zone.

This figure far exceeds the suggested gift scale for the United Crusade as prepared by the Federal Reserve Bank. The bank recommends six-tenths per cent of a wage-earner's income up to $7,000 annual income; seven-tenths to nine-tenths per cent if the income is between $7,000 and $9,000, and one per cent if a person's income is in the $10,000 to $12,000 bracket.

A single gift to the United Crusade is allocated to 250 United Way member agencies and 12 Red Cross chapters in Los Angeles County.

Many of the agencies serve the older citizens in the community. These include the Visiting Nurse Association, Salvation Army, Family Service Association, Mexican-American Opportunity Foundation, Catholic and Jewish agencies for the elderly and the Red Cross.

The United Crusade campaign will continue through mid-December.

Board donates kindergarten bungalow to P.V. historians

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Pomona school board Tuesday night contributed the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo kindergarten building to the Pomona Valley Historical Society if it is moved off Arroyo Elementary School grounds in 60 days.

The board also told members of the Committee for the Preservation of the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow, headed by Bruce Richards and June Hyman, that it legally could contribute the district's $1,275 demolition costs to the move and restore fund.

The motion to contribute the building and the demolition costs to the society was made by board member C. Allen Braswell and seconded by Mary Montes. The vote was 4-0. Ken Pine was not present at the meeting.

Richards, a society director, said the committee already has received cash and pledges of $700 towards the $5,000 he had been told by house movers would be necessary to relocate the 67-year-old bungalow.

The $700, added to the $1,275 from the district, totals $1,975, leaving $3,025 needed to finance the move. Additional funds will be required to restore the building, Richards said.

Public contributions, which are tax deductible, may be mailed to the Pomona Valley Historical Society, 1569 N. Park Ave., Pomona 91767.

Future use of the old building is yet to be determined, Richards said. It has been suggested that it be used as a Historical Society museum and meeting hall, as a children's library and as an education center at the Pomona Valley Humane Society.

"The committee is interested in listening to any group that would offer a valid use for the building after it is relocated," said Richards.

In his presentation to the board, Richards noted that this is City of Pomona's centennial year and that the old bungalow, built in 1908-09, has nostalgic value. "There are sincere feelings among members of our group that it should be preserved," he said.

Before it at the meeting the board had a staff recommendation that the bungalow, described as an "attractive nuisance" and a "liability," be demolished and the site cleared. It also had a letter from the committee asking a 60-day postponement on the demolition.

After the board's action, Richards said that efforts would be made to contact valley residents who had attended school in the old bungalow, and those whose children had started school there, in a valleywide fund drive.

Additional volunteers are needed to serve on the committee, he added. Those interested in assisting may call Mrs. Hyman at Arroyo Elementary School (623-5251) where she is a teacher, or at her home, 593-1106, or Richards at his home, 593-8484, or at the Pomona Valley Humane Society (623-9777) where he is executive director.

Highway commission will request state support for Foothill Fwy.

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

State support for that section of the Foothill Freeway between La Verne and Redlands will be sought Friday when the California Highway Commission meets in San Bernardino.

Harold Bailin, president of the Foothill Freeway Association, will request funding be included in the 1976-77 fiscal budget to pay for engineering and preparation of specifications.

Noting that a funding cutback had nearly halted freeway construction in California, the Upland attorney said his group wanted to be in a position to move ahead once funding does become available.

Several attempts have been made to make this section part of the federal interstate system, which would qualify it for federal funds. "Even if this were successful, we are not in a position now to go ahead with it," he said.

That freeway segment between Sylmar and La Verne in Los Angeles County is included in the interstate system and thus receives federal funding. Sections between these two communities are completed or under construction.

When completed, the freeway will extend from the Golden State Freeway near Sylmar to Redlands, a distance of 85 miles. It will pass through the communities of San Fernando, La Canada, Pasadena, Arcadia, Monrovia, Duarte, Azusa, Glendora, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Upland, Alta Loma, Fontana, San Bernardino and Redlands.

Bailin said the Foothill Freeway will relieve traffic from the San Bernardino Freeway and assist in handling traffic generated by the Ontario Motor Speedway and Ontario International Airport.

He will be appearing on behalf of 18 mayors in the San Bernardino and Riverside areas. Bailin is scheduled to appear before the commission at 8:30 a.m. The commission is meeting Thursday and Friday in the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors chambers at 175 W. Fifth St., San Bernardino.

Appearing with Bailin will be San Bernardino County Supervisor Daniel Mikesell, Robert Fullerton, chairman of the Inland Action, Inc.'s, transportation committee, and Leroy Hansberger, president of the Highway Support Group of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties.

Candidates' dilemma: filing fee rescinded, statements' fees up

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Candidates won't be socked with a filing fee in the upcoming Chino municipal election, but they will pay more for official campaign statements.

City councilmen Tuesday night rescinded the $25 filing fee, but at the same time upped the fee to $200 for candidates' statements sent to voters with sample ballots.

The council acted on recommendations from City Manager Bob Fast, who warned of new state laws pertaining to council candidates. If candidates cannot afford filing fees, they no longer have to pay them, he said. Also, no fee is required if 100 signatures are obtained by candidates on nominating petitions; and if they have 50 signatures, only half the fee is paid.

In order to "forego complications," Fast proposed dropping the fee altogether. He indicated other West End cities currently have no filing fee.

The $200 fee for publishing candidates' statements is an increase from the present $75 cost for statements in English, and $150 for English and Spanish printing. Since new state law requires all statements to be "bilingual", it will mean double printing costs, explained Fast, and an increase is necessary.

If costs of printing turn out to be less than the $200 candidates would receive a refund Fast noted.

Filing for the March 2 Chino council election opens Dec. 4 and closed Dec. 24. If no incumbents file by that date, filing would be extended to Dec. 30.

Mayor Bob McLeod and Vice Mayor Ed Lynch's seats will be up for grabs in the councilmanic election.

In other business Tuesday, the council adopted an ordinance requiring the posting of zoning and general plan information in real estate sales offices.

Fast said the ordinance is an outgrowth of citizen complaints to the city over sudden changes in certain properties. "From time to time buyers come to us saying they thought areas near their property would remain the same. But they listened to salesmen only and did not check with City Hall."

Signs now will be required in real estate offices indicating that information relating to zoning and land use may be obtained from the city's Department of Community Development.

In cases of subdivisions, a map must be clearly printed with general plan projections and zoning for all properties around the subdivision indicated. A copy of the map must be given to prospective buyers.

Councilmen also moved to allow a rate increase request by Paul's Yellow Cab Co. A surcharge of five cents per trip will be added to cab fares immediately, and for each eight-cent increase in fuel prices, another 5-cent boost would occur. Fuel prices have skyrocketed for the cab firm, and another five-cent surcharge will be added when gas prices for the company reach 55 cents a gallon, said Fast.

Other valley cities such as Pomona have already approved the increase.

The council also confirmed a report of work completed on a Central Avenue sewer construction project, near Francis Avenue. Costs of the work will be added to assessment rolls against property fronting the work area.

Bonita will mull reduction of physical ed requirement

The Bonita school board will consider at its next meeting a proposal to reduce the district's high school physical education requirements by two years.

Board members heard at Tuesday night's meeting the first reading of a proposed curriculum change which would require for graduation that a student take physical education until he or she has reached the age of 16 and is a third-year (11th grade) student.

The proposed change is in response to Senate Bill 16, effective January 1976, which permits exemption from courses in physical education to students meeting the above requirements. Existing state law requires pupils enrolled in grades 7 through 12 to attend courses of physical education.

Asst. Supt. Howard Wigell suggested that the proposed change in graduation requirements, if adopted, should be implemented at the beginning of the 1976-77 school year. There will be a final reading and vote on the proposed change at the Dec. 16 meeting.

The board will also review at that time the results of parent referendums on school smoking areas which are currently underway at Bonita, Chaparral and San Dimas high schools.

Cucamonga teachers ask 7% raise

By DAVID READER
PB Correspondent

The Central Teachers Organization (CTO), responding to the recently adopted salary schedule for certificated employes by Cucamonga's Central school board, Tuesday evening called for a 7.3 per cent increase in salary over the previous year.

Two weeks ago, the board passed a resolution approving a 5.5 per cent pay raise for teachers, which CTO neither accepted nor rejected at the time.

In asking for the 7.3 per cent pay boost, CTO officials Pat Guerra and Andrew Carlmark said that the salary increase that CTO was proposing would be more in line with what the average is for teachers in surrounding districts.

The beginning salary, CTO believes, should be set at $9,206, while the initial figure in the salary schedule adopted by the board is $9,007.

In a matter relating to the salary schedule dispute, board member Robert Levy read a personal statement regarding what he felt were the board's basic objectives concerning budget and salary matters.

Levy said that the district "can only spend what we have" and "have always maintained extreme restraint in spending your (the school district taxpayers) dollars."

He said that the area in which the Central School District lies "does not generate, through taxes, revenues similar to neighboring districts," such as Cucamonga and Etiwanda School districts. "Because of our very tight budget, we have not been able to be as generous as our wealthier neighbors."

But, Levy stated, the district and the board have "provided substantial pay increases to narrow the differences between our pay scales and neighbor districts," while he has been a board member.

In other action, the board set aside approval of the purchase of darkening drapes for Central School until more information could be gathered. Central School had requested the drapes for 20 classrooms to be used when films are shown to students. Currently, teachers must move their students to the cafeteria in order to have films shown in a darkened room.

The board passed a resolution allowing teachers to be reimbursed for money they themselves paid for health and welfare benefits. Also approved was an expenditure of $240 for 40 tons of sand for the playground area at Valle Vista School.

People vote against NYC

A plebiscite conducted among its readers by the National Observer drew a resounding 82.8 per cent "No" vote on the question of whether the federal government should use its resources to save New York City from bankruptcy.

No one contends that the result is representative of all Americans. It may not even be representative of all the subscribers to the paper, but merely of those who took the trouble to mail in their vote.

But it may reasonably be assumed that readers of the National Observer are somewhat better informed on current affairs, or more concerned about being informed, than the average person, such an overwhelmingly negative vote suggests that opposition to bailing out New York is shared by more Americans west of the Hudson than just your Iowa farmer or your Pennsylvania coal miner.

Any number of arguments have been put forward as to why New York must not be permitted to go over the brink — the city's vital role as center of the nation's commerce and culture, the possible repercussions in the economy that might well drag down other financially tottering cities and even states.

None of the arguments seems to have impressed many people. There almost seems to be a national consensus that New York must be punished for its sins, real or unfounded. New York, justly or unjustly, has come to stand for everything that is wrong, or allegedly wrong, with this country: overgrown government, fiscal mismanagement, bloated public payrolls and welfare rolls, not to mention polution, traffic, crime and vice.

New Yorkers may consider this shortsighted and unfair, and maybe it is, but it is also a challenge to them. If they can pull themselves out of this mess, without federal help, they will have shown the way to other cities facing similar, if less severe, crises and have earned the admiration and gratitude — which they won't get — of all Americans

Flourishing prep schools

Despite high tuitions, the depressed economy and studies questioning the economic pay-off of a college degree, college preparatory schools are thriving, at least in New England.

A survey of more than 200 prep schools from Connecticut to Maine by the Higher Education News Service found enrollment increases throughout the region this fall. Some schools reported increases as high as 30 per cent.

Boarding schools, which experienced a decline in popularity during the late 1960s and early 1970s, have rebounded even though annual cost (tuition, room and board) now averages between $3,600 and $5,000.

According to Donald Hagerman, headmaster of Holderness School in New Hampshire, one of the few remaining schools that still requires boys to wear sport coats and ties to class, much of the phenomenon is a reaction to the "politicizing" of the public schools.

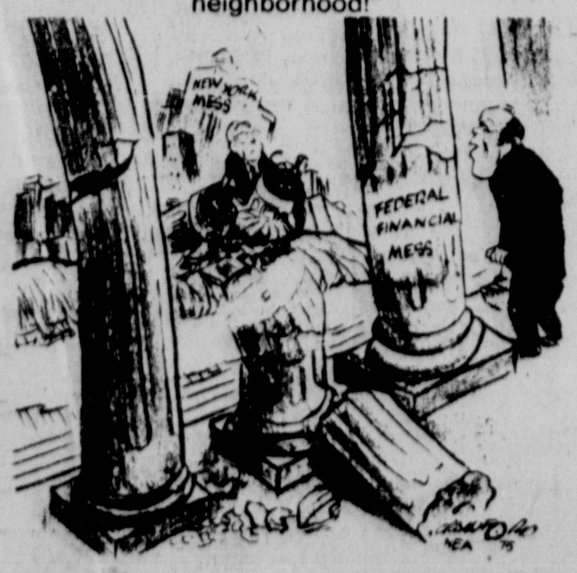

"Public schools which find themselves embroiled in teacher strikes, busing controversies, frozen budgets and politics have disturbed many parents," he says. "These parents, especially in the large metropolitan areas, fear their children's educations are neglected as the schools become laboratories for social reform and teachers and programs endure the attendant distractions and interruptions."

To these parents, a sound college preparatory program, even though costly, now looks very attractive, he says.

Most American families can't afford college prep schools, of course. But there seems to be some kind of message here that our public school administrators and every professional in the field of mass education might be wise to begin listening to.

No jobs or faith

Dear Editor:

If mailing this piece of paper can help solve the crime problem, I wish you luck.

I believe we should get things in their correct perspective and realize the lack of jobs and loss of faith and trust in government are the main causes of our present problem.

The legislative and executive branches of government have taken the easy way out by using the system of public dole rather than stimulate business. Industry, itself, which is always griping about government control has shown even less initiative to do anything about the situation.

The large oil companies have continued to exercise their power and raise prices. Foreign countries are continuing to attempt to dictate to us using their oil wealth as a weapon — oil industries which were discoverd and developed by the countries now being harassed.

A young person nowadays has seen a president be elected on a platform of law and order only to be put out because of his corruption — and then not having to answer for his crimes. While at the same time seeing his peers imprisoned and harassed for minor violations.

They certainly must develop a feeling that nobody really cared about them — so what the hell. Live for today, lie and cheat as your political leaders do, grab what you can and as much as you can every time you can, as your industrial leaders do. That is the philosophy they see.

It all boils down to the fact that government and industry have not kept faith with the youth. They have taken the easy way out of a recession and depression by using a public dole. They have taken no real action, but they are the first to demand his punishment.

Let us point the finger of guilt where it belongs — at do nothing government and money grabbing and insensitive industry. — James H. Cogan, Ontario

Live in peace

Dear Editor:

I agree with you that something must be done about the criminals who are ruining our beautiful Pomona. Why should they be doing what they are doing to people and get away with it.

I lived in Pomona for 40 years and thought it was wonderful. Now like many other people I am afraid to go there anymore.

I think that for every person that they kill, they should either be killed themselves or else be put away for life. Good people have a right to live out their lives in peace. — O. Y., Claremont

Purse snatched

Dear Editor:

I'm enclosing the editorial "Stand up and Be Counted."

Efforts should be made to try to curb existing crime conditions in our town. Your paper should be commended for the "Spotlight on Crime."

Many people seem unaware even now of the danger in our streets. I for one know. At noon to have come out of the restaurant and be knocked down and injured and hospitalized for two purse snatchers. Several of my friends had the same experience here and at the Montclair Plaza. Why? — Mrs. Mary A. Adams

Tools to do the job

Dear Editor:

Thank you for having the courage to put the spotlight on our town. It is a nice town and there are a lot of good people who live here. But there is definitely something wrong. The city is going broke, crime is out of hand despite the large amounts of money spent for protection. The police say that they are handicapped by laws, lenient courts, etc. I say give the law enforcement people the tools to do the job and then see to it that they do it.

There are plenty of citizens who are willing to do their part. What we need is a cooperative program and leadership to get it started. It has always been my impression that civil rights were for the law-abiding citizens?

In the past several years just the opposite would seem to be true. Civil rights are for the law breakers and the radical element while the law-abiding taxpayers pay the bills and do all of the suffering.

I hope you get a lot of response from the editorial. It is long overdue. — Roy Mingus

Speaks from experience

Dear Editor:

I hope your continuous reporting and presentation to public officials will influence the judges as too many of these crimes are committed by repeaters. Also, the probation department is too much on the side of the criminal and the victim suffers.

I speak from a personal experience. — J. E. McCoy

No applause

Dear Editor:

Regarding your headline "Spotlight on Crime."

The objection is the use of the word "Spotlight" as most people like to be in the spotlight. Probably even if you went to prosaic "Report on Crime" or if you can find a horrendous word, that would be better than applause spotlight. — Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Abdella

Crime and punishment

Dear Editor:

Yes, by all means count me in.

However, it is my belief that it will not help to point out crime unless you also point out the penalty as well. How can you stop shoplifting unless the shoplifters are fined a substantial amount for their acts? I think that part of the fine should be given back to the merchants only if the merchant presses charges.

This would offset losses from shoplifters not apprehended and for bad checks which is another form of the same crime. I think that a $50 or $100 fine plus the publication of the person's name in the paper would help to curtail shoplifting. This is only a part of the overall sickness that is permeating the community body.

The police blame judges for their leniency. Judges are forced to be lenient. Lawyers make trade-offs with each other and with district attorneys. People will not press charge because of red tape and the costs involved.

No, pointing out the crime won't do the job completely, but it will help. Please work on this from every other side too. — Frank Seibel, Diamond Bar

Compassion or logic

Dear Editor:

The New York fiscal crisis represents this decade's most significant philosophical issue, but the issue is not being clarified by the strident reporting and editorials for and against Ford's position.

Ford may or may not be correct, but the level of rhetoric directed against his position, leads one to believe that we are considering a political question, rather than an economic question of serious philosophical magnitude.

Simply stated, the issue is: Does society as a whole have either a moral or an economic obligation to pay for the mistakes of a part of society?

If we substitute compassion or politics for logic, it is clear that the answer will always be "yes." Who, after all, on grounds of compassion or politics, can argue against bailing out either the small or the large investor who "meant well."

Thus in the case of Lockheed, the compassion and political arguments are directed to the thousands of employes that will be out of work. In the case of New York, the arguments are that not only the large banks may be threatened, but small suppliers may have to lay off workers, or may face bankruptcy themselves because of credit extended to an insolvent city.

Compassion is the easiest thing to come by under such circumstances, and yet the question remains, will such compassion be misplaced and dangerous over the long run?

When anthropologist Margaret Mead returned to some of the idyllic South Pacific islands of her youth, she saw that the compassion of the missionaries with their medical care that reduced infant death rates had turned those island paradises into overpopulated slums. The beautifully structured societies she had remembered were gone—a victim of "compassion." Nature may seem a ruthless force, and economics may seem a ruthless force, but if we have the courage to let those forces operate our institution may survive in the long run. We should mitigate consequences, but we should not substitute either our own limited abilities and knowledge or spurious political considerations for well-established economic principles.

When well-meaning people extend themselves, make bad investment or bad management decisions, we can sympathize, but we also have a right to ask whether the institution be a city or a plastic widget manufacturer, whether the product or program was really needed, or, if needed, whether it was costing too much or being improperly marketed. To bail out each misguided decision maker is to perpetuate economic mistakes and thus misapply our resources to enterprises or programs that make no economic sense.

To start upon such a course of "bail out" is to destroy what is left of our economic system. Such programs destroy what is left of the standard economic investment considerations that logically allocate a society's resources in a fair, if impersonal, way.

Certain cities and businesses are shakey, and yet certain people will risk lending money to those enterprises if the rate of return is high enough. Loss expectancy is built into every investment. Thus those risky enterprises that cannot manage their resources pay an interest penalty that encourages them to put their house in order over the long run.

Properly managed enterprises with lower loss expectancies can borrow money at much reduced rates, and thus their efficient use of our resources is rewarded.

To have the taxpayer come in and bail out those businesses or cities that are less efficient, riskier and to "equalize" the plight of those enterprises or cities, is to destroy the self-cleansing aspects of our economic systems. Ultimately we all end up with shared poverty for all.

What I see in the New York aid proposals is some blurred compassion, coupled with an almost total disregard of basic economics. Certainly politicians can change an economic system, but I seriously question whether politicians can successfully change an economic system piecemeal on a case-by-case basis without producing chaos for this country or its institutions.

When Mayor Lindsey and Wagner decided that New York's current expenses could be capitalized, that all union demands could always be met, that whatever special interest group needed money, could get money, those political leaders also sowed the seeds of New York's current despair.

We should protect New York City in the same way that we protect an insolvent business, by providing the compassionate and logical remedy of bankruptcy.

With bankruptcy the city still goes on but the economic message is not lost for other cities and other businesses: "The rules still apply to all." By such action all will know that two plus two equals four, even though politicians may have promised "six." — Herbert Hafif, Claremont

Just in jest

Emily Post hasn't as yet given it her stamp of approval, but I am sure she will be inclined to agree with one of our local mothers who recently insisted it's not what you do but where you do it that constitutes official sinning in this day and age. Here's the situation:

Two sisters, ages 7 and 9, were dining with their mother at one of our better restaurants. Midway through the meal the 7 year old, who was engaged in a heated argument with her sister, reached out secretly under cover of the table and kicked the older girl on the shin. There was a loud wail of complaint, whereupon the mother immediately took command and set the girls straight on what constitutes propriety and good manners as prescribed by today's society.

"That will be enough," the mother ordered. "There's a time and place for everything. You can kick her at home but not here."

Mind games and kidnapers

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — When Dr. Claude Fly, then a 65-year-old agronomist, was captured by the Tupamaros a few years back, he spent his 208 days in captivity writing a 600-page biography of himself and a 50-page "Christian Checklist," in which "he analyzed the New Testament to determine what were the 'do's and don'ts' for a good Christian."

In a similar situation, Sir Geoffrey Jackson, British ambassador to Uruguay, began writing a series of children's stories. When the Tupamaros confiscated the first, he mentally wrote and memorized 11 more in his eight months in a terrorist prison. After regaining his freedom, Sir Geoffrey published all 12 as a book.

International political kidnappings have been a growing and profitable business these past several years. And Americans have been the victims in 40 per cent of the cases.

As is meet under these circumstances, the State Department and Pentagon have cooperated in making a study of what kind of men with what kind of attitudes survive, and what a man or woman can do to prevent getting captured in the first place.

A part of the study has focused on Jackson and Fly because of their long imprisonment, their success in surviving with their emotions and personalities intact, and because of the apparent confusion these men created among their jailers, a confusion so great that "the terrorist organization found it necessary to remove guards who were falling under their influence."

That is, it was not Jackson and Fly who were brainwashed.

Now it is not likely many of us will be captured by international terrorists in one foreign country or another. But in reading the stories of these two men I was struck by the thought that the methods they used in their imprisonment might be equally valid for use by anyone who meets up with tragedy beyond our control — when we are left helpless and without hope.

Neither man was young. Jackson was 56, Fly 65. Both had frailties and ailments. But, the study notes, "The two men had several qualities in common: Each had enjoyed a successful professional life and had extensive experience in dealing with people. Each had strong family ties. Both knew how to control their tempers, understood the tactics of their jailers and knew how to cope with their own fears, anxieties and periods of depression. Both men likewise had firmly rooted values . . . And they maintained their dignity through all the dehumanizing experiences of their long captivity.

Perhaps most important, however, was the spiritual strength of the two men. Both were deeply religious — and this gave them the strength to face the constant threat of death. It also enabled them to deal with their captors as fellow human beings in the Christian concept; they avoided the corrosive effects of hate for their enemy."

It was in this manner that both men broke down the antagonism of their captors.

For the prisoners of a terrorist organization to so handle themselves is not easy, subjected as they are to both subtle and crude intimidation aimed at disorienting them so thoroughly they are unable to defend themselves mentally or emotionally.

The first step is to place a prisoner in a place away from daylight and to make certain there is no watch or clock handy — so that he will lose his sense of time.

In practice this is quite effective in making a man feel insecure and confused. He is totally isolated. He will get no news. He often has no contact with other prisoners for weeks or months. His guards are usually unfriendly. He is under a series of pressures — dirt, hunger, disease, and constant threat of death, spoken or implied.

There is a deliberate attempt to build up in each man a sense of total dependence on his captors and a belief he has been deserted by his friends and his country. The attitude that will get a man through these experiences should enable him to meet most of life's crises unbowed.

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Where a gift can help bicycling by recycling

Would you please publish the address of the group which collects empty bottles for recycling?

It was, I believe, a Mexican-American organization in Pomona.

I have lots of clean, empty bottles to give away. Maybe that organization can use them. — Mrs. M. P., Pomona.

We think you are referring to work done by Margarito Banales in the Cherrieville community of Pomona. His address is 797 W. Commercial St.

He collects glass bottles and aluminum cans. The money obtained from recycling them enables him to buy bicycle parts.

He uses the parts to repair bicycles for youngsters in the community and to maintain several he owns and loans to boys and girls whose family budgets won't stretch to include bikes.

I sent for a wig at Greenland Studios. The price was $8.94.

Greenland Studios sent me a wig but it was the wrong color. I returned it, asking for the right color.

A month later I got a card from the Greenland people saying they were out of wigs. At their request, I sent them a copy of my canceled check.

I haven't heard from them for months. — E. M., Chino.

As Greenland Studios advertises in Family Weekly, we sought the help of Lynn Headley, editor of Family Weekly's Weekend Shopper.

She sent us a copy of a letter to you saying she had taken up your problem with Greenland Studios. She asked you to let her know if you had not received a check within two or four weeks upon receipt of her letter.

You got your refund within a week.

I joined the Columbia House records club in April 1974.

The agreement stated I was to receive 12 tapes with my initial order and to buy eight more tapes of my selection within the next three years.

After I received my first 12 tapes and paid $1.97, I received a magazine so that I could make my next selection.

In October I ordered a tape but never received it. In November I received a bill for $1.97 plus postage. I sent Columbia House a photocopy of my canceled check for this payment.

After never receiving any acknowledgement of my letter, I was billed for the full period. This was in December 1974.

By return mail I answered, enclosing a copy of the check again. After not receiving the magazine nor any acknowledgement of this correspondence I assumed my name had probably been taken off the mailing list.

In May I received a letter from Credit Archives stating my account had been turned over to that firm for collection. Please help me if you can. —Y. H., Pomona.

It was the "plus postage" that fouled things up, according to Paula Copeland, assistant director of operations at Columbia House.

She said the firm received your $1.97 but kept on billing you for an additional $2.01 for the processing, postage and applicable sales tax on the enrollment shipment.

This charge remained outstanding so long that the firm added the "due on contract" charge of $60 for the eight remaining purchases.

Because of your frustration and inconvenience, your account has been cleared and the collection agency has been notified to that effect.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, Nov. 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It will be difficult for you to think in anything but large proportions today. This is as it should be. Think big. The details will care for themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're still fortunate in business and finances today, and you'll seek to share your good fortune with friends and associates.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone in a key position is willing to listen to your side of the story today. Talk to him while he is receptive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Insights you have regarding matters affecting your career are on target today. Follow them quietly for best results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll spot a friend who is on the wrong track and set him right without letting others know of his problems. He'll remember your kindness.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Without being arrogant about it, demand what's due you. You may get more than you expected to in the first place.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your judgment is excellent today. You tend to view things not as they are, but as they could and should be.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be impatient if you can't see the fruits of your labor at this time. You are building points and will later reap a fine harvest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be in a socializing mood today, but you need a pal to share your enjoyment. Pick an equally restless friend and you'll have a ball.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You've been talking about it for some time, but now is the time to start that exercise program. Get the jogging togs out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are what you think you are today. If you feel you're going to be lucky, you probably will be. If you want to move mountains, go to it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're going shopping for items for the home today, stick to the price you have in mind. With a little horse-trading you can do it.

Your Birthday Nov. 20

You'll be luckier than usual this coming year in your work or career. You may not get everything you desire, but you won't be unhappy at the rewards you do get.

Ann Landers

Just turn the table around

Dear Ann Landers: I felt a special empathy with the young woman whose mother-in-law talked incessantly about her son's former girlfriend. I got the same treatment, but it wasn't just ONE girl — it was several.

Every time Bob's mother was present I had to listen to detailed accounts of the females who chased him shamelessly, phoned at all hours and camped on his doorstep. All this was designed to let me know I had snared a "prize." Bob never once attempted to stop her. In fact, he filled in the details if she forgot.

After a few months I decided enough was enough. When Bob and I were alone I began to tell him about all my old boyfriends. I started with a kid in the third grade whose name I couldn't remember. I talked non-stop for 30 minutes, dredging up every boy who ever smiled at me. By the time I reached high school Bob said, "I don't care to hear any more. You're boring the hell out of me."

I replied, "Good. Neither do I. Let's make a deal." So we did. The very next time his mother started to do her number Bob shut her up and I've never heard a word about his former flames since. — Problem Solved 20 Years Ago

Dear Solved: Beautiful! There's nothing like playing a record back to deliver a message.

Dear Ann Landers: I went out with Eddie last Friday night. He's very good-looking, spoiled rotten by his parents, and he can get almost any girl he wants. It was our first date. I'm ashamed to tell you how much I wanted him to ask me out.

Instead of having plans for the evening, Eddie rode around awhile and then pulled off to a dimly-lit side street. I thought something was wrong with his car. Before I knew it he grabbed me and said, "I hate it when a girl plays it so cool. Give me a kiss."

I told him to drop dead. He lunged at me. His glasses fell on the floor and I accidentally stepped on them.

He got very angry, drove me home and said if I didn't come up with $40 for new glasses he'd speak to my parents. I have the money in a savings account, Ann, but I don't know what to do. I DID step on his glasses, but it was all his fault. Help me, please. — Miss Mess

Dear Miss: Don't let the punk blackmail you. Had he behaved like a gentleman his glasses wouldn't have been on the floor. Tell Eddie: "Guys who make passes should take off their glasses."

Dear Ann Landers: My job as secretary pays well — but not well enough so that I can subsidize scrounges. The problem isn't the people I work with — it's the boss.

I've been selected to supply coffee for the office. Everyone pays me when they receive their cup, except the boss. He used to pay by the day, but decided it was a nuisance and said he'd prefer to give me a couple of dollars at a time. He seems to think $2 should last forever.

It's been at least two weeks now that he's been "underwater." I feel awkward asking him for money. I need to know how to get the freeloader to ante up. — Heaven Help The Working Girl

Dear Girl: Your boss isn't a freeloader. He'd pay if you asked him. And you should — BEFORE he goes underwater. Simply say, with a smile, "The coffee fund is drying up. Buddy, can you spare a dime? Or better yet, make it $2."

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Joe Firman

Going to court is such a trial

One of these days I am going to sue the Progress-Bulletin for emotional distress caused by depression on the job. The judge will probably award me $100,000 (if I promise to spell his name right in the paper); the attorney will take $99,700 as his fee; and I'll have enough left for a weekend at Laguna Beach with a wife — my own or somebody else's.

What brings this heroic aspiration to mind was two recent precedent-setting cases out of the Los Angeles courts in which two women were awarded a total of $67,500 for "severe feelings of depression" suffered at work. Everyone in the world gets severe feelings of depression at work, but only these two gals were smart enough to capitalize on it. Improbably, they had the same lawyer. Even more improbably, his name was Lessing C. Solov. (To give the final turn of the screw to incredibility, one of the defendants is named Angela Davis. No relation.)

The "depression" cited by Lessing (isn't that DEAR?) had to do with sex discrimination on one gal's part and racial slurs in Angie's case, but the issues are irrelevant to my petition. The operative point is that if you are depressed by some element, personage or treatment at work, you are eligible for $67,500 from our hypersensitive justices.

Okay, Your Honor, viz. FIRMAN vs. PROGRESS-BULLETIN, Pomona Superior Court B, of and by the County of Los Angeles, leave me lay before the court a series of plaints and plaintiffs unparalleled in the history of American jurisrpudence, plus rights, writes, rites, writs, wrongs and restrictions unheard of since the Spanish Inquisition.

In the first place, if the court pleases, I protest the cruel and unusual punishment of making me show up at my desk at 8 a.m. The human animal is barely awake at 8 o'clock and doesn't start functioning efficiently until after 10 a.m. coffee break — if ever. Sagging into my desk chair, bleary-eyed and unshaven in the dawn's early light, has caused me severe depression, and Lessing baby thinks I should have — say, $25,000.

Once at work, the persecution continues. The boss saddles me with Herculean tasks; the sports desk crew guffaws over my picks in the football pool, and the secretaries giggle when I stumble on my way to the water cooler. When I take my break, the coffee is cold and the bear-claws are all gone. While I'm away, someone steals my paper clips and breaks my pencils. Who wouldn't be depressed? Lessing thinks this is worth at least $15,000.

It's a novel interpretation by our courts — that on-the-job depression should rate the same as on-the-job injury. Guy I know got $8,000 for a fractured wrist. I should get $18,000 for a fractured ego.

Dr. Lamb

More details on hypoglycemia

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in your column about emotional effects of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), and I have this problem. I have found that a lot of young teenagers around our schools have mild symptoms of it. Of course, they have been diagnosed by a doctor. Your article was very interesting, but I would like to have some more detailed information, any that you may have dealing with hypoglycemia.

DEAR READER — While hypoglycemia can cause a number of symptoms, you must keep in mind that these same symptoms can be caused from a number of other things. Too much coffee and colas, for example, can cause a state of anxiety, not dissimilar from the nervousness, sweating, tremulousness that a person may have from low blood sugar or whenever adrenaline is released in excess amount.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told by several that I eat too slowly and that's why I'm underweight. My weight is 115 pounds, height 5 feet 8 inches, and I'm 69 years old.

In my younger days my weight was always around 150 pounds. I've always been in good health.

Could over-mastication of food cause loss of weight? My sleep has never been too good and now add to this I work a graveyard shift (security guard).

Have always watched my diet and avoid coffee, tea, soft drinks and liquor. Wonder if I'm beyond the building up stage. My wife is always giving me heck for being so thin.

DEAR READER — A lot of people would like to have your problem. Although there are exceptions, if you look around you will notice that a high percentage of people who live to old age are thin, not fat.

As you get older there is a tendency to lose muscle mass. To avoid this one needs to maintain a well-rounded exercise program for life. As long as the heart and circulation are in good shape you can rebuild muscle mass, even if you are older. It is the amount of weight that a muscle lifts that determines its strength. I would guess you have very little activity that requires loading your muscles very much. You are just like everyone else, if you don't use it, you lose it, whether you are 69 or 24.

No, eating slowly will not cause you to lose weight you don't need. There was an old fad of reducing by chewing your food slowly. The only way it affected a person's weight was to cause them to eat less. If you eat slowly your body has a chance to respond to food, and you may feel satisfied before you stuff yourself.

Your weight is a direct balance between how many calories you take in and how many your body uses. Lack of sleep might increase your use of calories a little bit but not enough to make much difference in your weight, if you are actually in the bed resting.

Be grateful that you are thin because it probably means you are in better health than most of your overweight friends of your age. Don't let anyone talk you into eating a lot to gain unneeded fat that can be harmful to you.

Jacoby's bridge

When no doubt — lead trumps

By Oswald & James Jacoby

	NORTH 19 ♠ K J 9 7 ♥ J 8 2 ♦ A Q 8 3 2 ♣ 7
WEST ♠ 6 5 4 2 ♥ K 9 ♦ 7 5 ♣ A J 9 6 4		EAST ♠ 3 ♥ Q 10 6 3 ♦ K J 9 6 4 ♣ 10 8 5
	SOUTH (D) ♠ A Q 10 8 ♥ A 7 5 4 ♦ 10 ♣ K Q 3 2

East-West vulnerable

West	North	East	South
			1 ♣
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass Pass

Opening lead — 6 ♠

One of the old cliches is: "When in doubt — lead trumps". We want to amend it to: "When not in doubt — lead trumps."

West should not be in doubt today. He has four small trumps that are only useful for one thing. Every time he leads one he makes declarer use two high trumps.

Suppose, West opens a diamond. South might well fall short of 10 tricks, but he can collect them if he knows how. He takes dummy's ace of diamonds and promptly ruffs a diamond. Then he leads his king of clubs.

West takes his ace and decides to lead a trump, but it is too late. South wins in dummy, ruffs another diamond, cashes his queen of clubs and ace of hearts and ruffs a club. Now he ruffs another diamond with his last trump and has eight tricks in. Let's count them. One trump in dummy, three diamond ruffs, one club ruff, the aces of hearts and diamonds and the queen of clubs. He still has two good trumps in dummy to give him the 10 he needs.

If West opens a trump he is sure to get the lead again to be able to lead a second trump. This will cut South down to a maximum of nine tricks, which aren't enough.

Ask the Jacobys

An Iowa reader wants to know who invented the 4-3-2-1 count.

It was invented in 1915 by Bryant McCampbell of St. Louis, who suggested to Milton Work that he use it for notrump bidding. Work did and it became known as the Work count. Charles Goren made it so popular in contract that it is now universal.

Meat with a memory

Client asks for a quick definition of man. That's heavy. Barke said, "Man is an animal that cooks his victuals." Don Herold said, "Man is the only animal that plays poker." Plato said, "Man is a two-legged animal without feathers." I've often thought man was just raw meat with a memory, but my sainted mother always had something to say about the Spirit. Will research this matter further and report. Stand by.

STORM CELLAR

There's no record that anybody in a storm cellar has ever been killed by a tornado.

"FACETIOUS" and "abstemious" are two of the only four words in English that contain all the vowels in order. But what's the third, inquire numerous clients? "Arsenious," says our Language man. And the fourth? Shrug.

WHEN ADDRESSING an envelope to a dentist, it's technically correct to write "John Smith, D.D.S.," if your're going to send it to his office, but "Dr. John Smith," if you're going to send it to his home.

Q. "IS the Black Sea really black?"

A. No, but thick fog on it fouled up so many seamen of old that they gave it the midnight moniker, in fear mostly.

LIMERICK

To My mind, a real tantalizer. . .How the hell would I know. . . That beneath all that glow. . . Beats the heart of a born supervisor!"

SO YOU THINK lack of sleep makes dark circles under your eyes, do you? Not exactly. Lack of sleep makes the rest of your skin pale, though. The dark circles show up better therefore. Or such be the claim of a skin specialist.

YOU CAN GET SOME idea of the size of the Rock of Gibralter from the fact that it contains over 30 miles of electrically lighted roads.

What people say

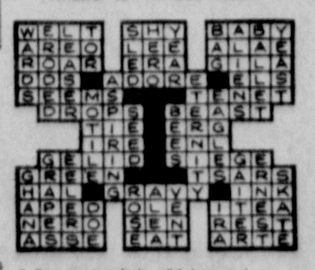

"Somehow we will work these things out. Democracy is like a raft: it won't sink, but you will always have your feet wet."

LaLonde and Gibbs vows are repeated

Miss Catherine Gibbs of Montclair and Robert La Londe of Cucamonga were married recently in the First United Methodist Church in Upland.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Gibbs of Montclair and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. La Londe were wed in a double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. H. Headrick.

Honor attendant was Miss Valerie Gibbs of Montclair.

Bridesmaids were Miss Glenda Mears of Ontario, Mrs. Sue Sibley of San Diego and Miss Karen La Londe of Ontario.

Standing as best man was Larry Fransen of Upland.

Ushers were Robert Gibbs of Montclair, Steven Sibley of San Diego and Barry Answorth of Ontario.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the Upland Inn. When the couple returns from a wedding trip to northern California, the newlyweds will establish a home in Cucamonga.

Christmas bazaar charted

"A Christmas Classic" is the theme for the fourth annual Christmas bazaar, bake sale and luncheon to be held on Saturday by the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley. The event is to take place at the Church of the Brethren, 2425 E St., La Verne.

The bazaar and bake sale will start at 10:30 a.m. with many handmade boutique items for gift giving. There will be a large plant section for those who enjoy a truly green Christmas.

Tickets and reservations may be obtained by calling the YWCA office at 522-1269.

Initiation ceremony scheduled

An initiation ceremony will be conducted when Valley Queen Rebekah Lodge members meet at 8 p.m., Thursday, at Fair Valley Grange Hall.

Receiving the Rebekah degree will be Mrs. Ralph Barckley, Mrs. Margaret McWilliams and Mrs. Barbara Holiday. Mrs. Dorothy Griffiths will be hostess for the social hour.

JOHNNY WONDER

Many clocks and watches today are run by electricity. But the most common type of clock, the spring- or wind-up clock, is powered by the gradual uncoiling of a steel spring, which moves a series of gears, or wheels.

When you wind a clock, you are coiling the mainspring. The spring is mounted on a large gear wheel.

As soon as the spring is wound up tight, it begins to unwind. As the spring unwinds it turns the gear wheel, which causes the other wheels and parts in the clock's mechanism to move.

Two special wheels, called the escape wheel and the balance wheel, keep the spring from unwinding too fast and make the wheels turn at an even rate of speed.

As the wheels turn, the movement slowly turns the hands that point to the hours and minutes on the clock's face.

Watches are really small clocks. A watch may have as many as 160 different parts.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Prune critters nutritious fun

Fun to make — Nutritious, too! Moist California Prunes shape into cunning "critters" — turtle, fish, owl or cat — to provide youngsters with a delicious, energy pick-up that is healthful, satisfying and just packed with nutrition. Prunes are an excellent source of Vitamin A and potassium and they provide the daily requirement of thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, so important for good health, especially for growing youngsters.

Watch faces light up when prune "critters" are passed around. Here's a sweet treat that is as good to eat and nutritious, too.

PRUNE "CRITTERS"

Marshmallows
Gum drops
Raisins
Glazed fruits
Peanuts
Toothpicks
Paper clips
Ribbon bows

TURTLE

Flatten one prune. Snip five holes in prune. Insert golden raisins for legs, a peanut for head. Make eyes of glace cherries. Finish with cross-wise cut at back of prune and pull up for tail.

FISH

Push prune to make one flat side and triangular shape. Cut slit in end and insert a fan-shaped piece of gum drop for tail. Cut small pieces of gum drop for eyes and mouth.

CAT

Cut notches in top of prune to form ears. Straighten paper clip and insert through one prune and into notched prune. Curl end of exposed paper clip and attach bow. Make eyes of marshmallows and cross toothpicks ¼-inch under eyes for whiskers. Warn youngsters about paper clip.

OWL

Attach two whole prunes together side-by-side with toothpick. Cut notch in whole end of half of another prune and form ears. Place cut end of half prune between body prunes. Make eyes of golden raisins and nose of glace cherry.

300-year-old salad is just as good today

The chef's salad — considered America's most popular entree salad — dates back nearly 300 years to the hearty 18th century English "sallet" known as salmagundi. The name for this robust dish of cubed meats and vegetables was coined by the 16th century writer Rabelais who used the phrase to describe a piece of land where vegetables were grown.

It was not until 1687 that the world "salmagundi" was officially used to describe a salad. The use is documented in an original folio describing the coronation banquet of James II and Queen Mary. This grand affair, held in Westminster Hall, included no fewer than 1,445 different dishes. Salmagundi was dish No. 34 at the Royal Table; No. 9 at the table of Peers and Peeresses and No. 133 on the table of the Archbishops, Bishops and Barons.

The earliest written recipe for this salad appears in a book published in 1710 and is probably much like that served at the coronation. According to the author Patrick Lamb, Esquire, a proper salmagundi requires the following:

"Take two or three cabbage Lettice, or Roman Lettice, being clean washed, swing them from the water, begin at the open End, and cut them cross ways as fine as a Thread, and lay a Bed of it on the bottom of your Plate or little Dish, Inch thick; then have two Chickens or Pullets roasted off cold, and cut the Flesh off the Breasts and Wings in Slices, three inches long, as thin as a knife; and a quarter of an inch broad; so lay it all round on the top of your Lettice, the one End out to the Brim of your plate, the other End to the Middle. Take six Anchovies from the Bones, cut each in eight slices, and lay all round betwixt your Fowl; then take the lean Meat of the Legs of your Pullet or Chickens, cut in small Dices, the Yolks of four hard Eggs minced with it, a little minced Parsley, a little minced Anchovy, a little diced Lemon; Make this in a round heap in the Middle like the Top of a Sugar Loaf, then garnish it with small Onions as big as Yolks of Eggs, boiled in a good Quantity of Water, very white and tender; put the biggest of the Onions on the Middle of your minced Meat, ont he top of your Salad, the rest all round the Brim of your Plate, as thick as they can lie one by another. So serve it for a first or second course. Just as you send it up, beat up some Oil and Vinegar, Pepper and Salt, and pour all over it."

For those of you not inclined to prepare this recipe at home, today's version of the salmagundi is commonly available in most restaurants as a chef's sald where each chef adds his own special touch. This salad, filled with a combination of meat, poultry, or fish and garnished with cheese and egg, provides a flavorful and nutritious meal and with the addition of bread and a dessert, can claim main-dish status.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY SALE CELEBRATION...

Green salad with a twist

This really is a Very Green Salad: the ingredients are a pleasing green, with touches of white. It comes to you from the McIlhenny Company, makers of the one and only original Tabasco pepper sauce. Serve this delightful, fresh-looking salad at your next luncheon or informal supper party. Your guests will be green with envy — until they learn how easy it is to make! Its appealing green color makes it very compatible as a side dish salad with any meat or fish dish.

Just cook two packages of frozen green peas. Then drain and mix with chopped scallions (green onions), sliced crisp celery and a little Green Mayonnaise. Chill the mixture, and at serving time spoon into Boston lettuce leaf cups. Pretty to look at and pretty good to eat, too!

You'll feel quite the gourmet chef when you make the Green Mayonnaise. Basic homemade mayonnaise isn't difficult at all to prepare, and it generally has a much fresher quality and flavor than the commercial product. The natural green color comes from fresh spinach leaves, watercress, parsley, and chives, and a little tarragon. The vegetables are cooked and then processed in the blender with the basic mayonnaise ingredients: egg, mustard, salt, lemon juice and oil. Tabasco sauce is blended in with these ingredients to give the proper amount of piquant, spicy flavor.

If you don't want to make your own mayonnaise (but it's fun to do so!), a recipe is also given using commercial mayonnaise. The spinach leaves are omitted in the latter.

VERY GREEN SALAD

- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen green peas
- ¼ cup chopped scallions
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 head Boston lettuce

Cook peas according to packkage directions, drain, and mix with scallions, celery, and ¼ cup Green Mayonnaise. Cover and chill until ready to serve. To serve, separate lettuce leaves into cups and place on 6 salad plates. Spoon salad into lettuce cups and serve with remaining mayonnaise.

GREEN MAYONNAISE

- 1 cup water
- 10 fresh spinach leaves
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- ¼ cup watercress leaves
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
- 1 egg
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 1 cup salad oil

In medium saucepan combine water, spinach leaves, chives, watercress, parsley and tarragon. Place over medium heat, bring to a boil and boil 3 minutes. Drain well and turn into container of electric blender. Add egg, dry mustard, salt, lemon juice and Tabasco. Cover and process until smooth. Remove cover and while blender is running, very gradually add oil in a thin steady stream or 1 tablespoon at a time, continuing to blend until all oil is absorbed. Chill.

To make Green Mayonnaise with commercial mayonnaise, measure 1 cup mayonnaise into a small bowl and blend in 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon dried mustard, ½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce, ¼ cup chopped watercress, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped chives and ½ teaspoon tarragon.

Tip for salads

When using apples for salad, dip the apple slices in lemon juice, salt water or ascorbic mixture to prevent darkening. Golden Delicious apples stay whiter longer than other varieties.

Baked potatoes are protein-stretching economy

If you know folks who came from Idaho, there's a money-saving main dish that might be familiar to you. It's big, baked potatoes done to a turn, opened up, and topped with creamed hard cooked eggs and bits of crisp bacon. Such good eating. Such protein-stretching economy. This is a tip you can put to work in your kitchen tonight. Just get yourself a bag of those Idaho all-purpose potatoes — the eggs and milk you probably have on hand already. And there's a dinner to satisfy deep down — no skimp and no telltale hint of inflation.

Those super potatoes from Idaho are substantial enough to move over from side dish to main dish. The rich volcanic soil, pure mountain water, brilliant days and cold nights grow the very best potatoes in the U.S.A. These potatoes have more solids than ordinary kinds, hence their characteristic eating satisfaction.

You can stretch almost any kind of leftover protien food that you have on hand, using these baked potatoes. It might be fish, chicken, turkey, or ham. Recipes are given for Baked Potatoes with Bacon and Egg Sauce, as homey as a piece of quilting, and for another potato main dish that calls for a creamy Ham and Celery Sauce.

You'll never get complaints from the family when these potato main dishes are your inflation-defeating strategy. They're full of old-fashioned good taste and they leave you feeling that you have had a good, solid meal.

Try these inflation-beaters. They're such to become standbys for the family.

BAKED POTATOES WITH BACON AND EGG SAUCE

- 4 potatoes
- ¼ pound bacon, cut in pieces
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- ¼ cup chopped parsley

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425-degree oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. In medium saucepan, cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon, leaving 3 tablespoons bacon drippings. Add onion to bacon drippings and cook until onion is tender, about 5 minutes. blend in flour. Cook 1 minute.

Stir in milk, salt, dry mustard and pepper. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Add sliced hard-cooked eggs, parsley and reserved bacon. When potatoes are done, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with the slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon sauce over each potato.

BAKED POTATOES WITH HAM-CELERY SAUCE

- 4 potatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups, (½ pound) diced cooked ham

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. While potatoes are baking, prepare sauce. Melt butter in medium saucepan. Add onion, celery and celery leaves. Cook 5 minutes, until tender. Blend in flour. Cook 1 minute. Stir in milk, lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Add ham and heat. When potatoes are done, remove from oven and cut an "X" in the top with a fork. Then push some of the potato up with slight pressure of the fingers on the side of the potato. Spoon sauce over each.

Beef, spicy seasonings good combo

Beef and spicy Mexican seasonings are natural partners. Chile peppers, garlic, cumin and cilantro are the basic flavorings of mexican cooking. Beef, with its own hearty rich flavor stands up well to these distinctive seasonings ranging from mildly pungent to very hot. Because this ethnic cuisine is so popular throughout the state, Mexican ingredients are available in many local stores and supermarkets.

Necessity was mother of the Caesar salad

The scene is a flamboyant Mexican border town hotel during Prohibition Days. Our hero is Caesar Cardini who later became a world famous restaurateur catering to movie greats. The time is a busy Fourth of July weekend in 1924.

A throng of tourists has descended on Caesar's place, and he is faced with a nearly depleted pantry containing a few crates of romaine, half a case of eggs, a huge wedge of Romano cheese, some lemons, green olive oil, dry bread, garlic, spices and herbs in abundance.

Cardini considered closing shop for the remainder of the holiday but instead rolled up his sleeves and decided to invent a new salad from the limited and unusual combination of ingredients at hand.

Limited to romaine lettuce as the only green, the dressing was critical. Experimenting with a little of this and that, he came up with the idea of coddling the eggs for a minute, then tossing them with the salad and oil-based dressing. He then cut the loaves of bread into tiny cubes to be added to the bowl at the very end. The anchovies, now a familiar ingredient in Caesar Salad, didn't become part of the recipe until some 10 years later.

The next stage required a sense of showmanship. "Take everything to each table," Cardini instructed, "and make a ceremony of fixing the salad. Plenty of fanfare. Let guests think they're having a specialty of the house." As the story goes, that's just what they thought.

So what has happened to the Caesar Salad since those days? At the 1951 Paris meeting of the International Society of Epicures, the world-famous dish was acclaimed the "greatest recipe to originate from the Americas" in the past 50 years. No small feat for a salad that was conceived by a desperate chef in an effort to "make do."

Tangerine is lift to pies

Those two great pies, Pecan and Cheese, get dressed up tonight and go to town with tangerines.

Sure, you've heard of blueberry cheese pie, cherry cheese pie . . . but, tangerine? Of course! If you think about it, the tangerine's natural properties — light, fresh and juicy — ideally complement the thick, gooey richness of cheese pie. Yet, unlike other fruit and cheese pies, the tangerines aren't just any old top hat in a gorgeous glaze; they "step out," along with the cream cheese, eggs and sugar to further enhance an already sumptuous flavor.

Peak Florida tangerine season runs from November to February. During these months, the fruit is most readily available and lower in cost.

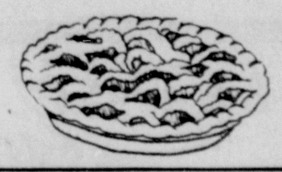

In the Tangerine Pecan Pie, tangerines play a special part that you'll welcome. Florida tangerines downplay the sugariness in this sometimes overly-sweet pie, producing a very delicate flavor. Even the consistency is more delicate. The tangerine pulp and juice lighten pecan pie's sometimes heavy quality to create a more moist texture. But, pecan pie fans need not fear, for, although the sweetness is understated and the consistency gentler, that pecan pie goodness is still there.

So, go to town with two great favorites. Because, this time, they're dressed up like a million.

TANGERINE PECAN PIE

- 3 eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- 2 teaspoons grated tangerine rind
- 2/3 cup pureed tangerine sections (2 to 3 tangerines)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups pecan halves
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

Beat eggs in large bowl; blend in sugar, corn syrup, tangerine rind and puree, butter and salt. Stir in pecahs. Pour into pastry shell. Bake at 400-degree oven for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 35 to 45 minutes longer, until set. Filling will be moist in center. Cool. Serve garnished with whipped cream and tangerine sections.

To puree tangerines, peel off skin, section tangerines and remove seeds. Process at medium speed in electric blender or put through food mill.

FLORIDA TANGERINE CHEESE PIE

- 2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, at room temperature
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 4 eggs
- 2 teaspoons grated tangerine rind
- ¼ cup Florida tangerine juice
- 1 9-inch graham cracker crust
- 3 Florida tangerines, peeled and sectioned

In large bowl of electric mixer, beat cream cheese with sugar until smooth and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add tangerine rind and juice. Pour into prepared shell. Bake in 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Cool and chill. Arrange tangerine sections over top of cooled pie. Pour Tangerine Glaze over sections and chill at least 2 hours.

TANGERINE GLAZE: In small saucepan combine 1 cup tangerine juice, ¼ cup water, 4 teaspoons cornstarch and 2 teaspoons sugar. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Boil one minute; remove from heat.

Mrs. Cubbison's ready-to-use DRESSING

SEASONED JUST RIGHT FOR DELIGHTFUL FLAVOR ❀ TWO STAY-FRESH BAGS . . . ENOUGH TO STUFF A LARGE TURKEY ❀ MAKES THE BEST TURKEY TASTE EVEN BETTER ❀

Salad mold has creamy dressing

A rich salad mold with its creamy Waldorf dressing starts simply with fresh Bartlett pears and lemon flavor gelatin. It is crunchy with chopped walnuts and celery and has added color via red grapes.

Certainly a holiday-oriented dish that will be a useful recipe addition for other seasons. This is a make ahead dish although you will prefer to make the dressing just before serving.

PEAR WALDORF MOLD

- 2 fresh Bartlett pears
- 1 (3 ounces) package lemon flavor gelatin
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- ¾ cup cold water
- ½ cup halved and seeded red grapes
- ¼ cup chopped celery
- ¼ cup chopped walnuts
- Creamy Waldorf Dressing
- Pear slices and grapes, for garnish

Core and dice pears, but do not peel. Dissolve lemon gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add cold water. Chill until partially set. Add pears, grapes, celery and walnuts. Pour into 4-cup mold and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with Creamy Waldorf Dressing. Garnish with pear slices and grapes.

Makes 6 servings.

CREAMY WALDORF DRESSING

- ¾ cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¼ cup heavy cream, whipped
- Chopped walnuts, for garnish

Combine mayonnaise, lemon peel and sugar. Fold in whipped cream. Serve.

Garnished with chopped nuts. Makes about one and one-quarter cups dressing.

Organ meats are helped by sauces

Beef liver and tongue benefit from south-of-the-border sauces. Pan fried or grilled liver, for instance, is delicious with salsa fresca. It's a simple sauce of chopped tomatoes, onions and green chilis blended with a little oil, vinegar and coriander. Spoon the chilled salsa over tender, juicy liver cooked to medium rare. Cold sliced tongue with salsa fresca is another unusually tasty combination.

Slip into nutritious meals with handy banana

When you need a quick, light, nutritious meal, bananas are the answer. This handy fruit is as versatile as can be, to eat hot or cold, or use as an ingredient, and it's good value at your market year around.

Today's good ideas for using bananas come from the Banana Bunch, industry-sponsored center for consumer information about bananas. The suggestion: serve delicious Banana omelets for practically instant main courses that are light and attractive when you want a hurry-up meal or a king-size snack.

Omelets are economical, and they are very easy to do. The recipe gives the whole technique in a clear and simple style. For these main dish omelets — good at brunch, lunch, or supper — we give a whole family of delightful fillings. No complaints about dull food even if you are favoring the food budget. There's a Banana Jambalaya Filling with New Orleans style seasonings, a Banana and Spinach Filling, and a Creamed Banana and Tuna Filling, heartiest of the three.

Each makes a most attractive main course at budget cost. You'll find this a new and interesting way to take a much-needed stitch in a frayed food budget.

Crusty rolls or bread complete this meal, and you may want to add a green salad for texture contrast. If you haven't been entertaining because of the high cost of food, here is a way to invite friends for brunch or Sunday night supper, and come off with a very modest bill. It's fun to hold an omelet party in the kitchen area — there may even be an omelet buff in the crowd who will spell you off in producing these delicious main dishes for a party.

BANANA OMELET

2 eggs
2 teaspoons cold water
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Break eggs into bowl. Add water and salt; beat with a fork until mixed but not frothy. In seasoned 8-inch heavy skillet or omelet pan, heat butter until bubbly but not brown. Add beaten eggs. Over high heat, hold pan firmly and briskly shake pan to prevent eggs from sticking to surface. The eggs will cook quickly, so it may be necessary to lift sides with a spatula to allow uncooked egg to run under the cooked edges. Place one of the desired banana fillings in center of omelet and with a spatula fold in half. Slide onto heated plate and top with extra filling if desired. Makes one omelet.

BANANA JAMBALAYA FILLING

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 small green pepper, seeded and chopped
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
1 small tomato, peeled and chopped
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 cup sliced bananas (2 medium)

Melt butter in large skillet; add green pepper, onion and celery. Cook until tender. Add tomato and diced ham; cook, stirring, until heated through. Add bananas just before filling omelet. Allow ½ to ¾ cup per serving.

BANANA AND SPINICH FILLING AU GRATIN

1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup diced bananas (2 medium)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese

Cook spinach according to package directions; drain well. In a small saucepan melt butter; stir in drained cooked spinach, bananas, lemon juice and salt. Keep warm. Stir in cheese just before filling omelets. Allow ½ to ¾ cup per serving.

CREAMED BANANA AND TUNA FILLING

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 cup sliced bananas (2 medium)
1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt butter in saucepan; add onion, cook until tender. Blend in flour and cook for 2 minutes over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Return to heat. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil for 1 minute. Remove from heat, add bananas, tuna, lemon juice, tarragon, salt and pepper. Keep warm over low heat. Fill omelets, using ½ to ¾ cup per serving.

Potato chip sales climbing

The great American love affair with real potato chips keeps rolling along, according to latest figures released by the Potato Chip Institute International, trade association for the industry.

Based on potato utilization figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Institute says Americans are annually purchasing more than 800 million pounds of chips, for an average of about four pounds per person.

USDA says that in the 12 months ending July 1, 1975, manufacturers of pototo chips sliced away a 3.2-billion-pound mountain of potatoes . . . (It takes approximately four pounds of potatoes to make one pound of chips.)

According to Robert Lippold, president of the institute, retail sales of potato chips were over a billion and a half dollars during that period.

Lippold said that real potato chips account for almost 50 per cent of the market for salted snacks purchased by American consumers.

"Despite all of the attempts to imitate real potato chip flavor and the myriad of other snack foods that are introduced each year, potato chips continue to be the solid anchor for the snack food business in America.

"What seems to be evident is an old adage that in times of economic woes, people eat more potato chips and other snacks — and eat out less," Lippold said.

The most graphic example of this, he said, can be found in Detroit, one of the hardest hit cities during the current recession. A survey of chip manufacturers in that city showed recently that economic conditions have not had any marked detrimental effect on business.

"In fact, most of the manufacturers contacted said business was fantastic, considering the circumstances," Lippold explained.

Real potato chips, Lippold pointed out, are made from thin slices of raw potatoes, deep fried and salted.

Barbecued beef is a way of life

Serving beef barbecued on spits was a tradition at the meriendas or picnics held by the early rancho communities. Now, barbecued beef is a way of life in California. With today's high quality beef cattle, there is a wide variety of flavorful beef cuts suitable for grilling. By using tenderizers and marinades, almost any cut of beef can be successfully barbecue.

Now's the time to get ready for carolers

When the youngsters come a-caroling, plan to treat them to homemade, butter cookies and mugs of hot chocolate. That's a welcome snack break for them from the chilly, though festive, outdoors. And it's a charming, hospitable custom that lets them know you appreciate their sweet singing voices.

Whether the carolers are few or many, you're certain to have many cookies on hand if yours is the traditional home where baking is one of those magic holiday preparations that builds fond memories. This is one of the get-ready-for Christmas things that can be done well in advance, especially if you have room to freeze the cookies. When made with butter, the flavor of these tidbits actually improves.

A good and varied selection includes Jolly Jelly Cookies which are a cut-out variety put together with jelly. Cheerio Cherry Bars are layered cookies as delicious as they sound while Butter Jewels are a shaped-by-hand treat festively topped with halved, candied cherries.

All of these makes a holiday very special when they're served with Festive Hot Chocolate, made with wholesome milk, dressed up with chocolate, orange and almond flavors, then topped with whipped cream and grated orange peel.

JOLLY JELLY COOKIES

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2¾ cups all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ cup finely chopped almonds
- Red currant jelly

Cream butter; add sugar and continue beating until blended. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour and salt; add to creamed mixture; blend well. Chill dough. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface to ⅛-inch thickness. (Roll one-half of dough at a time for ease in handling.) Cut about 36 rounds, stars or rectangles with cookie cutter (about 2½" diameter). Re-roll as needed. Bake on buttered cookie sheets in preheated 375-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Do not brown. Remove to wire rack to cool.

Cut another 36 cookies; cut out centers with a smaller cookie cutter to form rims in the shape of rounds, stars or rectangles. Re-roll centers to use up dough. Place rims on buttered cookie sheets. Brush with slightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with sugar then almonds. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven 6 to 8 minutes. Spread cooled cookie bases with jelly. Top with cookie rims.

CHEERIO CHERRY BARS

First layer:

- ½ cup (1 stick) butter
- 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries, drained

Second layer:

- 2 eggs
- ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/3rd cup all purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup finely chopped nuts
- ½ cup flaked or shredded coconut

To prepare first layer: cream butter; gradually add sugar and continue beating until blended. Gradually add 1 cup flour. Toss cherries in 2 tablespoons flour; add to dough. Spread evenly in buttered 8-inch square baking pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven 20 minutes.

Meanwhile prepare second layer: beat eggs until thick; gradually beat in sugar until well blended. Add vanilla. Mix together flour, baking powder and salt; blend into egg mixture. Fold in nuts and coconut. Spread carefully over baked First layer. (No need to cool baked first layer.) Bake about 25 additional minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cut into bars.

BUTTER JEWELS

- ½ cup (1 stick) butter
- 1/3rd cup sugar
- 1 egg yolk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- ½ cup finely chopped nuts
- Candied red and green, cherries, halved

Cream butter; add sugar and continue beating until blended. Beat in egg yolk, vanilla, lemon juice and peels. Combine flour and salt; add to creamed mixture; blend well. Chill dough. Shape into 1-inch balls. Dip balls in egg white, then in nuts. Place on buttered cookie sheet. Press a candied cherry half onto top of each cookie. Bake in preheated 300 degree F. oven 20 to 25 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool.

FESTIVE HOT CHOCOLATE

- 1/3rd cup chocolate-flavor milk mix
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 quart milk
- Whipped cream
- Grated orange peel

Add chocolate-flavor milk mix, orange peel and flavorings to milk in heavy saucepan; heat to serving temperature. Pour into warmed mugs. Top with generous spoonfuls of whipped cream; sprinkle with orange peel.

Faint heart can tackle this quiche

Feeling faint-of-heart about tackling a quiche recipe! For some reason, many experienced, as well as inexperienced cooks look upon the quiche as an extremely difficult treat to make. It really is not. And, with the holidays approaching, it is time to take egg beater in hand and whip up an onion spinach quiche.

Experiment first on the family and then include such a quiche as part of your buffet when entertaining. This creamy rich main dish pie had its origins in France and goes well as a brunch entree with fruit and crisp bacon, at lunch with a tossed green salad or at dinner with grilled sausages, a fruit salad and a dry white wine or cider to drink with all.

ONION SPINCH QUICHE

- 1 pound (2 cups, finely chopped) sweet Spanish onions
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 (10 ounces) package frozen chopped spinach
- ¾ cup grated Swiss cheese
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Dash nutmeg
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Peel and chop onions. Saute slowly in butter. Cook spinach according to package directions. Drain thoroughly. Combine onion, spinach and Swiss cheese. Beat eggs. Blend in milk and seasonings. Bake pie shell. Pour egg mixture over the top. Bake in 375-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 6 servings.

Americans love foods of Mexico

Americans love beef and Mexican cooking. And it is not surprising considering California's two centuries of Spanish and Mexican heritage. The first cattle were brought to Alto, California, in 1769 by Don Gaspar de Portola and Fra Junipero Serra. In 1776 the Anza expedition to settle in San Francisco brought the first large-scale movement of mexican cattle into California. By 1880 the number of cattle greatly exceeded the quantity needed for food in the new territory.

Candleholders

An appropriate candleholder for Thanksgiving and Christmas can be made from polished red apples. Remove the core from the stem end with an apple corer, leaving about ½-inch of the fruit at the base. Insert candles. Autumn leaves, pine cones and nuts help to complete an attractive, appropriate centerpiece.

PRINCESS TOFFEE TORTE

Cut two dozen lady fingers in half. Cut half of the pieces into two-inch lengths and stand them upright, top crust side toward pan and cut side down, around edge of a nine-inch spring form pan. Line bottom of pan with lady finger halves. Soften 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Prepare a three-ounce package of vanilla pudding mix (not instant) as directed on package. Add gelatin to hot pudding and stir until dissolved. Stir in 1½ cups chopped English toffee candy bars and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill mixture until it starts to thicken. Fold 2 cups prepared dessert topping into chilled toffee mixture. Fill center of pan with alternate layers of pudding and remaining lady finger pieces, making pudding the top layer. Chill until firm. To serve, remove torte from pan onto serving platter. Ring top edge of torte with 2 more cups of prepared dessert topping mix and sprinkle with ¼ cup chopped toffee candy bits. Serve with sweetened peach slices.

DON'T LET THIS LAST BIT OF HOT WEATHER GET AWAY FROM YOU. ENJOY A STEAK TONIGHT.

The European canape can brighten holidays here

The origin of the word canape is European and its literal translation is "couch". When related to food, it refers to bread, toast, crackers or pastry topped with delectable combinations of flavors. In other words, the bread or its counterpart serves as a "couch" for the food which is artfully arranged upon it. Canapes may be plain or fancy, hot or cold, but they must always be open-faced.

Because of their versatility and their appetizing appearance, they are ideal for any number of festive occasions. The holiday season would be a perfect time to serve canapes when entertaining your friends or family.

Here are five hot canapes, three on petite rye bread and two on extra thin sliced white bread. To add to the eye appeal of those on white bread, we have used a shaped cookie cutter. However, for the more economy-minded, the crusts may be trimmed off and the bread cut diagonally to make four toast points from each slice — every bit as taste tempting and attractive besides.

In order to ease last minute preparation, all of these spreads may be made ahead and frozen. Then, all that will be necessary to do before your guests arrive will be to thaw the mixtures, arrange them on their breads, garnish and bake.

CRABMEAT TOASTS

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 6½-ounce can crabmeat
- 1 tablespoon sherry
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- Premium sandwich extra thin sliced bread
- Paprika

Combine softened cream cheese, mayonnaise, onion, horseradish, salt and pepper. Beat with an electric beater until thoroughly blended. Mix in crabmeat, sherry and almonds. Refrigerate until ready to use. With a cookie cutter cut shapes out of bread. Spread crabmeat mixture on each canape, sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a 325 degree oven 5 minutes or until browned.

MUSHROOM ZAKUSKI

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped chives
- ½ teaspoon thyme leaves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ cup sour cream
- Premium sandwich extra thin sliced bread
- Chopped parsley

Saute mushrooms in butter or margarine until tender. Add chives, thyme, salt, pepper and flour. Mix thoroughly. Blend in sour cream. Refrigerate until ready to use. With a cookie cutter cut shapes out of bread. Spread mushroom mixture on each canape. Sprinkle with parsley and bake in a 325 degree oven for 5 minutes or until browned.

PATE WITH BACON AND WATER CHESTNUTS

- 2 4-ounce packages liverwurst
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- 2 teaspoons horseradish
- 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- Slices petite rye bread
- 1 can water chestnuts, sliced thin
- Crumbled bacon

Thoroughly blend liverwurst, catsup, horseradish, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Refrigerate until ready to use. Trim crust from bottom of petite rye bread. Spread pate on each slice. Top each canape with a slice of water chestnut and bake at 325 degrees for 5 minutes or until browned. Garnish with crumbled bacon.

DUTCH CHEESE AND HAM CANAPES

- 1 7-ounce package Gouda cheese, grated
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 1 4½-ounce deviled ham
- Slices petite rye bread
- Canned asparagus tips

Thoroughly blend cheese, mayonnaise, onion and ham. Refrigerate until ready to use. Trim crust from bottom of petite rye bread. Spread cheese and ham mixture on each slice of bread. Garnish with asparagus tips and bake in a 350 degree oven for 5 minutes or until cheese has melted and canape is lightly browned.

CANAPES A LA NORSK

- 2 3¾-ounce cans smoked sardines, drained
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons milk
- Dash salt
- Dash pepper
- Slices petite rye bread
- Ripe olive slices

In a bowl mash sardines well. Add lemon juice, mustard, mayonnaise, milk, salt and pepper. Blend thoroughly. Refrigerate until ready to use. Trim crust from bottom of petite rye bread. Spread sardine mixture on slice of bread. Garnish each canape with a ripe olive slice and bake in a 325 degree oven for 5 minutes or until browned.

Onion is versatile vegetable

"Without onions there would be no gastronomic art." Universally, onions are regarded as a staple flavor addition in cooking. However, the onion by itself is a very versatile and delicious vegetable.

Saute as a steak accompaniment, parboil small onions and serve in cream sauce or scallop much in the manner of potatoes. Large onions can be stuffed with meats, fish or rice. With crusty cheese-broiled sourdough bread floating in each bowl, French onion soup makes fine supper fare.

ONION SOUP GRATINEE

- 4 large yellow onions, thinly sliced
- ¼ cup butter
- 3 cups rich beef broth
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 cup shredded Gruyere or Samsoe cheese
- 4 to 6 slices buttered French bread
- ¼ cup grated Romano cheese

Using a soup kettle, saute onions in butter until limp and golden brown. Add broth, wines, Worcestershire sauce and garlic and simmer 10 minutes. Stir in Gruyere. Sprinkle French bread with Romano cheese and broil until golden. Ladle soup into bowls and float toasted bread on each.

Onions are satisfying to grow and can be used green or left to become dry onions. The nature of the onion is to grow tops in cool weather and form bulbs in warm weather. The gardener's choice of seeds or transplants depends on where he lives. Varieties are classed by long-day (14-16 hours daylight) or short-day (12 hours). In the south and areas below 28 degrees latitude short-day kinds are planted in fall for spring harvest.

In the new Ortho book "When the Good Cook Gardens" you will find suggestions for varieties recommended for different areas along with how to grow, harvest and store onions.

Holiday gift: a vintage navel orange crop

Everyone looks forward to navel orange season. Happily, their arrival coincides with the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. That is why navels have been called "Christmas oranges" for so many generations.

The new crop is indeed a holiday gift this year. Citrus experts have termed it a "vintage crop", with bright orange skins and great flavor. Unusual climatic conditions have been responsible for small sizes in all western-grown citrus this year, so unless there's a dramatic growth spurt, look for the smaller sizes to be your best buy.

You can tell a navel orange by the navel formation opposite the stem end. While nature may put an occasional seed in a navel orange, most are seedless. Look for bright navel oranges from California and Arizona in your markets from mid-November through the month of May. They're bursting with goodness, to give your holiday celebrations an old-fashioned, fresh look and a taste treat too.

A basket of holiday navel oranges, set off with a big ribbon bow and festive greenery, is a perfect gift to the newly married couple, singles, friends, aunts, uncles and grandparents alike.

ORANGE TRADITIONS

In Austrian tradition, Advent is a religious season of preparation for Christmas. The Advent wreath, made up with four candles, is placed in a prominent location, and on each of the four Sundays prior to Christmas one candle is lit. By the 25th, all four candles are burning brightly.

The Advent calendar is another colorful and meaningful celebration of the coming holiday. Beginning on the fourth Sunday before Christmas, children who have been good are allowed to open a window each day. Behind each may be a message, a picture or even a gift.

Here is a beautiful decorative idea that can be used to celebrate Advent, or just to help your youngsters pass the anxious days before Christmas.

You will need cellophane, clear or amber-colored, about 25 square feet; about 26 navel oranges; 26 twist ties; 26 different notes or greetings; 1 large round tray; assorted baubie and greens.

TO ASSEMBLE: 1. Cut 26 cellophane squares, about 1 foot square. 2. Compose different messages for each orange. You can cut from old Christmas cards, compose your own greetings, or have your children assist you. Messages may also direct the child to a little gift, hidden treasure-hunt style. 3. Place one orange and a message in center of each cellophane square and bunch together. 4. Secure with a twist-tie. 5. Repeat for remaining oranges. Your youngsters will enjoy helping with this as long as they can't see the message. 6. On round tray, place a layer of cellophane-wrapped oranges to fit. Keep stacking, gradually tapering the top into a "tree". 7. Place greens and baubles among oranges and top with a spectacular star or perfectly-shaped piece of green.

Each day, the children get one orange off the tree. In addition to their special message, they get their vitamin C-filled navel orange. Because your children's friends will love to partake, too, you may want to add extras as the supply dimisishes. Oranges should stay fresh until Christmas, provided they're tightly wrapped. Cellophane may be reused.

SPECIAL GIFT

Are you looking for a gift to give to a very special person — a gift you have made yourself that says, "You're tops"?

This orange- or lemon-flavored brandy, bottled in a special decanter, will surely please and delight. It's a recipe that has been handed down from grower to grower in California's San Joaquin Valley, one of the western citrus growing areas. David Kline, a grower in the valley, shares this easy-to-make, holiday gift idea with you. He suggests using an inexpensive brandy.

ORANGE OR LEMON BRANDY

- 4/5 quart brandy (about 3 cups)
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 large California-Arizona orange or lemon

Pour brandy into large jar or container with tight-fitting lid. Add sugar; stir until dissolved. Wash orange or lemon and thoroughly dry. With vegetable parer, remove peel in one long, continuous spiral; add to brandy mixture. Tightly cover jar and set aside; away from light, for 24 hours to allow flavor to develop. Remove peel. Pour brandy into container; cover. Do not place in bottle with screw lid. (Makes 3½ cups.)

Drained brandied peel may be kept in freezer for about one month. It is excellent when cut into strips and used in coffee or tea. Or dice and use in cake mixes, fruit cakes or sweet rolls. Growers' wives place a piece of the peel in brown sugar to keep it from caking and drying.

Fudges and candies are a special part of holiday preparations. But plain old fudge can't compare with this delectable treat. The flavor of fresh oranges from California and Arizona combine so beautifully with chocolate, you'll never want to eat ordinary chocolate fudge again!

CREAMY ORANGE FUDGE

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 can (5-1/3 ounces) evaporated milk
- 10 large marshmallows (or 100 miniature)
- 1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- ½ cup butter or margarine, cut in small pieces
- 2 tablespoons fresh grated orange peel

In saucepan, combine sugar, evaporated milk and marshmallows. Bring to boil over medium heat. Boil 6 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add remaining ingredients. Beat well until fudge thickens, about 5 minutes. Pour into buttered 8-inch square baking pan. Chill until firm. Cut into squares. Makes about 2 pounds or 25 pieces.

Holiday guests will welcome an ambrosia of juicy navel oranges, dates and coconut. It can be served by itself or topped with a delicious sauce.

HOLIDAY AMBROSIA

- 6 medium California-Arizona oranges, peeled and sliced
- 1 cup pitted dates, cut in halves lengthwise
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- 1 cup sour cream
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons fresh grated orange peel

In glass compote or serving dish, arrange alternate layers of orange slices, dates and coconut; chill. Combine sour cream, sugar and 1 teaspoon orange peel; chill. Serve over fruit, sprinkled with remaining orange peel.

It is easiest to grate peel from whole orange before peeling and slicing.

A Mexican accent for beef salad

Beef salads take on Mexican accents with aplomb. Cold roast beef strips on iceberg lettuce with red kidney beans, avocado wedges and ripe olives makes an appetizing, nourishing lunch. Typical elements of a taco, spicy beef, cheese and crisp lettuce, make a tasty salad, too. Serve this with tor-tilla chips and green pepper rings for a quick meal anytime.

Hospitality is warmest gift of the holidays

As the English poet Thomas Tusser so aptly expressed it in the 16th century, "At Christmas play and make good cheer, for Christmas comes but once a year."

Surely there is no finer gift one can bestow during the Yuletide than to extend the warm hospitality of their home. Whether entertaining a crowd or toasting with a few, cups brimful of flavorsome cheer are a must. Crimson bright and as glistening as the ornaments on your Christmas tree, piquant cranberry juice drinks are the perfect base for preparing spirited, holiday beverages.

Flaming Cranberry Brulot is a merry mix combining cranberry apple drink, sugar, pineapple and orange juices, cinnamon sticks, cloves and orange rinds. Served enticingly warm, it will be a welcome treat to those coming in from winter's chill.

Punches add an air of festivity at holiday time, and here are three that will become favorites. Cranberry Bubble Punch mixes cranberry juice cocktail, orange liqueur, champagne and lime slices for a sparkling, effervescent drink. Guaranteed to captivate the taste buds of all, Hot and Spicy Berry Bowle combines cinnamon red hots, strawberry gelatin, cranberry juice cocktail (or cranberry apple drink), and cider. Serve this hot drink either in mugs, cups or stemmed glasses with a cinnamon stick as garnish. Be sure to have a good quantity warming for refills.

The third punch is pink and pretty as a picture. Creamy Almond Berry Nog mixes cranberry juice cocktail, vanilla ice cream, almond liqueur and heavy cream. After all the ingredients have been well combined in a punch bowl, puffs of whipped cream are floated on top, and then lightly sprinkled with mace.

For a tantalizing drink that can be served either hot or cold, Cranberry Winter Wine combines cranberry juice cocktail, red wine, sugar and lemon juice. Serve this drink either from a large pitcher or carafe into crystal wine glasses. It is equally pleasurable as an aperitif, or for sipping along with an elegant holiday feast.

Here are the recipes for these five bright berry beverages that are easy to prepare and will certainly help to make good cheer.

FLAMING CRANBERRY BRULOT

- 4 cups crangerry apple drink
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup orange juice
- 3 cinnamon sticks
- 1 orange rind in one long piece
- 6 whole cloves

In a large saucepan, combine all ingredients and heat until bubbly. Simmer for 5 minutes. Keep warm over a warmer and serve hot in heat-proof mugs.

CRANBERRY BUBBLE PUNCH

(Makes about 8½ cups)

- 4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
- 1 cup orange liqueur, chilled
- 1 bottle (4/5 quart) champagne, chilled
- Lime slices, ice cubes

In a 3-quart punch bowl, mix cranberry juice and liqueur; refrigerate. When ready to serve, slowly stir in champagne. Add lime slices and ice cubes. Serve at once, icy cold, in small punch cups.

CREAMY ALMOND BERRY NOG

(Makes about 12 cups)

- 4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- ½ cup Amaretto di Saronno liqueur
- 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream, whipped
- Ground mace

In a punch bowl mix cranberry juice and ice cream until well blended and smooth. Stir in liqueur. Fold in ¾ of the cream. Top punch with puffs of the remaining whipped cream. Dust puffs of cream with mace.

HOT AND SPICY BERRY BOWLE

- 1 cup water
- ¼ cup cinnamon red hots
- 1 package (3 ounces) strawberry gelatin
- 7 cups cranberry apple drink OR 4 cups cranberry juice cocktail and 3 cups cider

In a 3-quart saucepan, mix water and cinnamon red hots. Boil until candies are melted. Stir in gelatin until completely dissolved. Add cranberry juice. Reheat until punch is bubbly. Serve hot with cinnamon sticks.

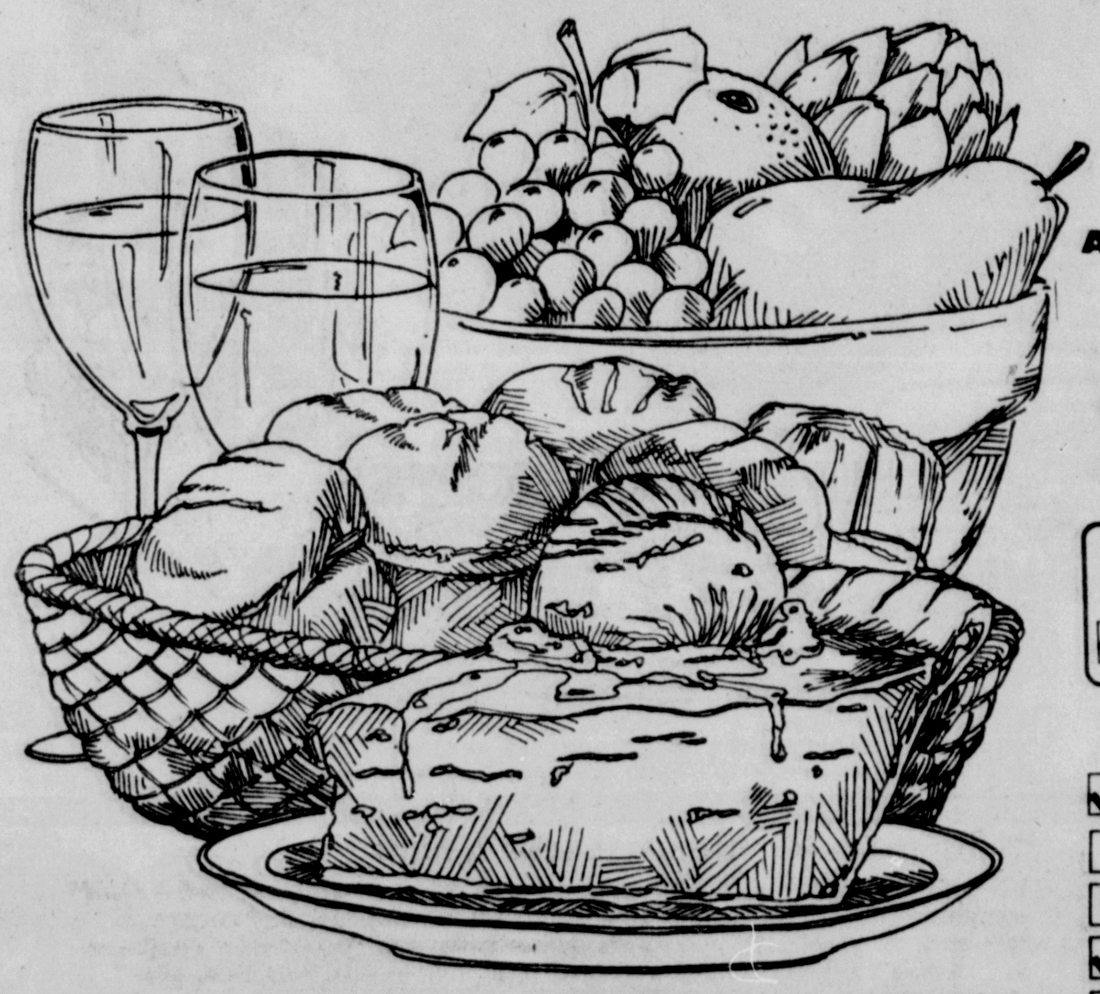

CRANBERRY WINTER WINE

(Makes about 8 cups)

- 6 cups cranberry juice cocktail
- 2 cups Marsala wine
- ½ cup superfine sugar
- Juice of 2 lemons
- Ice cubes, lemon slices

In a tall pitcher, mix all ingredients stirring until drink is well mixed. Serve in wine glasses. This drink can also be served hot, omit ice cubes and heat drink, after combining all ingredients in a large saucepan, until mixture just bubbles. Serve in cups or mugs with lemon slices.

700 people surveyed on food likes

If you snack on potato chips instead of cheese or choose an ear of corn over an artichoke, your food choices match those of obese people.

In a food choice survey undertaken at a student cafeteria on the University of California at Berkeley campus, obese persons tended to select more high-calorie, low-nutrient foods than those of normal weight.

Results of the survey were discussed by UC Berkeley professors June Gates, Ruth Huenemann and Richard Brand in the October, 1975, issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association.

Of the approximately 700 men and women tested, those classified as obese tended to select more pasta, starchy vegetables, rolls, desserts, gravies and soft drinks than those of other body builds.

Normal weight people more often selected meat, eggs, cheese, milk, non-starchy vegetables and fruit juices.

The obese not only selected more foods high in calories in proportion to the nutrient contribution, they also chose larger quantities.

The study also showed that tall people chose more servings than short people and men took more food than women. There was no significant difference in the number of servings selected by subjects over 30 years of age and those under 30.

The article pointed out that obesity is one of the foremost health problems in the United States and that overweight persons often are unable or unwilling to keep track of the kinds and amounts of foods they eat.

To help control weight, the California Dietetic Association suggests that you eat sensibly and make daily food choices from each of the Four Food Groups (milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals) to maintain good nutrition.

Storing apples

If you buy apples in a perforated polyethylene bag, keep them in that bag in the refrigerator. The perforations allow air to enter the bag so the apples can breath. If you buy them in bulk, store them in the hydrator or in a covered container in the refrigerator to maintain proper humidity.

Market news keeps the food supplies flowing

When you go to the grocery store you rarely have to worry about whether there will be any meat or apples or lettuce. You can almost always rely on a steady supply of all kinds of perishable foods.

How is this possible in a country as large as ours where individual enterprise is the rule and there is no central control?

One thing that makes it possible is a nationwide information network called market news, a service provided by federal and state governments that has been going on for some 50 years. Market news is coordinated by the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Here's how it works. Market news reporters — employes of both federal and state governments — are stationed all across the country where they can check on supplies of various foods and farm products coming to market. Every day they go out to places where the selling and buying of food and farm products takes place. They check by telephone, too. In either way they gather information on how much of each product is available, the demand for it, the prices the various qualities of a product are bringing, and other details of the trading that is going on.

Quickly they make their information available to newspapers, radio, and television so that everyone has access to it. Their reports are flashed across the country by means of a teletypwriter network that interconnects all the market news office — so the retailer in New York can find out about the supplies in California only minutes after the California market news reporter has filed his report.

With information on supplies, prices, demand, and movement of farm and food products available to everybody, producers can make sure that they get a fair price for their products — wholesalers and retailers can keep their supply lines filled — and consumers can reap the benefits of the stabilizing effect this information has on supplies and prices of their food.

Apples are making news because of the crop size. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) expects the crop to total about 173 million boxes, the largest commercial crop ever.

According to L.B. Barbee, fruit and vegetable market news officer in charge with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service in San Francisco, all apple-growing regions report crops well above last year's harvest. Eastern states report a 14 per cent increase; central states, 17 per cent increase; and western states expect a 9 per cent increase.

The apple varieties which account for the major part of the commercial crop are Red and Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Winesap, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, York Imperial, Stayman, Yellow Newtown, Baldwin, Northern Spy and Rhode Island Greening.

Each variety has its own distinctive characteristics in taste, color and firmness of flesh. Most people prefer tart apples for cooking and apples with a firm, white flesh for baking. For the most part it's a matter of individual taste.

Apples can be used in many ways — boiled, baked, fried, or broiled. They adapt readily to any method of food preparation, and are versatile enough for any part of a menu . . . in salads, as applesauce, fried apple rings, cakes, pies, dumplings, jellies, apple butter, juice, cider, and of course eating-out-of-hand.

For a festive brunch, serve apple ring fritters with sausages and maple syrup.

APPLE RING FRITTERS

4 to 6 tart apples
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Peel and core apples; slice crosswise about ¼ inch thick. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar, salt, and allspice. Beat egg slightly; beat in milk and melted butter. Add to flour mixture, mixing until smooth. Stir in lemon juice. Dip apple slices in batter; fry in hot vegetable oil about ¼ inch deep until golden brown, turning to brown both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with sizzling hot sausages and maple syrup. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Nature's brush

Some foods stick and cling to the teeth, others like apples provide a natural cleansing action. Ending a meal or a snack with an apple helps to remove the sticky foods and freshens the mouth. That's why apples are often called "nature's toothbrush."

French cooking his specialty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

He came, he cooked and he conquered. Late last year Richard Olney, an elusive man with celestial taste buds, came from his hillside home in France's Provence to visit the United States. His two-month stay was occasioned by the publication of "Simple French Food," the cookbook he wrote and illustrated. During his tour of the country you may have seen him on television, heard him on radio or taken some of his cooking classes. When he returned to France he left behind a loyal following. Now as another holiday season approaches and a rash of new cookbooks appears, we are concerned that "Simple French Food" continue to be recognized as a culinary classic.

With its help, cooks can cultivate their gastronomic sensibility and produce many French dishes in purest form. One example of the way professional food people regard Richard Olney's work: "Simple French Food" is the only cookbook sold at "A La Bonne Cocotte," the cookware shop that Lydie Pinoy Marshall runs in connection with her New York cooking school. Because Mrs. Marshall is known for teaching la vraie cuisine francaise, her allegiance to the Olney book is not to be taken lightly.

I attended one of Richard Olney's fascinating New York cooking demonstrations and tasted the fabuluous food he prepared (zucchini omelet, sorrel tart, herb-stuffed bass in lettuce casing) and the delightful wines he brought from France. Although we met several more times, I found him hard to interview. He was obviously tired of detailing his life as a painter (this principal vocation), cook, wine connoisseur and author. I concluded that he hoped his book would speak for him.

After reading it I was so impressed with his acute sensitivity that I was wary about feeding him. Then, too, I had heard tales of his temper at a mutual friend's home when he met with a dish that wasn't up to his standard and of the tart remarks he had on occasion doled out at cooking sessions. I needn't have been so cautious. At a late evening meeting at my house, when neither of us had had time to eat dinner, Richard was suddenly and ravenously hungry. To meet the emergency without interrupting our conversation, I phoned for the speediest nearby possibility — second-rate Chinese food. He downed it with the utmost amiability. I suspect Richard's temper waxes and wanes with the company he keeps.

Another evening at my house, this time at a proper dinner hour, Lydie Marshall's husband, Wayne, grilled steaks in my kitchen fireplace. Richard was appropriately grateful that the meat was the rich-flavored but chewy skirt cut rather than more pallid but tenderer beef. And his savoring of a succulent Poireaux au Gratin (brought by Lydie) as he reached into the gratinsdush to lap up the last spoonful, endeared him to the rest of us around the table.

The extraordinary aspect of this man, born and bred in the United States, is that the highly nationalistic French recognize him as a rare culinary talent and true oenophile. Restaurateurs, chefs and vintners all over France consult him.

Now in his 40s, he has lived in France about half his life — ever since his art student days — with few trips back to this country. He hasn't needed to stir from his beloved Provencal olive groves and terraces of thyme because his brothers and sisters and friends often visit him.

Richard learned to cook when he was quite young. Of the provincial kitchen he knew in his family's home in Iowa he has written, " — not too bad a background, inasmuch as I grew up at a time when eggs were still fresh, Jersey milk was unpasteurized and half cream, chickens were from the backyard, packaged cake mixes and frozen foods were unknown, and garden fruits and vegetables were eaten in their proper seasons. Fortunately for me, my mother, who had eight children to raise and little enthusiasm for cooking, was delighted by my willingness to experiment in the kitchen. Pot roasts, sage-and-onion dressing, and angel-food cakes were more in order at that time than the sort of preparations that occupy me now. But even in those early days I learned to rely on Escoffier for inspiration."

These days anyone interested in French cooking can rely on Richard Olney for inspiration.

("Simple French Food" by Richard Olney is published by Atheneum.)

Communists take lead in shaping Eurocommunism

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — With its French and Spanish partners, Italy's big Communist party is taking the lead in shaping Eurocommunism — a version of Marxism and Leninism that they hope will be acceptable to Western Europeans.

A joint policy declaration with the French party unveiled Monday made a definite pitch to voters in both countries, which are democratic and predominantly Roman Catholic and in which leftist strength is already sizable.

The declaration pledged allegiance to the Western parliamentary system, promised to respect civil and religious liberties in what sounded like the U.S. Bill of Rights and declared every nation has the right to choose its own political and social system without outside interference.

It also included an attack on "the pretension of American imperialism to insert itself in the life of people." But the stand against "all foreign interference" could just as well be a declaration of independence from Moscow.

The policy statement was worked out in two days of talks in Rome and a meeting in Paris last month between party delegations led by Italian Communist chief Enrico Berlinguer and his French counterpart Georges Marchais.

In July, Berlinguer and exiled Spanish Communist chief Santiago Carrillo held talks in the Italian port city of Leghorn and issued a joint declaration pledging to "eliminate fascism from Western Europe, particularly the Mediterranean."

But there are differences in the Spanish-Italian and French-Italian declarations. The Communists concede that policies must be shaped to fit the particular cultures and needs of individual European countries.

The Spanish-Italian declaration, reflecting the traditionally close views of the two parties, spoke of "a Socialist solution based on the coexistence of various forms of initiative and public and private administration."

In contrast, the French-Italian declaration was more classically Marxist. It put the accent on "public control of the principal means of production and exchange," — leaving to the private sector only "a specific and positive function in the construction of socialism."

On European issues, a line expressing "concern over the difficulties felt by the young democracy in Portugal" was seen as a compromise. The Italian Communists are skeptical of Portuguese Communist leader Alvaro Cunhal's methods while the French have at times openly sided with Cunhal.

Nixon interview

War threat needed to increase faith?

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon says American lives may have to be threatened by war to rekindle Americans' belief in the United States and in the country's need for strength.

In his most extensive remarks since he was forced from office by the Watergate scandal, Nixon told the Ladies Home Journal, "We are so cynical, so disbelieving — it may take the shock of an invasion in Korea or in Thailand. If American lives are threatened, we may regain our sense of belief in our country and our need for strength."

Businessman - author William M. Fine conducted the unpaid, copyrighted interview for the Journal in May at Nixon's home in San Clemente, Calif.

Nixon had begun the interview by asking Fine, "How is the world in general, and what do they think of me lately?"

And at another point the former President said, "Yes, I know all the things that were and are still being said about me. Do you think the mood of the people is changing?" The article included no remarks about the Watergate scandal.

Nixon noted the potential peril in a dispirited America: "We are a compromised country at the moment. The Communist countries don't need any troops or military acts right now.

"They can just keep adding pressure points and take strategic advantage in the Far East and Middle East. Japan will be questioning its position regularly. We gave the Philippines their independence too soon I fear."

"Anyhow, if the church and the media and business and educators all allow the undermining of our strength and values, we will keep drifting that way — and our allies in the Far East won't put any belief in our commitments. I worry most about Japan."

To counter what he sees as a loss of pride, Nixon said, "I think I would ask five or six of the best brains around me to go off on a retreat for several weeks and ponder some things — how we could make our people feel more pride, not be so concerned with Arab wealth.

"What's wrong with being the second wealthiest country for a while? We as a country have to provide strength and leadership."

"I'd work on a major television presentation to our people on the eve of our 200th birthday, remind them that in 1776 we only had spiritual wealth, and look where it took us. We must rekindle that spiritual growth to knit people together ..."

2nd income became trap in recession

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many American families fell into unexpected financial difficulty over the past two years because they came to rely upon a second income, often provided by a working wife, that was lost in the recession.

At one point the second income might have been used for luxries, such as a vacation or home improvements, while the husband's income paid for the essentials of life.

As times got tougher, the second income became a necessity. More and more it went to support an established lifestyle. It financed needs rather than something extra.

The American Bankers Association found this practice high on the list of financial problems that plague many families today, especially as prices continue to rise and the economy appears slow to recover.

Other common difficulties, the ABA found, result from delays in seeking relief from creditors; assuming new loans to meet payments on existing ones; anticipating earnings that don't materialize; divorce, and the absence of emergency funds.

The following difficulties, and their causes, complete the list:

—UNWILLINGNESS TO CHANGE LIFE-STYLES. Some families are unwilling to lower their standard of living to compensate for lost income. Believing their setback to be temporary, they decide to ride it out.

In fact, for many families the belief that material conditions get better each year is the essential element in their interpretation of the American dream. Could it be any other way, they ask? Yes, it could, they found.

"These people come to financial counselors bewildered," said one respondent to an ABA survey of members and financial counselors.

The solutions are the obvious ones: more income or fewer expenditures. The impact of recession still makes the first option a difficult solution to achieve; for many families the second option is too painful to face.

—OVERESTIMATING RETIREMENT INCOME. Most retired Americans live on far less income than when they were working. For them, growing old means growing poor.

"Thirty-four per cent of all retired people live entirely on Social Security checks — they have no other income — and the average Social Security check for a retired couple today is just over $300 a month," the ABA says.

Even those who receive company pension income find their funds have diminished in value through inflation. And company profit-sharing retirement plans often aren't worth what they were two or three years ago.

To "Remember, if you need $1,000 a month to live today, in 10 years — if today's inflation continues — you'll need $2,000," the ABA observes.

—INDIFFERENCE TO BUDGETING. "Inflation clobbers these people because they have no way of measuring the true impact it has on their lives," the bankers say. "Because they don't keep records, such people don't realize that something that cost $1.20 years ago now costs $1.70.

—CARELESS ATTITUDE TOWARD MONEY AND CREDIT. Until a few years ago, it seems safe to say, most people in the years since World War II believed money and opportunity were on the upswing. As a consequence, many families believed in spending now, worrying later.

But as one money manager responded to the ABA survey, "The age of sacrifice is here for nearly all Americans, and we had better face up to it."

Concludes the ABA: "The people who are in the best position to survive continued inflation and recession are the hard-working, resourceful, disciplined and prudent."

USDA proposes new standards for pork and beans

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed U.S. grade standards for canned baked beans. In related actions, USDA amended earlier proposals to establish grade standards for canned pork and beans and to revise U.S. grade standards for canned dried beans. USDA will accept comments on the three proposals until Dec. 31.

Currently, canned dried beans, canned pork and beans — canned dried white beans and pork with tomato sauce — and canned baked beans are graded under the U.S. standards for canned dried beans, in effect since 1947. These standards also cover dried white beans in other packing media such as brine, tomato sauce, and sweetened sauce.

The earlier proposals, published in the Feb. 26 Federal Register, were made to allow for the many types of sauces and seasonings available in canned dried beans today. The proposed standards for pork and beans also recognized the sauce for pork and beans as more than a packing medium, since the sauce is always consumed and contributes to the flavor and consistency of the product.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) said comments on the original proposals indicated that the proposed changes did not take into consideration the characteristics of "New England style" baked beans — solid packed, seasoned beans prepared by the application of dry heat. These beans have a different consistency and texture than canned dried beans or canned pork and beans. The proposed separate standards for baked beans would include these characteristics as grade factors.

The proposed standards for canned beans, canned pork and beans, and the revision of the standards for canned dried beans provide for two grades: U.S. Grade A and U.S. Grade B. The Proposals would eliminate the optional use of U.S. Fancy for Grade A and U.S. Extra Standard for Grade B.

The proposals were scheduled for publication in the Oct. 29 Federal Register. Written comments should be sent in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

AMS establishes grade standards and provides official grading for many food products. Use of the standards and grading service is voluntary.

More than 100 years ago, California's fertile San Joaquin Valley experienced such an extreme hot spell that grapes normally used for wine dried on the vines before the growers could pick them. This was the first important U.S. raisin crop, and the 60 tons were sold immediately in San Francisco as "Peruvian delicacies."

Since that time, raisin production has flourished in the San Joaquin. Annual crops in excess of 200,000 tons are now prevalent.

These are a few of the many facts about the California raisin industry in a new publication just released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service. "Marketing California Raisins" covers such topics as: U.S. production, marketing, marketing order programs, research, world production and trade, and a list of sources for raisin information.

A single, free copy of "Marketing California Raisins" (MB-58) can be obtained by sending your name and address to: USDA, Agricultural Marketing Service, Information Division, 630 Sansome Street, Room 702, San Francisco, California 94111.

MEAT AND POULTRY INSPECTION

Federal inspection is required by law for all meat, poultry and their products shipped in interstate and foreign commerce and is administered by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The purpose is . . . to ensure clean, wholesome, unadulterated, meat and poultry. It also ensures that the supply of meat and poultry will be accurately labeled.

APHIS provides inspection at nearly 6,000 establishments throughout the U.S. and supervises standards maintained in foreign plants that handle meat and poultry for exports for this country. The inspection system includes inspection of live animals and poultry before slaughter, carcasses after slaughter, and at various stages of food processing and handling.

If states cannot maintain standards "equal to" federal inspection requirements, the federal system must assume responsibility for inspection in plants holding meat and poultry for interstate trade.

Interesting facts about the turkey

With Thanksgiving scheduled for a nationwide celebration Nov. 27, Donald H. Clinton, president of Clifton's Cafeterias has submitted some interesting highlights concerning the holiday in general and turkeys specifically:

— The first Thanksgiving feast was a three-day affair. It was held in 1621. Included among the guests were Massasoit and 90 of his braves who joined the Pilgrims in a feast of gratitude.

— President Lincoln proclaimed Thansgiving Day a national holiday in 1864. A lady named Sarah Joseph Hale suggested as much but it took her 20 years of campaigning before her idea was accepted.

— Americans appreciate the distinctive flavor of turkey but in Ireland, corned beef and cabbage is known as "Irish Turkey."

— Back in 1963, a 60-pound turkey was purchased at the International Poultry Show in London for $784. A year later at the same show, the greatest recorded weight was registered for a tom which weighed 63 pounds, 12 ounces.

— Benjamin Franklin in comparing the wild turkey to the bald eagle, said: "The turkey is a much more respectable bird."

— American Indian medicine men used turkey feathers as a charm at sacred ceremonies.

— During World War II, the term "Turkey Shoot" was the description used for a mass airplane attack on the enemy.

— The name turkey has several derivations. Some claim the wattles of the bird resembles the Turkish fez. Others say the bird makes a soft "turk, turk" sound. Another version is that "tukki" comes from a Hebrew word meaning peacock.

— The musical number, "Turkey in the Straw," is considered the liviiest and most popular of American fiddle tunes.

Auxiliary will meet Thursday

Members of Charles P. Rowe Unit 30, American Legion Auxiliary, will hold their annual membership dinner at the Candlelight Inn, 4210 Holt Blvd., Montclair, at 6:30 p.m., Thursday.

The dinner will precede a meeting at 8 p.m. New members, past presidents and 50-year members will be honored.

Mrs. Alfred T. Danis, membership chairman, is in charge of arrangements for the dinner and introduction of the new members. Mrs. Kenneth Kirkpatrick, Past President's Parley chairman, will introduce and honor the past presidents of the unit.

Entertainment will be provided for the evening by Chester Wallace, magician. Members, husbands, and friends will be among the guests at the dinner.

FALL FOOD FESTIVAL

What a bountiful harvest we've had this year! There's an abundance of almost every product we consider "holiday fare." Other than pork (including ham) which is still in short supply, many prices are less than a year ago. This is good news for all of us. In fact, because some holiday baking ingredients, such as sugar and walnuts, are so much lower this year, it's a good time to get busy in the kitchen and create those special food gifts for favorite friends.

During recent weeks, Alpha Beta has put quality beef back into your budget, and now, turkey prices have dropped to stretch your holiday food dollar even further. Many varieties (fresh, frozen, butter basted, etc.) of this tasty bird are available in the Alpha Beta meat case. If you need help in making your selection, the Butcher in the Red Apron will be happy to answer your questions and advise you on your purchase. We want to guarantee your satisfaction.

A free leaflet called "Let's Talk Turkey", has been prepared to give you tips for your holiday turkey, but the ideas will be good anytime during the year. One of the features is a group of specially selected turkey recipes. With these, you won't let a scrap of this nutritious protein food go to waste! Just call or drop a note for your copy.

Have a happy Thanksgiving.

Sandwich alternative is a taco

Western beef tacos are a favorite alternative to the sandwich. The word taco literally means a snack. Californians prepare them by folding crisp fried tortillas in half and filling with a spicy beef mixture, crisp vegetable garnishes and shredded cheese. For authentic flavor, season the ground or shredded beef with chili powder, onions and prepared taco sauce.

The principal sail on a sailing vessel is the main sail.

Another interesting dessert for holidays

For many, the mere mention of holidays ahead conjures up visions of interesting desserts.

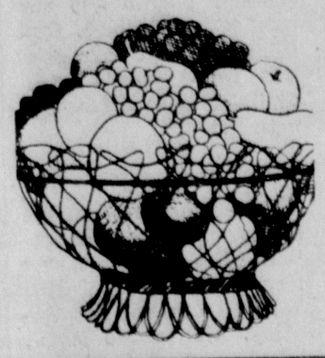

The most popular desserts are not always the most elaborate. For example, when you bake Mincemeat Squares, your kitchen will be filled with the wonderful odors of honey and spice.

They are just right for the coffee hour or tea time. Make a double batch. Gift wrap, enclose the recipe and present as a small holiday gift to a friend.

Mincemeat Squares

- 1 cup sifted all purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup honey
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ¼ cup milk
- 1½ cups quick or old-fashioned oats
- 1 cup mincemeat
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees (moderate). Sift together flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, salt and soda. Set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter until soft. Continue creaming while adding honey in a fine stream. Blend in lemon peel, milk and flour mixture. Add oatmeal, beating until well mixed. Pat half of oatmeal mixture into bottom of well greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Mix together mincemeat and lemon juice. Spoon filling evenly over bottom layer. Drop spoonfuls of remaining oatmeal mixture evenly over filling. Gently pat mixture into even layer to cover filling. Bake 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Cool on rack. Cut into squares. Makes 16 squares.

Top off the feast with fig fruit cake

At holiday time, the board really groans with all sorts of extra good things to eat. The traditional turkey replete with savory dressing, baked ham glazed to shimmering perfection and, the best holiday dessert of all, fruit cake. It's filled to the brim with chopped nutmeats, spices and all sorts of fabulous fruits. And it's decidedly delicious, enhanced by the flavorful difference of golden ripe California Dried Figs.

Naturally tree-ripened, sun-dried figs provide concentrated nourishment, are delicious to eat and form a flavorful blendship with nuts and fruits.

This holiday season, discover the fruit cake that bakes up rich and golden brown, with the ingredient that adds a crowning touch. Golden Fig Fruit Cake is made with plump natural California dried figs. It's the fruitiest cake to come out of the oven.

GOLDEN FIG FRUIT CAKE

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- 1¾ cups chopped walnuts
- 1½ cups chopped dried figs (stems removed)
- 1¼ cups chopped pitted dates
- 1¼ cups mixed diced fruits and peels for fruitcake
- 1 cup raisins
- ¾ cup candied red cherries
- 1 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 5 large eggs
- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup brandy

Grease a 9½-inch tube pan with cooking oil or solid shortening. Line pan with foil then grease the foil.

Sift together 1 cup of the flour with the salt, soda and spices.

Mix remaining 1 cup flour with the walnuts, figs, dates, fruits and peels, raisins and cherries, separating pieces of fruit with your fingers.

Beat butter and sugar till light and fluffy with electric mixer or with wooden spoon. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. (Mixture may look curdled but don't worry).

Beat in corn syrup and brandy. Add the sifted flour mixture, stirring to blend. Add fruit and nut mixture, blending well.

Turn into prepared pan. Set another pan, containing two cups water on bottom oven shelf. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) 2 hours and 15 minutes or till cake tests done and top is brown.

Cool cake in pan on wire rack 30 minutes. Loosen cake from sides of pan with small spatula or sharp knife and turn out on wire rack. Remove foil. Using a second rack, turn cake right side up again and cool thoroughly on rack.

Wrap in foil and let stand at room temperature overnight. Store in refrigerator several weeks before slicing thin for serving. Traditionalists may wish to serve with a hard sauce.

If you like, glaze before serving by brushing with hot corn syrup. Trim top with dried figs. When glaze is set, glaze a second time.

HARD SAUCE

Beat ½ cup butter and 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar on electric mixer till thoroughly blended. Add 1 egg yolk, beating till light and fluffy. Beat 1 egg white with dash of salt to stiff peaks. Beat into yolk mixture along with 1 teaspoon vanilla, beating well. Chill before serving.

Ice cream and this pie all in one

Pie a la mode devotees are in for a special treat. A frozen pumpkin pie combines this favorite of pie fillings with heavy cream and spices to top a layer of ice cream. All this goes on a rich graham cracker crust and is frozen until ready to serve. Make several of these in advance of big family dinners or special buffets. Because of its richness cut the pie in smaller than usual servings.

FROZEN PUMPKIN PIE

- 1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin
- ½ cup dark corn syrup
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 cup heavy cream
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 baked (9-inch) graham cracker crust
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

Stir together pumpkin, corn syrup, salt, ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon. Whip cream, gradually beating in sugar. Fold pumpkin mixture into sweetened whipped cream. Spread bottom of crust with ice cream. Spoon pumpkin mixture over ice cream. Freeze at least 2 hours. Remove from freezer just before serving.

Heart hints

Traditional menu to promote health

Once again this festive season the American Heart Association has prepared a traditional menu for holiday dining with family and friends.

This year the recipes are not only calorie and fat controlled, following the association's recommendations for prudent eating, but are acceptable for most persons on sodium restricted diets.

As an added service for cooks wishing to prepare their favorite recipes, a conversion table for butter and lard, and for chocolate is included. Tips for low sodium baking are an added bonus.

HOLIDAY MENU

Hot spiced apple punch
Roast turkey/gravy
Stuffing balls
Mixed vegetable saute
Cranberry sauce
Baked tomatoes
Fruit salad/poppeyseed dressing
No-bake pumpkin pie
Nut bread

This hot spicy apple punch won't add calories while the guests are waiting.

HOT SPICED APPLE PUNCH

- 1 cup apple cider or apple juice
- 2¾ cups water
- 1 stick cinnamon (1½ inches long), broken in pieces
- 12 whole cloves
- 1 envelope (4-serving size) low-calorie orange gelatin dessert
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice

Simmer apple cider, water, cinnamon, cloves in a covered saucepan about 10 minutes. Strain. Dissolve gelatin in the hot liquid. Add lemon juice; then serve hot in mugs or cups. Makes about 3¾ cups or 5 servings.

Stuffing balls cooked outside the turkey will reduce the level of fat consumed and will allow the cook to prepare one batch with salt and one without if necessary.

STUFFING BALLS

- 2 cups chopped celery
- 2/3 cup chopped onion
- ¾ cup margarine
- 1 teaspoon rubbed sage
- 1 teaspoon thyme leaves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 8 cups bread cubes
- 2 egg whites, beaten until foamy

Saute celery and onion in margarine, stirring occasionally. Stir in spices. Pour vegetable mixture over bread cubes in large bowl. Add egg whites and toss well. Shape into balls using about ½ cup for each. Place in large greased baking dish. Cover; bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Uncover; bake 15 minutes longer, or until lightly browned and crisp. If desired, spoon mixture into 1½-quart casserole. Bake uncovered at 325 degrees about 1 hour.

Time-and energy-saving recipes like this no-bake pumpkin pie will save precious minutes for the busy homemaker.

NO-BAKE PUMPKIN PIE

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1½ cups canned pumpkin
- ¼ cup sugar
- Sugar substitute equal to ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice mix
- 2 tablespoons rum or rum flavoring
- 2 tablespoons unsaturated margarine
- ½ teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1 (9-inch) baked pastry shell

Soften gelatin in cold water. In a saucepan mix together pumpkin, sugar, sugar substitute, pumpkin pie spice mix, rum, unsaturated margarine, and orange peel. Cook slowly until hot and slightly thickened; add the softened gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Cool filling slightly, then pour into baked pastry shell. Chill for several hours or until firm.

Recipes for the complete holiday menu may be obtained from the American Heart Association, 2405 West Eighth St., Los Angeles, California 90057, telephone 385-4231.

Fruit and cheese is elegant ending to festive dinner

Your dinner's been lovely. It's time for guests to get up from the table.

They're well pleased with the foods you've served, but the meal needs a deft finishing touch. On that note lead everyone into the living room where you can serve them easily and elegantly: a delightful assortment of cheeses, crackers, fruit and a fancy coffee. It will be enough for a bit or a bite, as your guests desire.

Cheese with fruit is one of the easiest desserts imaginable because they need only a bit of preparation while being turned into a handsome tray. Brie is a soft cheese which can be set out on leaves, surrounded by grapes. Sharp Cheddar may be sliced and set next to crackers or cubed and paired with pitted prunes. Edam with its red coating provides a nice "center," while aromatic and full-bodied Port du Salut may be sliced. All these cheeses should be at room temperature (remove from refrigerator 30 to 60 minutes before serving).

If you're using a tiered platter for serving, crown the top tier with a Blue Cheese Bombe to set off the other cheeses and foods attractively.

BLUE CHEESE BOMBE

- 1 envelope unfalvored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- ½ cup (2 ounce) crumbled Blue cheese
- 1 cup (4 ounce) shredded Cheddar cheese (room temperature)
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

Mix gelatin with cold water; heat until dissolved. Beat together Blue cheese, Cheddar cheese and sour cream; stir in gelatin mixture. Pour into 3-cup mold; cover and chill until firm. Unmold, garnish with grapes. Serve with assorted crackers or fresh fruit.

WEST INDIES COFFEE

- 7 cups milk
- ½ cup instant coffee
- ½ cup brown sugar, packed
- Dash of salt

Heat milk to boiling. Stir in coffee, sugar and salt until dissolved. Heat to serving temperature. Top with whipped cream, if desired.

MEXICAN MOCHA

- 1 quart milk
- ¼ cup instant chocolate flavored mix
- 2 tablespoons instant coffee
- ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon

Scald milk. Stir in chocolate, coffee and cinnamon until dissolved. Top with sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

Casseroles great for fall party

Beef casserole dinners with Mexican flair are great for fall entertaining. Prepared in advance, enchiladas with spicy ground beef filling and canned enchilada sauce can be made in quantity and quickly reheated in the oven. A party menu is nicely completed with refritos, a green salad and sliced fruit.

Diet myths

There are probably as many myths about dieting and weight control as there are overweight people.

Dairy Council of California nutrition consultants compiled the following list of commonly held fallacies about dieting.

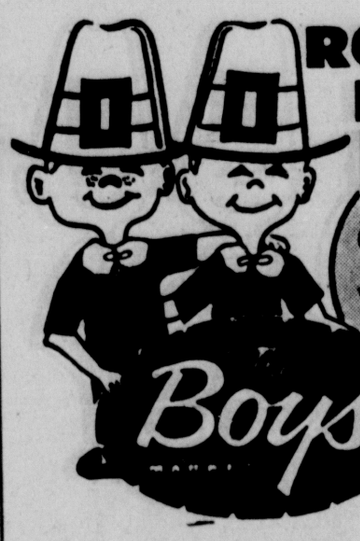

1. Fruits and high protein foods have no calories.
2. Meat burns its own calories.
3. Sugar is not as fattening as starch.
4. Toast has fewer calories than bread.
5. Meal skipping is a good way to lose weight.
6. Washing rice after cooking reduces calories.
7. Margarine contains fewer calories than butter.
8. Eating grapefruit will burn calories.
9. Obesity is due entirely to heredity.
10. Special low calorie bread should be used in reducing diets.

These are some of the fallacies. Effective weight reduction for most people can be obtained by eating a varied diet based on the Four Food Groups, but eating less.

The Four Food Groups include the milk group, meat group, vegetable-fruit group and the bread-cereal group.

Lakers move on to Houston tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — Buffalo used a swarming defense against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Tuesday night, and although Abdul-Jabbar didn't seem to mind, the style upset his teammates and the Braves triumphed 120-106 in National Basketball Association play.

The Lakers, a game and a half behind the Golden State Warriors in the NBA Pacific Division, attempt to get back on the winning track here tonight when they face the Rockets.

After the Braves' victory, Buffalo coach Jack Ramsay said of his team's defense of Jabbar, "We didn't want him shooting, so we had to have others help the man defending him."

Ramsay said, "That naturally leaves someone else open, but I'd rather have someone else shooting."

The Braves, who led 25-23 at the quarter and 53-51 at the half, dominated the second half with a balanced team effort. All five starters and reserve forward Dick Gibbs scored in double figures.

Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 38 points. He also had 12 rebounds.

Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 35 points and 16 rebounds.

"That was our best all around effort of the season," said Garfield Heard after the game. Heard pulled down 19 rebounds for the Braves and chipped in 13 points.

Laker coach Bill Sharman, whose consecutive free throw record had been broken last week by Houston's Calvin Murphy, watched the Braves go a perfect 30-for-30 from the line in their victory over the Lakers.

"Murphy got my free throw record last week and tonight Buffalo goes 30-30," Sharman said. "It's been some week."

While Sharman didn't enjoy observing the Braves sink free throws, he did think the Jabbar-McAdoo matchup was worth watching.

"He's just a great player," Sharman said of McAdoo. "Besides being such a good shooter, he's so quick. It's worth the price of admission just to see him play against Kareem."

La Verne has last chance day

It will be last-chance day for La Verne football fans Saturday.

When the Leos take on Claremont-Mudd, 14 seniors will be playing their last game. Not only will the Leopards be shooting for at least a share of their first conference title ever, but they will put on exhibit one of the better La Verne footbal teams.

When the Leos take the field to play neighboring Claremont-Mudd Saturday afternoon (1:30 p.m.), it will be the last game for some fine Leopard players.

Saying goodbye will be quarterback Randy Brown and his backup, Ricky Tedford, running backs Curtis Frick and Roy VanderKallen, center Roger Hanawalt, kickoff specialist Mark Little, Guard Brad Chapman, end Nate Northrup, tackles Dave Maestas, Grant Seiler and Gary Reynolds, tight end Rusty Jackson, wide receiver Tim Perry and defensive backs Casey O'Gorman and Gus Newson.

O'Gorman and Newson lead a secondary that has intercepted 21 passes this season including 12 in the last three games.

Seiler has been outstanding all season. As coach Roland Ortmayer puts it, "in our defense the tackles don't have a lot of chances to distinguish themselves."

Seiler, who has been moved to the weakside, has 47 unassisted tackles, 35 assists and seven quarterback sacks.

Many local players

As is usually the case with La Verne, many of the players are from the local area.

Of those graduating, Frick, Hanawalt and Northrup are from La Verne. VanderKallen is from Ontario, O'Gorman and Reynolds are from Pomona and Seiler hails from Diamond Bar.

Leo games this year have been exciting and high scoring. In their last three games, the Leopards have averaged slightly over 40 points per contest. For all nine games played, the average is 30 points.

The defense, which gave up a lot of yardage and points during the first part of the schedule, has improved considerably.

In the last two games, La Verne defenders have held the opposition to a total of 444 yards or 222 yards a game. The two opponents, Occidental and Whittier scored a total of 29 points or 14½ per game.

Meanwhile, the Leopards' offense was piling up 707 yards in the two games and scored a total of 80 points in whipping Oxy 41-19 and Whittier 39-10.

The Leos are leading the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) in passing and also possess one of the best running games.

Brown doing fine

Quarterback Randy Brown has really come into his own this year. The transfer from Cal Poly (Pomona) is passing well and has done a good job directing the Leo attack.

Brown ranks second among conference passers with 78 of 159 completions for 1,028 yards and six touchdowns in eight games (He sat out the Pomona-Pitzer game because of an injury).

Most important of all is, perhaps, the fact that he has not been intercepted in his last two games. His ball handling and faking have improved consistently and he probably reached his peak in last week's game at Whittier.

The Norco native has excellent tools at his disposal, four good receivers and two of the best running backs in the conference.

No less an authority than Dwight Hanawalt, who is in his 30th year of coaching at La Verne, says the Leos have the best running game he's seen at the school.

Frick, the bulldozing fullback, and VanderKallen, a nifty swifty at halfback, spearhead the Leopards' ground game.

Morgan is easy choice

OAKLAND (AP) — Joe Morgan says he always was his team's smallest player from Little League to the major leagues. But he won the National League Most Valuable Player award by being a "complete player."

"I think of myself as a complete player, and I've tried to combine everything into my game—hitting, fielding, stealing bases and scoring," the Cincinnati Reds' 5-foot-7 second baseman said during an interview at his home here.

"I got the MVP award because the club was having a great year and I was having a good year along with it."

As the Big Red Machine ground out pennant and World Series victories this season, Morgan hit .327, fourth in the league, and reached base safely about half the times he came to bat. His 132 walks led the league, his 67 stolen bases on 77 attempts were second, his 107 runs were fourth. He drove in 97 runs, smashed 17 home runs and 27 doubles. He capped the season with the winning hit off Boston in the seventh game of the World Series.

After being selected MVP Tuesday, Morgan said: "The thing I'm most surprised about was the margin of victory. It was the largest margin in the history of the award. That's quite an honor."

Morgan got 321½ points in the balloting, followed by Philadelphia Phillies outfielder Greg Luzinski with 154 and the Pittsburgh Pirates' Dave Parker with 120.

"The only thing that separates me from other guys with great credentials is that I do more things," he said. "Luzinski didn't run bases and steal like Joe Morgan. But on the other hand, I didn't hit home runs like he did."

Morgan's baseball career started in lower middle-class East Oakland, at the foot of the hills where he, his wife and two children now live in a fashionable home with a swimming pool.

"I was always the smallest guy on all the teams I played for, starting with Little League. But I always was the best hitter on the team, always hit more home runs and things like that," he recalls. "Size was never a hinderance to me; it just was in other people's minds. A lot of scouts used to tell me, 'You're a great little ballplayer. I wish I could sign you.'

"That never really bothered me. I always figured they were the ones who were losing, not me."

After a year at Oakland City College, Morgan was signed in 1963 by Houston for a $3,000 bonus.

"I signed with Houston because Bill (Wight, a scout) never once told me, 'You're a great little player,'" he said. "He just said, 'You're a great player and you're going to be a good big league ballplayer.'"

Eleven years later, Morgan reacted with subdued joy at receiving baseball's highest award.

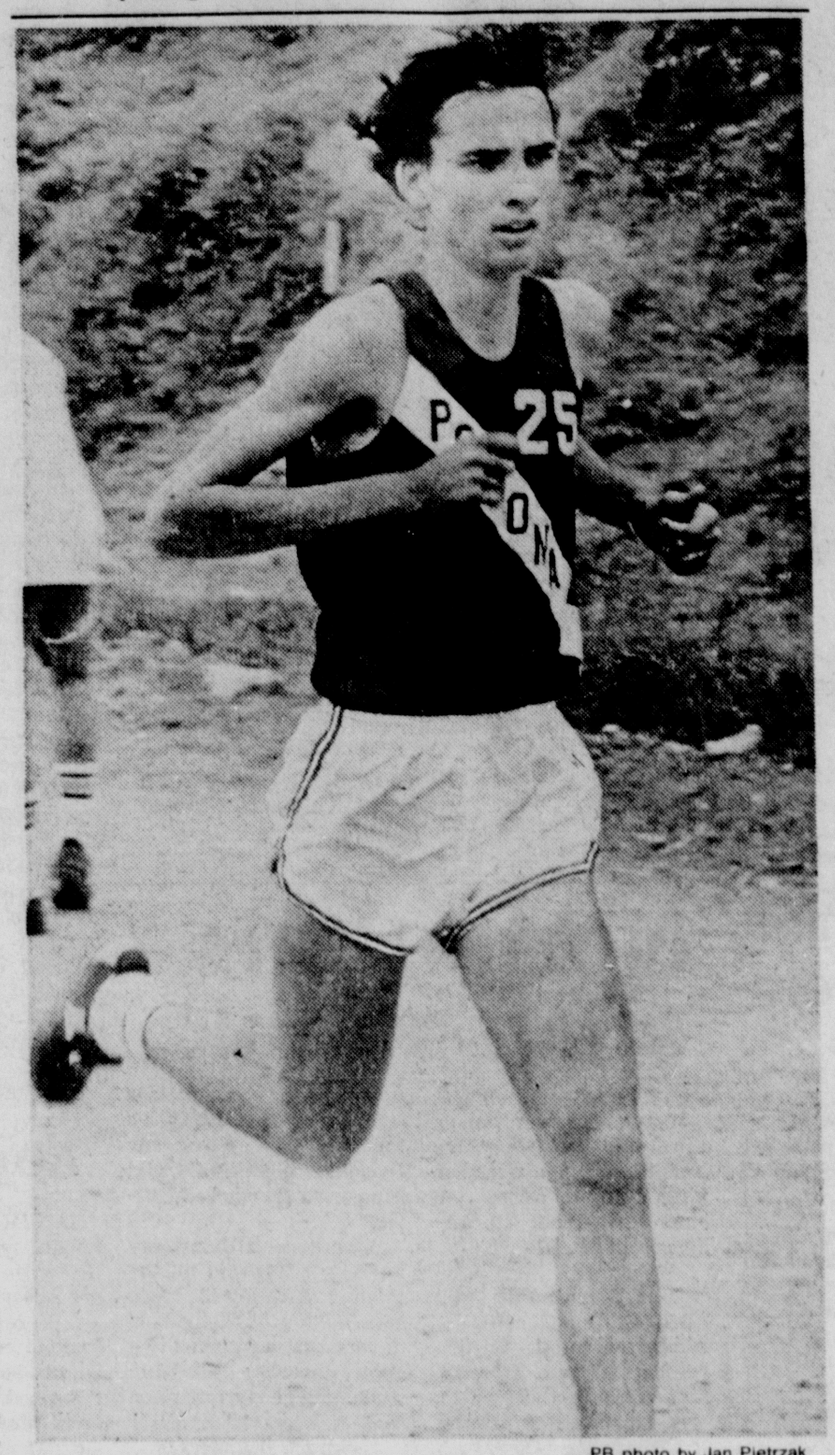

"I look at it as a team victory," he said. "Without them, the thing would not have been possible. When there was that last out in the Series, I was so happy I was fightened. I don't think any award could take the place of that."

Morgan, who admitted he was in a "bad mood" after a hectic day of taking congratulatory phone calls and news media inquiries, said: "I haven't had a chance to sit back and enjoy it (the award)."

As for the future, he said "I figure I'll play four more years then look at the situation and see if I enjoy playing as much as I do now."

He said he didn't want to become a major league manager because the travel would be hard on his family. But he said he was interested in coaching at the junior college level.

"My life will change when I quit baseball, but I'll be able to help younger kids," he said. "They'll be able to come to me and know that I know what I'm talking about."

Jets fire Winner

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Jets fired head Coach Charley Winner today, replacing him with Ken Shipp, the club's offensive coordinator, who will run the National Football League team for the final five weeks of the current season The Associated Press learned.

The action was to be announced by Phil Iselin, president of the team, at the club's Hofstra University training complex, where the club called what it termed a major press conference.

The action was taken in the wake of a six-game losing streak. The Jets are 2-7 for the season and have given up 293 points, the most surrendered by any team in the NFL.

Shipp is in his third season as receiver coach and coordinator of the Jets' offense. He is credited with the development of tight end Richard Caster and wide receivers David Knight and Jerome Barkum, key performers with quarterback Joe Namath in the Jets' pass-oriented attack.

Shipp has coached in the NFL for seven seasons, starting at St. Louis under Winner 1968 and remaining with the Cardinals until 1970 when he moved to the New Orleans Saints. He came to the Jets in 1973, in Weeb Ewbank's last year as head coach of the team.

Before coaching in the NFL, Shipp had an extensive college coaching career starting in 1951 at Middle Tennessee State.

Bengals' Ken Anderson

Just a small college kid

CINCINNATI (AP) — The experts dubbed it "The Year of the Quarterback." It was 1971 and Jim Plunkett, Archie Manning and Dan Pastorini went 1-2-3 in the National Football League draft.

Lynn Dickey, Leo Hart, Chuck Hixson and Scott Hunter were also highly regarded.

Ken Anderson wasn't.

"Not too many people wanted to take a chance on a small college quarterback," remembers Paul Brown, head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

Everyone, that is, but Brown, who dispatched his offensive strategist Bill Walsh to personally scout the young Augustana (Ill.) College signal caller.

Walsh took one look at the quiet 6-foot-2½ prospect and came back with rave reviews.

"Ken was hurt on one of the first plays of the game. He got a badly bruised hip pointer," said Wash. "He was hobbling badly and could barely handle handoff duties.

"He could have quit because it was obvious early that his team was going to lose. But he began getting stronger and had a very fine day considering everything."

Anderson had answered the biggest question in the Bengals' mind.

"He gave us clear cut evidence that he could stand up under adversity. That's a major concern when it comes to small college prospects. He had everything else we were looking for: he was big and strong, he was a clear thinker who made decisions on his feet and he had the quick release," said Walsh.

The Bengals, who were concerned over a shoulder injury to rookie quarterback sensation Greg Cook, waited two rounds—picking offensive lineman Vern Holland and Steve Lawson—then snapped up Anderson in the third round.

Anderson, the 57th player drafted, may turn out to be the best bargain in pro football since Johnny Unitas was the Pittsburgh Steelers' ninth round draft pick. Rejected by Pittsburgh, the crew-cut kid from the University of Louisville signed with the Baltimore Colts and went on to an illustrious career, accumulating more than 40,000 passing yards.

Anderson has defied the old football axiom that it takes five years to develop into a quality NFL quarterback. Currently in his fifth season, Anderson hit a record-breaking career-high of 447-yards Monday night against Buffalo, moving him within 77 yards of the 10,000-yard passing plateau.

The 26-year-old Batavia, Ill., native is attempting to become the first NFL quarterback to win consecutive passing titles since Cleveland's Milt Plum did it in 1960 and 1961.

"Before it's over, Anderson will be on top," predicts Walsh, as the Bengals prepare for Sunday's meeting with winless Cleveland.

Anderson won the NFL passing crown a year ago, completing almost 65 per cent of his aerials for 2,667 yards and 10 touchdowns. His accuracy percentage was the highest in 29 years, second only to Sammy Baugh's all-time mark of 70.3 set in 1945 when he completed 128 of 182 passes.

"Ken's development has been extremely rapid," says Walsh.

But Anderson hasn't always been a darling of Cincinnati fans. He was the target of boos in his first two years.

Johnson, Grother Players of Week

Some "firsts" figure in the Player of the Week picture in this final week of the award to the outstanding prep football players in the valley.

The offensive player to be honored this week is an offensive guard, Dick Groter of Webb School. His selection marks the first time this year that an offensive lineman has been tabbed for the award and also the first time a player from Webb has won the distinction.

The Defensive Player of the Week award goes to Scott Johnson, a linebacker for Bonita High.

Both Groter and Johnson will receive their awards next Monday at the final Progress Bulletin football luncheon of the fall. The players will be presented plaques by the Pomona Elks Lodge, sponsors of the award.

Groter was tabbed for his fine outing against Brentwood in the Gauls' final game of the year. His blocking as an offensive guard enabled the Gauls to ring up 42 points, their top point production of the season.

Groter also had a lineman's dream come true in that game, as he caught a 17-yard touchdown pass on a guard-eligible play. Groter added another TD later in the contest when, from a linebacker slot on defense, he picked off a pass and returned it 40 yards for the score.

Johnson was picked as the top defensive player for his outstanding game against Royal Oak as Bonita upset the Romans, 16-14.

The Bearcat linebacker accounted for six unassisted tackles, assisted in 16 more and made two key stops of Royal Oak rushes to deny first downs inside the Bonita 20.

To top off the evening, Johnson fell on a blocked punt in the end zone to score an important touchdown for the 'Cats in the crucial victory.

Notre Dame players backup Devine

CHICAGO (AP) — The Notre Dame football team has rallied behind Coach Dan Devine and knocked down reports that they refused to go to the Cotton Bowl because they were dissatisfied with their coach.

"It's a lie," said Devine Tuesday when reached in South Bend to comment on a story in the Washington Star which quoted an unnamed source that the players were "fed up with Devine. They don't have any respect for him as a coach. They just don't want to play football for him any more this year."

At least a half dozen players, including team captains Ed Bauer and Jim Stock, immediately backed up their coach with outspoken safety John Dubenezky calling it "a wrong story."

Devine said a week ago Monday he told his squad there would be no meeting or talk of any bowl game.

"But by Thursday it became apparent that the Cotton Bowl wanted some kind of indication as to how the players felt," said Devine. "We had a meeting and a vote was taken."

Devine said Athletic Director Moose Krause presided at the meeting and the votes were sealed and sent to Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, head of the Notre Dame athleic board. The results of that vote were not revealed. Notre Dame then suffered its third loss of the season at Pittsburgh.

"Even after we lost, there still appeared to be interest by the Cotton Bowl," Devine said. "I don't know how big but enough so that another vote was taken. As far as I'm concerned, I considered it a great compliment to the coaching staff, the team and myself that the Cotton Bowl people thought I could make a bowl representative out of our club even after losing to Pittsburgh."

The team took another vote Sunday and Bauer and Stock told Devine there was enough disagreement at that meeting that Notre Dame should not accept a bowl bid.

Meanwhile, Field Scovell, selection committee chairman for the Cotton Bowl, said Notre Dame was not invited to play in the New Year's Day game "before or after the Pittsburgh game. We made no proposition to Notre Dame. We told them they were one of four teams we were considering."

Devine said that after he heard about the story "Players voluntarily came into my office in a steady stream saying the column is not correct. Ninety-nine per cent of my players are behind me."

"Speaking for myself only," said Bauer, "It was the overwhelming fact of Saturday's game that had to be the major factor in the decision we made Sunday afternoon. Taking a poll was purely to get the sentiment of the team. There's no truth to that at all," he added in reference to the story that the team was dissatisfied with Devine.

"I can't believe anyone would say or think that," said Stock. "He's been very good to us all year and done everything he possibly can. It's very unfortunate all these rumors come up. I wish I knew the source so I could handle it."

"So would I ," said Devine, who earlier in the season was the victim of rumors that he would be fired and that former Coach Ara Parseghian would return to finish the season.

Tight end Ken MacAfee, reserve quarterback Frank Allocco, cornerback Luther Bradley and defensive back Willie Fry were among others coming to the defense of Devine.

"When I heard about it I was really surprised," said MacAfee. "My feeling is that I'm here to play football for Notre Dame. I wish we had gone to a bowl game but the vote of the team didn't come about that way so there is nothing I can do. I think everybody wanted to go but there are other factors. Some wanted to spend the holidays home and others didn't want to put in the extra two weeks work."

Dubenetzky also said he wanted to go "But not with a lot of players who didn't."

Allocco said "I can't believe anyone would make that statement. In any team discussion, that never came up at all. Everyone who voted against it had personal reasons but that was not one of them.

"A memory of our 40-6 loss to Nebraska in the Orange Bowl three years ago still lingered in the minds of some of the older players," said Allocco. "We didn't want that to happen again. With three losses, some of the players felt it might. We didn't want to embarrass the university."

Bradley said "There is no way this team voted down the Cotton Bowl becase of any resentment of Coach Devine. The reason is because of our disappointing loss to Pittsburgh. The loss seriously affected the team mentally and emotionally and without these important aspects, getting ready for a bowl game would be difficult."

Fry said "Any story which says we voted down a bowl bid because we lack faith in Coach Devine is erroneous. There were two factors in our decision. One was that loss to Pittsburgh. The other is because of injuries and the over-all fatigue of the team from the tough season."

Free throw string is over for Murphy

By The Associated Press

Calvin Murphy's streak is over, but the Buffalo Braves have started one of their own.

Murphy's National Basketball Association record string of 58 consecutive free throws was finally snapped when he missed the first of two tries during the third period, but he went on to score 19 points and help the Houston Rockets to a 95-91 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks beat the Portland Trail Blazers 101-92 and the Golden State Warrriors defeated the New Orleans Jazz 112-104.

In the only American Basketball Association game of the night, the Indiana Pacers topped the Kentucky Colonels 106-92.

Rockets 95, Cavaliers 91

Murphy's basket snapped an 87-87 tie and helped the Rockets end a 15-game road losing streak. His runningmate at guard, Mike Newlin, took scoring honors with 23 points, while Bingo Smith led Cleveland with 21.

Playing in the Coliseum may have cost Murphy his streak. The telescreen used for instant replays flickered on and off in his line of vision as he prepared to shoot in the third period, and Murphy admitted it bothered him "a little bit.

"I waited for it to stop, then missed the shot," Murphy said. "But that's no excuse—I just missed the shot. I've made free throws with a sprained wrist and the crowd booing me. It's just a matter of concentration, and I didn't concentrate enough on that shot.

"I'm sorry it's over. I enjoyed everything about it while the streak was going."

Braves 120, Lakers 106

The man who who held the record before Murphy was Los Angeles Lakers Coach Bill Sharman, and he can be excused if he doesn't look at a free hrow line for a while. "Murphy got my free throw record last week and tonight Buffalo goes 30-30. It's been some week."

Bob McAdoo scored 38 points and Garfield Heard grabbed 19 rebounds for Buffalo, but the decisive statistic was the free throw shooting, Los Angeles getting just 12 of 16. Randy Smith had 10 of Buffalo's foul shots and McAdoo eight.

Knicks 101, Blazers 92

Earl Monroe scored 28 points, but it was the play of a pair of reserves, Neal Walk and Phil Jackson, that made the difference for New York. Walk scored 15 points and had nine rebounds, while Jackson had 13 points and played some fine defense. Those two keyed a 16-4 surge in the third period that broke the game open for the Knicks.

Warriors 112, Jazz 104

Forwards Rick Barry scored 22 points and Jamaal Wilkes added 21 to pace Golden State's attack. The Warriors ripped off 10 consecutive points early in the fourth quarter for an 85-76 lead and never trailed.

Pacers 106, Colonels 92

Len Elmore equalled his career high of 23 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to lead the Pacers, who broke the game open with 15 consecutive points in the third period. Billy Knight also had 23 points for Indiana.

Red China gals score

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The national women's basketball team of the People's Republic of China has begun its five-game tour of the United States on a successful note.

Sparked by by Chang Chingyun and Shan Juijung, the Chinese moved out to a 34-22 halftime lead, then held off a late Fullerton State rally to post a 63-60 victory Tuesday night in UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Miss Ching-yun and Miss Juijung each contributed 19 points in the Chinese team's American debut, while Fullerton's Nancy Dunkle led all scorers with 22 points.

The Chinese team, moving the ball well and playing aggressive defense, led 59-48 with four minutes to play, but Debbie Ricketts reeled off six straight points and Dunkle took control of the boards to help Fullerton move within a point with slightly over a minute to play.

The Chinese then scored again and went into a stall offense to ice the victory.

The Chinese women's next stop is in Memphis Thursday, then they move to Rochester, N.Y. to meet the U.S. national team. Their final stop will be Nov. 28, when they play in New York's Madison Square Garden.

North Stars snap streak

By The Associated Press

It was team-meeting time for the Minnesota North Stars, second in futility only to Washington among National Hockey League clubs.

"We haven't been playing well," said center Doug Rombough, a master of understatement, before Tuesday night's game at St. Louis.

"We had a team meeting last night and we just decided we wanted to turn things around."

The strategy paid off in 5-1 Minnesota victory. It was only he fourth triumph for the North Stars against 13 losses, their first victory on the road since last March and it snapped a six-game Minnesota losing streak.

"It's about time," said Rombough in another understatement.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Buffalo beat the New York Islanders 3-1, California downed Pittsburgh 5-3, Atlanta and Vancouver tied 2-2 and Toronto trimmed Washington 4-2.

Bill Goldsworthy scored at 17:37 of the first period to give Minnesota a lead it never lost. Rombough poked in his first goal of the season early in the second period and added his second late in the third for the North Stars, who also got goals from rookie Tim Young and Glen Sather.

Red Berenson got the only St. Louis tally in the middle period. Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago stopped 29 Blues' shots.

"I think it was a matter of the guys getting together and getting our thoughts together," said Minnesota Coach Ted Harris.

"For once, I didn't say anything. They did all the talking. I think in other games what has happened to us is that we played two good periods and then something goes haywire on us."

Sabres 3, Islanders 1

Danny Gare and Peter McNab netted third-period goals as Buffalo continued its mastery over New York. The Sabres are 11-0-5 against the Islanders in 16 career meetings. The victory was Buffalo's 14th of the season—tops in the NHL. The Islanders have dropped four straight.

Seals 5, Penguins 3

Rookie Dennis Maruk celebrated his 20th birthday one day late with four goals for California. Maruk had just three goals in his first 20 games. Vic Hadfield, Syl Apps and Jean Pronovost connected for Pittsburgh.

Flames 2, Canucks 2

Gerry Monahan and Gerry O'Flaherty scored third-period goals to lift Vancouver into a 2-2 standoff with Atlanta. Rey Comeau and Bill Flett got the Flames' goals.

Leafs 4, Capitals 2

Bjorne Salming and Lanny McDonald scored goals 45 seconds apart in the second period to lift Toronto past Washington. The Caps have won just two of 19 games.

Logan quits at USD

SAN DIEGO (P) — Dick Logan, unable to produce the winning record of his predecessor, said Tuesday he is resigning as head football coach of the University of San Diego.

Several of the players cried when he told them of his plan after losing 18-0 at St. Mary's of Moraga last Saturday.

In his first season Logan's team won three games and lost eight but were 2-7 this year.

Andy Vinci coached the Toreros to a 9-2-1 record in 1973 before resigning to take the job at Cal Poly Pomona.

The alumni of the private school run by the Roman Catholic Church are vocal about football, and a spokesman said "there was tension" between Logan's program and the administration.

"They were going to take a look at the program and my position in it," said the former San Francisco State assistant. "I did not want to subject myself to that kind of investigation.

Logan, 37, is married and has four children.

Jenkins confident

BOSTON (AP) — You take a pitcher like Ferguson Jenkins, a 20-game winner in seven of his last nine seasons, and yoa have a man with confidence.

"No professional wants to be traded," said the 32-year-old Jenkins who had that very thing happen to him, courtesy of the Texas Rangers.

Boston is his new home, the Red Sox his new club, but he says he'd rather be working for Detroit or Montreal.

But a confident man is a logical one, and the Texas duty is behind him.

"Boston has a better ball club. I hope I can get them into the Series."

Upland runners take SAL again

Tuesday afternoon's San Antonio League cross country finals at Mt. San Antonio College produced no surprises, just another title for the powerful Upland High thinclad squads.

Coach Bob Loney's Highlander runners easily outdistanced the other seven SAL schools in team scoring. The Scots 27-point total was far ahead of second place Chino's 66. Claremont was third and Pomona fourth in the team competition.

Pomona's Barry Boettcher won the individual honors, as he toured the hilly MSAC course in a quick 10:26. Montclair's Mike Roza made a strong showing to finish second in a 10:40, while Upland's Casey Cox was third in a 10:45.

The team title for Upland marked the ninth straight year that the Scots had either won or tied for the SAL cross country title. The Scots sweetened the pot by winning the J.V. and frosh-soph races as well Tuesday, giving them a clean sweep of SAL team honors.

Five of Tuesday's top ten were from Upland, as in addition to Cox, Mark Trilevsky, Roger Innes, Scott McKeon and Mike Trilevsky all were among the top finishers.

Highlander Scott Sager won the J.V. race to pace his team's triumph, while the Scots had yet another winner, Ray Armendariz, in the frosh-soph division.

The Upland and Chino teams will now enter the CIF prelims as the SAL representatives, as will Boettcher and Roza as individual champs. Those prelims will be held Saturday at MSAC beginning at 11 a.m.

SAL FINALS at MSAC

Top ten finishers: 1. Barry Boettcher (Pomona) 10:26); 2. Mike Roza (Montclair) 10:40; 3. Casey Cox (Upland) 10:45; 4. Mark Trilevsky (Upland) 10:47); 5. Roger Innes (Upland) 10:49; 6. Team Scores: Upland 27, Chino 66, Claremont 81, Pomona 114, Ganesha 128, Montclair 152, Damien 168, Garey no score.

J.V. Scores: Upland 22, Claremont 48, Chino 88

Frosh-Soph Scores: Upland 26, Garey 66, Pomona 88.

P.C. bows in playoffs

COVINA — The Pomona Catholic girls' volleyball squad bowed out of the CIF 3-A playoffs Tuesday night as host Charter Oak downed the Spartanettes in two games, 15-9 and 15-6.

The loss ends the P.C.'s season, the locals finishing with a 8-2 overall mark.

Charter Oak will now advance in the playoffs against Los Amigos. That quarterfinal game will be played Thursday.

SAL has high hopes for playoffs

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The CIF 3-A playoffs get underway this weekend, and there are three San Antonio League coaches who are mighty happy to be a part of them.

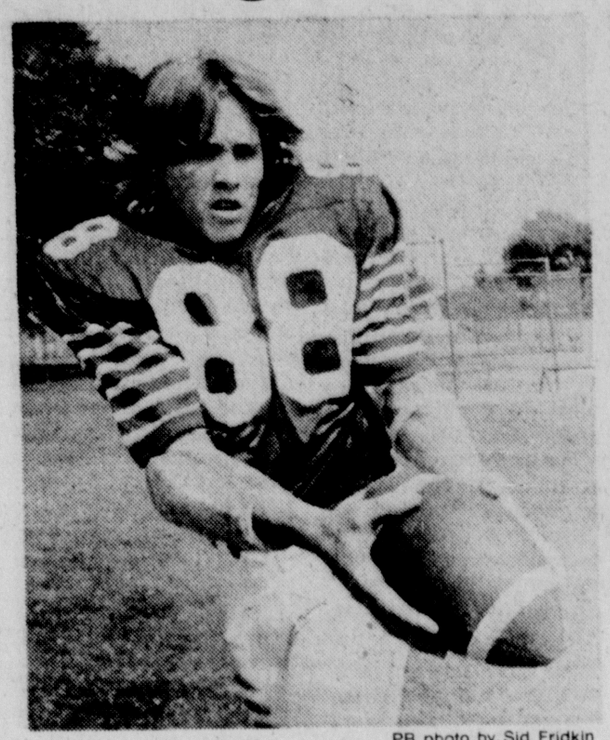

Chino, Damien and Upland will all be representing the SAL in the upcoming playoffs, and the feeling around the league is that all three are going to make tough opponents for the other 3-A entries.

"I feel that the San Antonio League will be well represented in the playoffs this year," commented Chino coach Jim Rawls. "I think some of the other leagues will be surprised at how strong the SAL was this year. The three teams we're sending have only four losses (those by a total of 19 points) and I look for all three to do real well."

Speaking of tough leagues, two of the three SAL foes this week in the opening round hail from the Ivy League. Ivy co-runnersup Arlington and Ramona will provide Damien and Chino, respectively, with rugged tests in Friday's playoff openers.

Upland drew as its opponent unbeaten La Serna, the Whitmont League champs. But Highlander coach Bob Holycross is hardly throwing in the towel at the thought of playing the powerful Whittier school.

"Frankly, I was more concerned going into the playoffs last year when we played Burroughs," Holycross claimed. "It's not that I don't think La Serna is a fine football team. I do. It's just that I feel we are an improved ball club and most of our kids have the advantage of having played in the playoffs last year."

PAT KRZYSIAK CHINO TIGHT END

The factor of playoff experience is also an important one to Rawls.

"We have three kids, Rick Riedel, Tom McClintock and Ron Janecek, who were on the team two years ago when we made the playoffs. I think that's a very valuable experience. Unless you have experienced participating in the playoffs it can really "psych-out" a kid. That's where we have an advantage."

Damien coach Dick Larson's Spartans might be expected to be a little down following last week's tension-filled loss to Chino. But Larson quickly dispels that notion.

"We had two goals into the season. One was to win a share of the SAL crown, which we did. The other was to enter the CIF playoffs, which we also accomplished. It would have been nice to finish the regular season undefeated but we have nothing to be ashamed of by losing to Chino. They are an excellent football team and were ready for us."

"I don't think the Chino loss will have any adverse effect on us," Larson continued. "We are happy to be in the playoffs and I feel it's going to take an excellent team, like Chino, to beat us."

Quizzed on how they size up their upcoming opponents, here is how the three SAL coaches responded:

Rawls on Ramona High of Riverside: "Friday's game is not going to be a picnic for either team. We have an advantage in playing at home but Ramona will give us a battle. They like to run the ball a lot and have one excellent back in Michael Warrick, who ran for over 200 yards two weeks ago when Ramona beat North.

"They have been up and down all year. They opened with a 1-3 record but wound up 6-3 on the season. However, they did not look good in their final league game against Riverside Poly, as they won that one only 7-6 over a winless Poly team.

"On the other hand, they lost only 18-14 to what I consider a very good Colton team. It's going to be an interesting and exciting game."

Larson on Arlington of Riverside: "Arlington (6-3 on the year), is a very good team and hails from a tough league. The Ivy League reminds me a lot of the SAL, anyone in that league can beat anyone else on a given night.

"Arlington has a fine coach in Sam Pecchia and I'm sure he will have his kids ready to play us on Friday.

"They were in the 2-A ranks last year and made it all the way to the quarterfinals of the CIF playoffs and have basically the same people back, so they will be a tough team to beat."

Holycross on La Serna of Whittier: "Obviously, if you go through the regular season unbeaten you are a fine football team, no matter who you played. We know that La Serna is just that, and that their record is no fluke.

"They are big and strong and remind me somewhat of Chino in our league. They play good defense and have a ball-control type of offense.

"It's going to take a super effort for us to beat them, especially when they have the home field advantage. But we can pull off an upset if we play our game and avoid the kind of mistakes which hurt us in the Damien and Chino games."

Ticket sale

Tickets for the CIF Playoff game between Chino High and Ramona of Riverside Friday night (8 P.M.) are on sale at the Chino High attendance office.

Adult tickets are priced at $2.50. Students pre-sale tickets are $1.50. (The price will be $2.50 at the game). Children under 12 will be admitted for $1.00.

H.L. teams open playoffs at home

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

All three Hacienda League co-champions will be on their home fields when the CIF 2A playoffs get under way this weekend.

Bonita High will host Sonora, Walnut will entertain Mission Viejo at Mt. San Antonio College and Royal Oak will meet Kennedy of Barstow at Charter Oak, with all kickoffs Friday at 8 p.m.

Coach Pete Lopez of Bonita is smiling for two big reasons this week: his Bearcats came up with a 16-14 shocker over Royal Oak Friday to unseat the Romans as the CIF's top-ranked 2A team and throw the Hacienda League into a three-way championship tie; and starting Bonita quarterback Sanford Coggins, who missed the Royal Oak game with a shoulder separation he suffered the week before, appears ready for Friday night's playoff game.

"We knew we were in trouble last week with our quarterback out and all, and that our defense and specialty teams would have to do the job," said Lopez. "The kids knew that, too, and they came up with the big plays."

Those big plays included a fumble recovery that led to the Bearcats' first touchdown, a Royal Oak punt blocked by defensive end Scott Sanborn that linebacker Scott Johnson fell on for Bonita's second TD and an interception that set up Steve Benoit's winning field goal.

Bonita's victory moved the Bearcats (6-3) into 18th place in the final 2A poll and dropped the Romans to seventh.

"Coggins has been throwing again and he looks good in practice," said Lopez. "He should start this week." Coggins will be joined in the backfield by two sophomore running backs, Bob Vidaure and Ralph Ortega.

Johnson, who started at fullback earlier in the year, is concentrating now on defense, where he plays "monster back" behind the Bonita line. The shift in emphasis has apparently payed off, as the 6-1, 185-pound senior was named the valley's defensive player of the week for his efforts against Royal Oak, which included six unassisted tackles and 16 assisted stops as well as the touchdown.

Coggins, a junior, leads the Bearcats in touchdowns (8), rushing yards (336) and passing yards (281), while Johnson and Sanborn head up a defense that held seven league opponents to an average of seven points per outing.

Bonita's defense will run up against a stiff test Friday in 11th-ranked Sonora, one of the most explosive teams in the playoffs.

Sonora's Raiders have averaged better than 28 points per game this year while finishing second in the Orange League with a 7-2 overall record. The La Habra-based school's only losses were to Sunny Hills, a 3A team (17-12) and to fifth-ranked El Dorado, Orange League titlist (7-6).

The Raiders posted an impressive 25-14 win over Neff, the defending 2A champion, and last week demolished league foe Esperanza, also a playoff team, by a 55-20 score.

Sonora is paced by halfback Mark Kenlon (888 yards rushing and 17 TDs), fullback Brian Greer (424 yards and 7 TDs) and quarterback Jim Porter (1,155 yards total offense and 11 TD passes).

Walnut (8-1) appears to have drawn a slightly easier first-round opponent in unranked Mission Viejo (6-3) of the South Coast League. The Orange County team finished in a three-way tie for second place with Dana Hills and University, but Mission Viejo and Dana Hills advanced to the playoffs by coming out on top of University in a coin flip.

Mission Viejo's Diablos are led by quarterback Doug Reeves, a threat running the ball, passing and placekicking. Reeves, who has 872 yards passing, narrowly missed a 51-yard field goal attempt last week.

Mustang coach Ken Gunn, who exchanged game films with Mission Viejo Sunday, called the Diablos "a good, solid ball club."

"They pass a lot more than we do," said Gunn. "I don't think they do as many things as well on defense as we do. But they seem to be a tough team that takes whatever you give them."

If the Mustangs stay true to form, they won't give the visitors much. Walnut finished the regular season as the valley's top defensive team, giving up an average of 4.9 points per contest. Gunn gives credit for his team's defensive success to balance.

"I know it sounds like the same old cliche, but it really has been a team effort," he said. Walnut's defensive leaders include safety Mark Thompson and linebacker Kevin Veselic, the squad's top tackler.

Offensively the Mustangs rely primarily on fullback Kevin Morgan and halfback Keith McDermott. Morgan, a junior, has rushed for nearly 880 yards and seven touchdowns while McDermott, a senior, has added 550 yards and nine TDs.

With Morgan and McDermott giving Walnut the ability to control the ball, quarterback Kevin Loggins has not gone to the air a great deal.

"Kevin has been throwing very well lately," said Gunn. "I think he's underrated as a passer. Obviously he'll have to throw more in the playoffs, because now we're up against the big boys."

Eight-ranked Walnut has averaged 20.9 points per outing this year, second only to Damien among the valley's offenses.

Gunn is still hoping that Alex Solorazano, who has missed four games with a virus, will be able to return to action for the playoffs.

The third Hacienda League tri-champion, Royal Oak (8-1), will face 14th-ranked Kennedy (6-2-1) third-place team from the Golden League.

Prep poloists in CIF action

Four local schools will carry the valley's hopes as the CIF water polo playoffs start this week.

Chaffey High made it into the 4-A playoffs as the Citrus Belt League champion. In the 3-A division, three San Antonio League schools qualified for the playoffs.

SAL champ Upland, runnerup Claremont and third place finisher Montclair all made it into playoff action.

Chaffey will be playing Mission Viejo High (the South Coast League's number three school) Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Cal Poly pool.

Claremont and Upland are slated to have Friday afternoon games at home, while Montclair will be on the road Friday. Claremont will host North High of Riverside, an Ivy League team. Upland will go against Loyola of Los Angeles, a squad from the Parochial League. Montclair will be visiting Rancho Alamitos, the runnerup finisher in the Garden Grove League.

Like the Chaffey contest, the three Friday games will start at 3 p.m.

2 tie for scoring honors

Two players, Gary Carr of Upland and Stanley Webster of Garey, finished in a tie for the top spot in the prep scoring derby's final week.

Both Carr and Webster wound up the regular season with 60 points to share top honors. Three players, Lloyd Jones, Mike Rees and Keith McDermott, tied for second place with 54 points scored.

In team statistics, Damien easily copped the destinction of being the top offensive team in the valley, as the Spartans scored 242 points in nine games. Walnut finished as the top defensive eleven in the area, as the Mustangs surrendered only 44 points in nine outings.

The Claremont High Girls' tennis team will begin CIF Playoff competition Thursday at Antelope Valley (1 p.m.)

Claremont won the recent SAL Girls Tennis Tournament by defeating the other schools fielding teams in a round-robin schedule. The Wolfpack blanked Montclair, Garey, Chino and Ganesha by 9-0 scores and defeated Upland, 7-2.

CIF singles and doubles competition is slated to begin Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at Chaffey High. Cathy and Karen Claussen of Claremont are the SAL's top singles players as determined in the league tourney.

The duos of Beth Bracey and Cheryl Emrich and Patty Kuchan and Linda McKeon of Upland are the SAL doubles representatives.

Pete Rose wins award

NEW YORK (AP) — Third baseman Pete Rose, who played a key role in the Cincinnati Reds' World Series victory, Tuesday was a landslide winner in the October voting for the Hickok Award.

Rose received 88 first place votes and 302 points from the panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Boston pitcher Luis Tiant, who had two victories in the World Series, was runnerup with nine first place votes and 129 points. O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills finished third with three first place votes and 82 points.

Defensive end Randy Spetman and middle guard Dave Lawson of the Air Force football team are heavyweight boxers.

Fiesta Bowl may pick Pac-8 team

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — If the Fiesta Bowl still needs a guest team after this weekend's college football games, "I think they'll come to us," Pacific-8 Executive Director Wiles Hallock said Tuesday.

UCLA, Stanford and California are tied for the Pacific-8 lead and aiming for the Rose Bowl. There may be no consolation prize.

The Pac-8 co-champion or runner-up team would be available to face the Western Athletic Conference champ, Arizona State or Arizona, in the Dec. 26 bowl game at Tempe, Ariz.

But Fiesta Bowl officials' first choice is the loser of Saturday's game between Big Eight powers Oklahoma and Nebraska. If the loser is Oklahoma, the Pac-8 will be shut out.

However, Nebraska players voted against accepting a Fiesta Bowl bid, saying they wanted the outright Big Eight title and Orange Bowl berth or nothing.

"I imagine the Fiesta Bowl would give Nebraska a chance to reconsider first, then come to us if they still say no," said Hallock, former WAC commissioner.

He sized up the conference's chances of getting three teams into bowl games—Southern Cal is headed for the Liberty Bowl—at the final weekly meeting of the Northern California Football Writers Association.

Darryl Rogers, coach of the San Jose State Spartans who stand 9-1 and own the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship, said, "We're being considered remotely by the Tangerine Bowl. But I think they're just being polite to us."

Coaches Mike White of Cal and Jack Christiansen of Stanford didn't participate in the bowl discussions. They're giving all their attention to Saturday's annual Big Game between the schools.

"This is the first time since 1937, the researchers tell me, that both teams have gone into the game still with a chance to go to the Rose Bowl," said White. "I'm proud to be a part of this game."

Christiansen said, "We're very aware of the significance of this game. Maybe we became aware of it too soon, like in the second half of the Oregon game."

The Cardinals led Oregon 26-3 at halftime last Saturday, then fought for their lives before winning 33-30 to move into the three-way first place tie with UCLA and Cal. The three Pac-8 leaders have 6-1 records.

The winner of the Cal-Stanford game, which will be played before a sellout crowd at Stanford Stadium, will have a six-day wait before finding out if it goes to the Rose Bowl. The UCLA Bruins will be the Rose Bowl team if they beat USC Nov. 28.

Cal's Chuck Muncie, the all-time leading rusher in the school's history, and San Jose State defensive end Kim Bokamper were voted the outstanding offensive and defensive players, respectively, in Northern California.

Bluejacks top Kings for first

The Spittin' Image Claremont Kings lost to the first place San Pedro Bluejacks 3-1 in a Pacific Soccer League Division II showdown last week.

Bill Pitts scored for the Kings with Bill Bryant getting the assist. The Kings finished second in the Pre-CIF round of competition.

The Division IV Claremont Stars scored a 2-0 victory over St. Stephens. Rusty Lansford and Matt Hough scored for the Stars and goalkeeper Dave Price and Jim Carey anchored the Stars' defense. The Division IV Diamond Bar Kickers defeated the South Bay Gunners 5-0. Mike Brocki scored twice and Guy Pagan, Paul Caligiuri, and Brian Mullan scored one goal each. At the halfway mark of PSL, play the Kickers are the only team to have a perfect record. In establishing their 9-0-0 record they have scored 91 goals and given up only 6.

This Saturday, action at El Roble Intermediate School will see the Division III Stars play the South Bay Vikings at noon and the Division IV Stars play the South Bay Arsenal at 1:30 p.m. The Kickers play Bellflower in an away game.

Rams use passing

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Coach Chuck Knox says his Los Angeles Rams proved against Atlanta they can pass effectively, but he doesn't say what mode of attack is expected Sunday in their National Football League game against the Chicago Bears.

"I've been with teams that have played the Bears several times," said Knox, who left an assistant coaching job with Detroit to become head man with the Rams three seasons ago.

"They have great tradition and I've never seen them play when they weren't physically tough. I think this goes back to George Halas."

The Bears come to Los Angeles with only a 2-7 record but Knox says, "They should have won another game and they played undefeated Minnesota on even terms before losing 13-9.

Knox said the Rams found Atlanta last Sunday to have a solid defense against the rushing attack "so we went to the passing early."

He added at his Tuesday breakfast session with newsmen, "I've said many times that there are a lot of ways to win a football game. In this particular case, I felt we had to throw to win."

And in beating the Falcons 16-7, the Rams used the passing combination of James Harris to Ron Jessie.

"They were double covering Harold Jackson and that left Jessie single covered much of the time," the coach explained. "Jessie was particularly effective over the middle where it takes a lot of courage. The traffic is pretty thick in there and he went up in the air to catch several passes."

Jessie caught 10 for 151 yards, the most receptions for a Rams receiver since Red Phillips caught 13 in 1961 against the Green Bay Packers.

Since Jessie joined the Rams this season after playing out his option at Detroit, Knox has changed his messenger corps. He used to send in plays with wide receivers. This season he sends them in with alternating halfbacks so Jessie and Jackson can both play fulltime.

Knox said the Bears have one of the National Football League's outstanding rookie running backs in Walter Payton, out of Jackson State. Payton gained 105 yards last Sunday against San Francisco even though the Bears lost 31-1.

"People have been double teaming Wally Chambers but he still has a fine season," the coach added. "There are a lot of good defensive tackles in the league, and Chambers is very definitely one of the best."

Chambers at 255 has 12 sacks of opposing quarterbacks out of the 28 the Bears have this season.

Physically, the Rams will be in good shape as they go into the game with a 7-2 record. Receiver Willie McGee is listed as questionable with a hip injury. Wide receiver Jack Snow, with a hip injury, linebacker Isiah Robertson with a pulled hamstring, and lineman Doug France, with rib injuries are all listed as probable.

N.C. State decides on metric system

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's tallest basketball player measures 215.26 and weighs 102.5.

Those strange figures aren't inches, feet or pounds—they're centimeters and kilograms. N.C. State took the leap this year when it published its basketball handbook for sportswriters and gave player statistics in metric and American measurements.

Ed Seaman, the school's sports information director, said N.C. State decided to do it because the metric system is coming and now is a good time to begin introducing it.

The tallest player, freshman center Glenn Sudhop, is 7-foot¾ and weighs 226½ pounds. The shortest is guard Craig Davis, who measures 5-7 or 170.82 cm. He weighs 156.7 pounds or 71.4 kg.

Another change in the handbook this year is a note at the bottom of the roster: "Heights and weights of the players listed above were taken and certified to be accurate by the Consumer Standards Division of the state of North Carolina on Oct. 14, 1975. The measurements were taken without shoes and with hair pressed down. The certifications are in the sports information office."

Bradley's column

Vanderkallen has been a triple threat man for La Verne this year. He leads the conference in scoring and is among the leaders in rushing, receiving and running back kicks.

The 5-10, 185-pound speedster has scored 12 touchdowns. Five have come by rushing where he ranks fourth in the conference (528 yards in 113 carries for a 4.7 average).

Five more have come from pass receptions (19 for 305 yards). One has come on a kickoff return (104 yards against Azusa Pacific) and one on a punt return (68 yards).

All told, "Dandy Vandy" has returned 15 punts 177 yards and 22 kickoffs for 581 yards.

Frick has been used the same way though not as extensively since he is called upon to do much of the blocking for the other backs. Ortmayer insists the burly (6-0, 195 pounds) line-smasher is the best blocker on the team.

Frick has scored nine touchdowns all by rushing. He has carried the ball 150 times and gained 610 yards (4.1 average). He has caught 14 passes for 177 yards, has returned three punts for 30 yards and five kickoffs for 154 yards (a 30.8 average).

Jackson, the 6-2, 180-pound tight end has caught 20 passes for 288 yards and two touchdowns. Ted Pedvin, the other receiver, is only a sophomore. He is third in the conference with 31 catches for 423 yards and two TDs.

It will also be the last chance for brothers Curtis and Brad Frick to play together. Since Brad is only a freshman and was hampered by an injury early in the season, he hasn't seen much action.

But he has been coming fast and it would be a great surprise if he and Curtis didn't get some playing time together Saturday. Brad has carried the ball 26 times, gained 119 yards and scored one touchdown.

The bleachers at the new football field haven't been filled yet this year. This week they should be.

Stocking plan still in doubt

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League tried again today to come up with a formula for stocking its newest franchises—Seattle and Tampa.

Representatives of the 26 NFL clubs met here 12 days ago to hammer out a plan for stocking the two new clubs but couldn't agree among themselves. Both teams begin play next season.

"This time we hope to resolve this thing," a league spokesman said Tuesday. "The expansion draft is scheduled for the middle of January and everybody wants time to get prepared."

The big problem is how many players will be put up for grabs by the established clubs, and how many draft choices the new teams will get. The NFL's more powerful teams want to hold onto their players and would rather give up draft choices. The weak clubs want to give up more players but hold onto draft choices.

"Obviously, the haves want a higher number of players frozen," the spokesman said, "while the have-nots favor a lower number."

Players for the new clubs will be stocked through a combination of the expansion draft, scheduled for the week of Jan. 18-26, and the college draft, beginning Feb. 3.

Sports briefs

SEATTLE (AP) — Ray Seales, former Olympic gold medal winner from Tacoma, Wash., will fight Chile's Renato Garcia, the South American middleweight champion, in a 10-round bout Dec. 2., Global Productions announced Tuesday.

Other 10-round matches on the card will include Mike Lankester of Renton, Wash., against Nick Peoples of Columbus, Ohio, in a middleweight fight, and Ibar Arrington of Everett, Wash., against an unannounced opponent in a battle of heavyweights.

BOSTON (AP) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett of the New England Patriots is back on the injured list with a sprained ankle and there is some question whether he will play against the Buffalo Bills Sunday, the National Football League team said Tuesday.

"Jim will be questionable for our game this Sunday in Buffalo," Coach Chuck Fairbanks said.

Fairbanks said Plunkett hurt the knee during the first half of the Patriots' 34-31 loss Sunday to the Dallas Cowboys. Plunkett was sidelined much of the season with a separated shoulder.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Tuesday they have signed Hal Smith as bullpen coach and Harvey Kuenn as batting coach for the 1976 baseball season.

Smith, 44, has been a scuting supervisor for the St. Louis Cardinals in the Houston area since 1970. He played seven years in the major leagues, most of the time with the Cards where he was a teammate of new Brewer Manager Alex Grammas.

Kuenn, who starred for the Deroit Tigers and was the American League batting champion in 1959, has been a Brewer coach since 1971.

Grammas was named recently to succeed Del Crandall, who was fired on the final day of the 1975 season.

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphins' Coach Don Shula announced Tuesday that linebacker Mike Kolen will have to undergo knee surgery, and officials said he may be out for the rest of the season.

Shula said the surgery is scheduled Wednesday in Columbus, Ga., to repair ligament damage in Kolen's left knee. Kolen suffered the injury Sunday in the Dolphins' 20-19 loss at Houston.

SEATTLE (AP) — James Edwards and Lars Hansen combined for 43 points Tuesday night as the University of Washington defeated the touring Australian National basketball team 82-61.

The Huskies led by only four points as the second half began, but quickly jumped to a 51-37 edge over the Kangaroos. Australia went nearly four minutes without a field goal until Andy Blicavs hit a jumper with 16:12 to go.

Washington had taken a 12-point lead in the first half but the Aussies came back on the shooting of Rocky Crosswhite who popped in 16 first-half points. Crosswhite paced the visitors with 18.

Edwards scored 22, including 14 in the first half, and Hansen had 21, 15 in the second half.

The Australians play tonight in Pullman against Washington State and then head south to face the six other Pacific Eight members and Brigham Young before leaving the United States for a six-game tour of the People's Republic of China.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An injured kneecap will keep Washington Bullets' guard Dave Bing out of play for only two weeks instead of two months, the National Basketball Association club said Tuesday.

A spokesman said Bing suffered a bruised bone instead of a break as was originally diagnosed.

The Bullets' playmaker collided with Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers last Saturday, and both men went down hard.

CALCUTTA, India — Second-seeded Vijay Amritraj of India rallied to a 4-6, 7-6, 6-4 comeback victory over Australia's Ray Ruffles in first round play in the Indian Grand Prix tennis championships.

JOHNANNESBURG, South Africa — Onny Parun of New Zealand, seeded sixth, advanced to the second round of the South African Open Tennis Championships with a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over South Africa's Billy Freer.

BUCHAREST — Romania's Ilie Nastase beat American Jimmy Connors 7-6, 3-6, 7-5 in a tennis exhibition match.

GLENDALE EIGHTS, Ill. — Jimmy Certain of Huntsville, Ala., averaged 228 to take the second-round lead over George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., by 57 pins in the $100,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Tournament.

No bowl for Navy

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Navy officials, citing academic conflicts as a major reason, have withdrawn the academy's name from consideration as an opponent for Miami of Ohio in the Tangerine Bowl football game on Dec. 20.

Athletic Director J.O. Coppedge informed bowl officials late Tuesday that academy practices regarding removal of athletes from classes were more stringent than at normal universities. He added that the holiday for Midshipmen would not begin until Dec. 18, two days before the game.

"Sure, I'm disappointed that Navy withdrew itself from consideration," Jeff Clark, chairman of the bowl selection committee, told the Orlando Sentinel-Star. "But we still have some good football teams available to us."

Clark said the bowl committee would probably wait until after Saturday's game to invite anopponent, rather than after its scheduled meeting Thursday.

Officials said remaining candidates are Arkansas State, 100; East Carolina, Tulsa and Virginia Tech, all with 7-3 records, and South Carolina, 64.

Squires get a reprieve

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Squires, back on their feet thanks to a last-minute money transfusion, vow they will take steps in the coming weeks to make the team a viable American Basketball Association franchise.

The Norfolk Investment Co., Inc., a 2½-year-old black business group, injected the needed money at the 11th hour Tuesday after 24 hours of frantic negotiations with original investors of the locally owned team.

Players were to be paid today, two days late, and will meet the New York Nets here tonight.

Another problem to be resolved was the hiring of a new coach. Al Bianchi was fired from that job two weeks ago.

A source close to the team said Tuesday night that the Squires' first choice for the coaching job, Denver assistant Doug Moe, rejected the offer. The source said the team's second choice was Bill Musselman, the last coach of the defunct San Diego Sails.

The Squires' indebtedness surfaced only a few days ago, and word soon leaked out that $400,000 was needed to finish the season.

Investors met here Sunday but could not raise the entire amount.

Kirk Saunders, general manager of Norfolk Investment, approached Van Cunningham, general partner and trustee of the Squires, on Monday and expressed the group's desire to make an investment.

Negotiations continued with Cunningham, who kept the offer a secret and would only tell the investors that there was a chance to save the team.

ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere said "the investors' confidence shown in the Squires and the entire ABA should cast aside any doubts about the future of the league."

If the Squires had collapsed, they would have become the third ABA team to fold this season. The San Diego Sails went out of business earlier this month and the Baltimore Claws went under shortly before the season started.

The Utah Stars and the Spirits of St. Louis also reportedly are having trouble staying afloat.

Utah owner Bill Daniels said Tuesday that he has plans for solving the team's financial problems but will know within two weeks whether he must fold the team.

Saunders will become a member of the Squires' Board of Directors.

"We've kept a low profile...we feel that with the community impact and the potential for a strong, sound financial enterprise . . . that our investment is sound," he said.

Saunders would not divulge how much the group had invested, but sources put the amount at close to $200,000.

Saunders said he believed it was the first time black businessmen have made a substantial investment in professional sports.

"We're offering a very unique situation," he said. "It's probably something that hasn't been done anywhere in the entire country," he said.

Saunders told a news conference Tuesday that the Squires' management would consider attempts in the future to obtain other players but said there were no immediate plans to make trades.

The Squires, now 1-12, have been hampered by injuries to three key players—All-Stars Mack Calvin, Mike Green and Dave Twardzik.

Penguins lead hockey league

The undefeated Penguins will play the Canadiens in tonight's second game of the Ontario Hockey Association at the Ontario Ice Bowl.

In the 8:30 p.m. opener, the Kings will play the winless North Stars. Friday's action has the second-place Bruins meeting the third-place Flyers.

The Penguins enjoyed a 12-2 victory over the Kings last week while the Bruins beat the Canadiens, 5-3, and the Flyers whipped the North Stars, 12-6.

Don Berry led the Penguins with eight goals followed by Ron Constantine with two and one apiece by Phil Williams and Ron Kennedy. Ralph Aragonez and Jerry Letoff scored for the Kings. The Penguins took 57 shots while goalie Mario Castellanos had 25 saves.

The Bruins jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the first period and held on. Pete Wienberg scored twice for the Bruins with Tim Heitman, Scott Parslow and Bob Branson adding one apiece. Rick Spaich, Ta Bachki and Jack Caswell accounted for the Canadiens' goals.

In another rout, Vince Nuskin had nine points for the Flyers in the easy win over the North Stars. Pete Mello added seven points for the winners while Mike Conover and Bob Catanzano had six apiece for the North Stars.

The Flyers took 68 shots while goalie John Garner had 21 saves.

1974 WINNER — Bobby Allison, in the AMC Coc a-Cola Matador is shown leading the 1974 Times 500 at OMS. Allison won the event and will defend his championship Sunday.

Allison on hot streak

For Bobby Allison, Sunday's Times 500 Grand National stock car race at Ontario Motor Speedway is something special.

He will return to the 2.5-mile oval as the defending champion of the $150,000 race, the finale in the 1975 Winston Cup Series.

Not only that, but Bobby is on a California hot streak, having won four major races here in the past 13 months.

"You're always fond of any place where you can win," says the Hueytown, Ala. native, who has also won two legs of the International Race of Champions and a Grand National event at Riverside since October of 1974.

In last year's Times 500, Allison won a torrid battle with Richard Petty, A.J. Foyt, David Pearson and Cale Yarborough. There were more than 100 unofficial lead changes in one of the most exciting races ever staged on the West Coast.

"I think the race will be even more competitive this year," he says. "Benny Parsons and Dave Marcis have been driving real well and there's a bunch of other guys capable of winning the Times race."

Allison has won three Grand National races in '75, bringing his career total to 46, seventh best in the history of NASCAR.

"We've had a successful season," admits Allison, "but I'd like to have won more than I have.

"With us this year, we've mostly been concerned about engine endurance. We've had pretty much everything together. We've been able to go fast and the car (Matador) has handled well. Unfortunately, we've had quite a bit of engine problems.

"Hopefully, we can have the engine stay together all day and run as well as we've been running and we'll be in good shape," he says.

The 37-year-old veteran is one of stock car racing's millionaires, having reached that plateau in 1974. He has earned more than $100,000 again this season for the sixth consecutive year.

He is one of the few regulars on the NASCAR circuit who competes in other forms of racing. He campaigns for Roger Penske in some of the big USAC races such as the Indianapolis 500 and the California 500.

"Racing is a challenge I enjoy," says Bobby. "I feel if a race car driver is good, he can win with good equipment in any kind of competition. I really like different kinds of racing."

Allison, Penske and the Matador will be back to show how much they enjoy racing at Ontario on Nov. 23.

Tickets for the race are available at Ontario Motor Speedway, the Times Special Events department and all Ticketron and Mutual agencies.

Southland racing

ONTARIO — Inspection and practice for Sunday's Times 500 will be held Thursday at Ontario Motor Speedway. Practice will continue Friday morning and qualifications determining the first 10 spots in the starting grid are slated Friday afternoon.

Saturday's activity includes practice in the morning and qualifying for the final 30 places in the afternoon. The 500 is scheduled to begin Sunday at 11 a.m.

* * *

IRWINDALE — Record crowds are turning out at Speedway 605 to see the west coast's top drivers in late model stock cars in action.

Saturday's competition will be highlighted by a 35-lap feature plus the awarding of the KWOW "Heavy Chevy" to some lucky fan. Action begins at 7:30 p.m.

Limited and Street Stocks combine in double feature racing Sunday at 2 p.m.

* * *

IRWINDALE — Fun and Grudge the regular Wednesday feature, is on tap tonight at Irwindale Raceway from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The regular CMC motocross show winds up the season Friday night. All CMC classifications and divisions including professionals will run. Racing begins at 7:30 p.m.

E.T. Bracket racing is spotlighted Saturday. Entries close at 6 p.m. Eliminations begin at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

MOORPARK — Fourthround action in the Autumn Motocross Championship is slated Sunday at Valley Cycle Park in MoorPark. An expected started field of 200 including professionals will go at it for cash and brass beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Muncie voted top athlete

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chuck Muncie, the University of California's all-time leading running back, was named Northern California Athlete of the Month Tuesday.

Muncie surpassed Johnny Olszewski's Cal record during October and has more than 3,000 yards rushing for his career with one game remaining this football season. He ran for more than 200 yards in an October victory over Oregon.

The monthly award is made by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

LV driver to defend title

IRWINDALE — Newly-crowned CRA Sprint-Car driving champion Bobby Olivero of Lakewood and defending Thanksgiving Grand Prix winner Danny McKnight of La Verne are the first entries for J.C. Agajanian's 35th annual 100-lap USAC Midget Grand Prix race, Thanksgiving Night, Nov. 27th at Speedway 605 in Irwindale, Calif.

Agajanian inked the two red-hot young driving stars over the weekend, for the oldest auto-racing event in Southern California. This year's race has been moved to Speedway 605, when Ascot Park was closed early last month. It started at Gilmore Stadium in Hollywood in 1934.

Just last Saturday night Olivero wrapped up the coveted California Racing Assn. driving title with a fourth-place finish in the 30-lap CRA sprint-car feature at South Bay Park Speedway in Chula Vista. This allowed him to edge Rick Goudy of Norwalk for the title.

Besides winning the CRA crown, Olivero has scored three USAC Midget wins this year. He did this in only nine starts, out of the 44 races run this season. They were at the San Jose Speedway, and twice at the Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino, in his LTC Research V-W special.

Rumors have Olivero moving to a ride at Indianapolis next year. He drives the "Tamale Wagon" for the Morales Bros. of Anaheim, and could be the replacement for the late Jimmy Caruthers in the team's Indy car.

McKnight surprised the racing world by winning last year's 100-lap Turkey-Night Grand Prix at Ascot. As he will this year, he has a teammate of Olivero in that race, and took the lead when Olivero's motor blew. They will pilot a pair of LTC Research V-W-powered cars from Costa Mesa.

Other early entries are Danny O'Neill of Saratoga, runner-up for the BCRA Midget championship in 1974 and '75; Buddy Irwin of El Toro; Steve "Chunky" Koster of Yucaipa, and Johnny Hawley of Corona.

Agajanian expects more than 60 of the nation's top drivers to be on hand when racing starts at 8:30 p.m. on the ½-mile paved oval. This includes several Indianapolis-500 veterans.

A MAJOR WINNER

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado State senior Willie Miller led all major collegians in receiving yardage last season and set a new national record with 22.5 yards per catch. The 27-year-old Miller served two of his five and a half years in the Army in Vietnam. He won a Soldier's Medal and Silver Star.

Four Colleges Players

'Homecoming' to be staged

Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming," the story of a young woman trying to survive in a household of men, will be performed Friday through Sunday by the Four Colleges Players of Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps colleges.

The play will be at 8 p.m. in Avery Auditorium at Pitzer College. Admission is $1.

Directed by Pitzer student Susan Obrow, "The Homecoming" has been described as a "theater of cruelty" in which Pinter develops his themes using humor and a sense of the ominous.

The action occurs when Teddy, a successful college professor living in America, returns to London to visit his lower middle-class all-male family.

"I chose this play because the character of Ruth (Teddy's wife) is so powerful," said Miss Obrow. "She is brought into an animalistic, male-dominated household, but unlike Teddy, she feels comfortable, knows how to survive."

Evanne Christian, a Scripps senior from Anaheim, has been cast as Ruth. Claremont Graduate student Doug Taylor will play the aloof and intellectual Teddy.

Other members of the family include Max, the father, a 71-year-old butcher played by Pitzer senior Michael Rosenzweig; Max's inept brother Sam, played by Steve Cotton, a Claremont Men's College junior; and Teddy's younger brothers, Joey and Lenny, played respectively by Pitzer students Peter Acosta and Mark Williams.

Jesse Swan, professor of drama at the four colleges, will be supervising director for the production. Rob Stone, Claremont Men's College freshman, will be stage manager and Stan Ransam, a recent graduate of CMC, will be technical director. Other members of the technical crew include Perry Jamieson, drama assistant for the Four Colleges Players, and Bruce Bidlack, Harvey Mudd senior who will be the lighting designer.

"THE HOMECOMING" — Rehearsing a scene from the Harold Pinter play, Four Colleges Players Michael Rosenzweig and Evanne Christian watch as Mark Williams, playing Lenny, checks the health of old Sam, played by Steve Cotton.

West End opera's presentation of 'La Traviata' commendable

The West End Opera Association opened its 11th annual season Saturday evening in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, with a brave and commendable new production of Verdi's "La Traviata."

I use the word "brave" advisedly, for having followed close on the heels of the New York City Opera's performance of the same work at the Los Angeles Music Center, the West End company has naturally subjected itself to unflattering comparison But a commendable performance it certainly was.

It was more interesting to me to compare this current production with the previous "La Traviata" given by the West End Opera Association in 1969 to see where this ambitious young community organization is going.

Musically, the orchestra, being now composed primarily of union musicians, was definitely improved. Maestro Charles Ross Perlee apparently knows what he wants, and though his flamboyant conducting would indicate that he has to work too hard to get it, the important thing is that he does, and "bravo."

The chorus directed by William L. Waggener, even though it seemed smaller than previously, was well trained and balanced nicely with the other segments of the ensemble. However, a larger chorus would have added more excitement and interest to the ballroom scenes.

Members of the Valley Concert Dance Theater of Pomona under the direction of Robyn Whitney and Jo Ann Warner added a definite sparkle to Act III. Sparkle, unfortunately, was missing from the sets which were less imaginative than previously. A crystal chandelier would have done much to illuminate an out-of-character painting hung too high on the wall for any but a giraffe's perusal.

The costumes, especially those worn by the principal ladies of the cast and the chorus in the Parisian drawing rooms were excellent — resplendent in feathers and bows.

In Verdi's original score the opera was three acts with two scenes in Act II. Perlee's version billed the opera as a four-act opera. The revision presumably was done to facilitate scenery changing, but the change somewhat weakened the thought continuity of the plot.

Carol Anne Powell, lead soprano, fulfilled her difficult assignment as Violetta, the fabled "Lady of the Camillias" admirably well with Burl Dean Smith, experienced Riverside tenor, as Alfredo, giving her the vocal and dramatic support in their duets which were beautifully sung.

Silvio Barto as Germont, father of Alfredo, created an aristocratic character with his rich baritone voice. Accolades of praise go to Sallyane Bachman whose natural acting ability and most pleasant soprano voice made her a brilliant Flora. Minor roles were handled capably by Richard Williams, Emily Bryla, Phil Moedt, Jean Paul Lavoie, Geoffrey Lamb, Jack Katzman, John Gaglio, Elly Bleeker and Flo Powell.

The West End Opera Association under the present chairmanship of Mrs. Gesare Vai "is alive and well in the West End" and deserves our enthusiastic support.

Brahms quintet slated

The Brahms Piano Quintet in F Minor will be presented at Citrus College at 1 p.m. Thursday and at 8 p.m. Friday in the Horton Choral Room 133 of the Music Building.

Performers of this work, all of Glendora, are Betty Shaw, violin; Kevin Kobus, violin; David Stenske, viola; Paul Kraght, violoncello; and Frank Maghocco, piano.

Largest park

The world's largest park is the Wood Buffalo National Park in Alberta, Canada (established 1922).

Jazz saxophonist to present concert

John Klemmer, jazz saxophonist and composer, will appear in concert Friday at 7:30 and 10 p.m. at Cal State Fullerton's Zachariah's Coffeehouse.

Klemmer began his career at the age of 16, playing sax with the Ted Weems Dance Band in Chicago. While there, he recorded five albums for Cadet Records.

He later moved to Los Angeles where he studied motionpicture soundtrack recording and performed with the Don Ellis Orchestra and the Oliver Nelson Septet.

Klemmer then signed with ABC Records where he recorded five albums. Also an accomplished composer, he has written such songs as "Lost in Love" for Freda Payne.

The team of Baum and Esten from the Comedy Store in Hollywood will be on the bill with Klemmer.

Columnist-villain target of Project Mudhen by the CIA

WASHINGTON — Deep within the Central Intelligence Agency, locked in one of its super-secret, three-way combination safes, is the story of an illegal operation.

It was a CIA farce, an exercise in domestic devilry, a Mack Sennett comedy come true. It was called Project Mudhen.

I was the villain in this bit of CIA hilarity. It began over my access to information which the CIA had intended for the President, not for me.

The CIA's top snoops were particularly upset over a series of columns I wrote in late December, 1971. The most urgent of them warned that the Soviets had threatened to intercept a naval task force, which the U.S. had sent into the Bay of Bengal during the India-Pakistan war.

In another column, I wrote that the strongman we were backing in Cambodia, Lon Nol, was "a sick man, both physically and mentally." U.S. officials were worried, I reported, about his "haphazard, out-of-channel and ill-coordinated conduct of military operations."

I also wrote a Christmas Eve column, describing in discomforting detail the threat to the peace in the Holy Land.

Not long after the New Year, the CIA began a search for my sources. A staggering total of 1,566 CIA employes were grilled, without a single confession or clue.

Finally, on Feb. 15, 1972, the CIA out of sheer desperation placed me under surveillance. Twenty CIA heavies, laden with binoculars, walkie-talkies, secret cameras and other James Bond paraphernalia, followed me around the country and photographed people entering my office.

Three stakeout cars were strategically deployed around my house, like a scene from a TV mystery, ready to tail me whichever direction I headed.

These cloak-and-daggger routines happen to violate the law, which restricts the CIA to foreign operations. The CIA is also supposed to chase spies, not newspaper columnists.

Project Mudhen, therefore, became one of the CIA's deep, dark secrets, in the same category as assassinations, burglaries and other extrajudicial doings.

The project got its code name, I presume, because the mudhen is noted for rooting around in the mud and for its obstreperous clacking when riled. But I am mystified by the personal code name assigned to me, "Brandy," since I am a notorious teetotaler.

For the next few weeks, I was accompanied far and near by my CIA shadows. They rushed with me on March 15 to catch the shuttle plane to Newark, N.J., where some conspiratorial-looking youths hustled me into a car and drove me along backroads to South Orange.

But my CIA escorts were disappointed. The circuitous route was taken to avoid traffic. For all their breathless trailing, they got to hear me deliver a lecture at Seton Hall University.

The situation became more hilarious when CBS chose this same period to film a TV report on my activities for the show, "Sixty Minutes." For several days, CBS cameramen followed me around, with the CIA cameramen, presumably, not far behind. The result must have been a bewildering ring-around-a-rosy.

But for the CIA, the most traumatic event occurred on March 17 when I had a luncheon meeting with the then CIA director, Richard Helms, at the Madison Hotel in Washington. Helms' purpose was to persuade me to drop certain lines of inquiry that might create security problems.

But this required him to explain, unhappily, what secret national applecarts might be upset. At Project Mudhen, therefore, the forthcoming encounter was viewed with grave alarm. The CIA, assuming I might do unto them as they were doing unto me, feared I would come to the luncheon rigged up with concealed bugging equipment.

I am not privy to what electronic countermeasure the CIA took, except that it was elaborate. Apparently, Helms was rigged with sophisticated electronic equipment capable either of detecting or neutralizing my non-existent recording device. A CIA technician, I understand, manned the dials in a nearby mobile unit or hotel room.

At the appointed hour, Helms faced me across the table, confident of his superior wattage. Relaxed and unfettered, he made an effective pitch, and I agreed to cooperate.

By late March, strategic sources tipped me off that I was being followed and helpfully provided me with the license numbers of the stakeout cars. I unleashed my nine children to initiate their own surveillance of the surveillants. My junior sleuths not only located the cars but photographed them.

On April 3, 1972, the men with binoculars ceased their vigil, perhaps demoralized by the counter-snooping of my Katzenjammer paparazzi.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1975. There are 42 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address.

On this date —

In 1497, the Portuguse navigator, Vasco da Gama, discovered the passage of India around Africa's Cape of Good Hope.

In 1794, the United States and Britain signed the Jay Treaty, adjusting issues that were not settled in the Revolutionary War.

In 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the World War I Treaty of Versailles.

In 1954, it was announced that the U.S. would build a radar warning system across arctic Canada.

Ten years ago: A federal jury in Washington fined the American Communist Party $230,000 for failng to register with the government as an agent of the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Vatican pledged support for a U.N. 10-year plan to narrow the economic and social gap between the rich and poor nations of the world.

One year ago: President Ford, who was in Tokyo, proposed that the U.S. and Japan show the world how to deal with the new difficulties of inflation and recession.

Today's birthdays: India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is 58. Television personality Dick Cavett is 39.

Thought for today: There is no sadder sight than a young pessimist, except an old optimist — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Gen. George Washington said two marine battalions should not be raised from his forces at Cambridge, Mass., but in New York and Philadelphia, where, he said, there were many sailors out of work.
